Coliseum, State Fair, Springfield, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Illinois Republicans led the way today in re-forming and revitalizing the party of Lincoln for the task of sweeping the New Deal Democrats from power in state and nation in the elections of the next two years.

The importance of this gathering, the greatest in the history of the party for many years, was signalized by the presence of Henry P. Fletcher, national Republican chairman, who delivered a "keynote" address which is considered of great significance in the national political situation. It was in a sense a contest for attention against the President on his passage through Illinois.

Harmony Prevails.

In a temperature around 112 degrees, under a canopy of American emblems, the 2,030 delegates and their thousands of guests sweltered throughout this day in the ovenlike Coliseum. If anything it was hotter outside than in. Every shirt was a wringing wet garment. All factions were melted into harmony. There were no fights. No protests against the "Old Guard." No back room decisions. It was a businesslike, energetic convention, presided over by Justus L. Johnson, state chairman.

Singing and waving American flags at every provocation in a long day of speeches, the delegates welcomed Mr. Fletcher with enthusiasm when he entered the hall at 4 p. m. Mr. Johnson and Y. U. Bailey, president of the Illinois Republican association, escorted him into the hall. The chair was in charge of C. Wayland Brooks, temporary chairman, who had previously made a rousing speech calling upon Illinois to "stand fast against the 'new imperialism'" of the New Dealers.

Fletcher Makes Address.

The crowd sang "Illinois" just before Mr. Fletcher took the platform. The national chairman said that Illinois, the home and last resting place of Lincoln, in a distinctly American community where the American virtues of self-respect and independence have always prevailed, is an appropriate place to stage a popular movement back toward independence.

"American liberty," he said, "should not be sold even to one's government. The morale of our people is being undermined and destroyed by the New Deal. Millions of people, amongst them farmers, are being lured and seduced into dependence upon the government for their living."

He concluded that Illinois was a good place to call attention to the "dangerous road" that the New Deal is traveling, a road that has running through it a principle "like a red sinister thread."

Chairman Given Ovation.

Mr. Fletcher was introduced by Mr. Johnson as the bearer of a message which the west had long been waiting for. The chairman received a new ovation as he stood in the flag draped box, alert and smiling, gray haired and keen. He began with a restatement of his position on national expenditures, insisting that the New Deal has cost to date seven billion dollars.

His second topic was the AAA. He said the farmer is just as bad off today as before that experiment began, therefore, why continue it? The NRA, he declared, has strangled the AAA. It has, moreover, introduced a principle of government control that is alien to our form of government. He showed how this may transform the farmer into a serf of the feudal ages. He suggested that the Blue Eagle in business is no more important than a black crow in the AAA.

"Why not have the black crow—the emblem of scarcity and crop reduction—for agriculture?" he asked.

Makes Attack on New Deal.

He lashed the New Deal as follows: "There is absolutely no difference between the New Deal philosophy and the philosophy of the soviet government."

He compared the platform promises of the Democratic party and the promises of the candidates with what has been done. He closed with a new creed for the Republican campaign which states that "There is no substitute for the United States constitution and its guarantees of liberty.

"There is no substitute for sound money. There is no substitute for pub-

U. S. WILL SEIZE SILVER BY ORDER OF ROOSEVELT

Debtors Are Aided, Others Hurt by Act.

Markets Spurt

Stock and commodity markets rose sharply yesterday following President Roosevelt's nationalization of silver. Trading in silver was suspended on the New York commodity exchange. Details, with text of the President's order, will be found in the financial section.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The American dollar started on another toboggan today as President Roosevelt ordered the seizure of all monetary silver in the nation.

Inflation of the currency is the logical next step and in the markets of the country this news started prices zooming.

Prices zoomed even in the stock market, over which a pall had been spread by the bearishness of President Roosevelt's speech today at Green Bay, Wis. Mr. Roosevelt defied those of his advisers who pleaded for a message of confidence to American business; his address presaged instead a tightening of the halter of federal control over agriculture, finance, and industry.

Inflation Fear Boosts Prices.

The fear of inflation, of deliberate cheapening of the dollar, sent prices rising. Joyous ones today were the big debtors and owners of silver mines, who see their star of prosperity returning. Saddened were the creditors, individuals, banks, insurance and philanthropic agencies, holding billions of securities and loans. Saddened also were the frugal, whose savings will dwindle as the value of the dollar is beaten down.

The United States government, under today's orders by President Roosevelt "nationalizing"—which is a euphemism for commandeering—takes over all monetary or bar silver existing in the country as of today. This does not include silver coins, nor processed silver, such as household wares.

Each individual or concern also is permitted to withhold not more than 500 fine troy ounces, but only "for industrial, professional or artistic use," or "unmelted scrap silver and silver sweepings."

Must Be Taken to Mints.

Silver must be delivered to government mints and assay offices within 90 days, and failure to surrender it will be punishable by confiscation of the silver and an added penalty or fine of twice the value of the silver withheld. Just as in the case of gold, citizens will be required to present to the government a handsome profit growing out of this monetary experimenting.

The amount of silver affected is estimated to reach 250 million ounces. For this silver the government will pay, according to the new orders, 50.01 cents an ounce, or roughly 125 million dollars. Immediately, under the silver purchase act passed by the last congress, the treasury will be authorized to value that silver at $1.29 an ounce, and issue silver certificates on that basis.

Thus the government will have authority to issue paper currency, backed by the sequestered silver, to the extent of 322 million dollars, although it cost the government only 125 millions. The treasury's profit would be 197 million dollars.

How Government Will Profit.

In receiving the silver the treasury will pay out to those surrendering it silver certificates at the rate of 50.01 cents an ounce. A bit of governmental chicanery is behind this, for the executive order specifies that the rate paid shall be $1.29 per ounce, but to bring it down to what the government decrees it will pay a seignorage or coinage fee of 61 3-25 per cent. Of course, the cost of coinage is infinitesimal compared to this fee, which simply allows seizure of that percentage of the silver surrendered.

Signed Before Vacation.

The official proclamation is understood to have been signed by President Roosevelt before he left on his vacation, and by its language it becomes effective when countersigned by the secretary of state. Cordell Hull signed it today. That the measure is subject to change or modification is asserted by this:

"Notice is hereby given that I reserve the right by virtue of the authority vested in me to revoke or modify this proclamation as the in-

THE PRESIDENT'S NEW ORDER NATIONALIZING SILVER EXPLAINED

President Roosevelt's order nationalizing all silver in the United States will have no immediate effect upon the average citizen. It provides for the surrender to the government of all silver bullion and bars within 90 days. The order does not apply to silver coins, silverware, bric-a-brac, antiques, golf cups, and suchlike.

The government will pay 50.01 cents an ounce for the metal it obtains, and as no one else may buy, trading in silver futures on the commodity exchange has been suspended. Newly mined domestic silver will still be purchased by the treasury at 64½ cents an ounce.

Nationalization is part of the silver program enacted at the last session of congress. It is the intention of the government to obtain a sufficiently large supply to make up 25 per cent of the metal backing of the national currency.

As there is not enough silver in this country to carry out this program, the metal will have to be purchased in the world market, and large imports will probably be taken from India and China.

The move is regarded in Wall street as mildly inflationary in that currency or bank deposits will be increased as the treasury pays for silver now held by individuals or banks.

Leo Wormser, Attorney, Dies as Auto Skids

Leo Wormser, 50 years old, Chicago lawyer, who was personal attorney for the late Julius Rosenwald, was killed last night near Reed City, Mich., when an automobile driven by his daughter, Elaine, 22 years old, overturned on U. S. highway 131. The young woman was uninjured.

Mr. Wormser and his daughter were driving from Chicago to Charlevoix, Mich., to visit Mr. Wormser's mother, Mrs. Frida Wormser. The accident happened six miles north of Reed City, which is 100 miles from Charlevoix.

Their automobile suddenly came upon another parked beside the road, according to Sherif Harvey E. McCord of Osceola county. Miss Wormser swerved out to avoid this car, thinking it was about to back onto the road. Her machine skidded and struck the earth at the side of the road. It turned over and crashed into the ditch.

Thrown From Car.

Mr. Wormser, thrown from his seat, suffered a broken neck and died instantly.

Sherif McCord, hurrying to the scene, found Miss Wormser standing beside the overturned car, uninjured, but dazed. He took her to the Community hospital in Reed City, where she was treated for shock and minor cuts and bruises.

After the young woman left the hospital she described the accident to the sherif and then went to a Reed City hotel. She was reported later to be returning to Chicago on a Pennsylvania train with her father's body.

Active in Civic Affairs.

For a number of years Mr. Wormser had been associated with many of Julius Rosenwald's projects in Chicago. He was secretary of the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park, a trustee of the Adler planetarium, and a director of the Jewish Charities.

A native Chicagoan, he was graduated from Armour Institute of Technology and Harvard law school. He was a partner in the law firm of Rosenthal, Hamill & Wormser, and at one time he was a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago law school. He lectured there on "Drafting Legal Documents."

Mr. Wormser and his widow, the former Helen E. Goldsmith of Cincinnati, were active socially. The family residence is at the Drake Towers, 179 Lake Shore drive. Mr. Wormser was a member of a number of Chicago clubs.

Miss Elaine is the Wormsers' only child.

OAK PARK POLICE BEATEN IN COURT ON BEER DELIVERY

Oak Park police will respect a temporary injunction issued yesterday by Superior Judge Joseph B. David restraining them from interfering with beer deliveries of the Blatz Brewing company, which got the restraining order, Village Clerk Harry N. Leadaman, acting president in the absence of Willis McFeely, said yesterday. Representatives of other breweries who attempt deliveries, however, will be arrested, Mr. Leadaman said.

The injunction was obtained after the Oak Park police had arrested Blatz company drivers delivering beer purchased outside the village. In granting it, Judge David ruled that the village ordinance prohibiting such deliveries was in conflict with the state liquor law and therefore void.

Electrocute Mother of 3 and Two Men

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Shortly before 11:30 o'clock tonight a wail went up from the 2,200 prisoners in Sing Sing prison. Somehow, mysteriously, they knew that the electric chair had functioned again, its victim this time a woman.

Twice again 2,200 volts were sent through the bodies of two men convicted of murder with the 28 year old mother who preceded them. Afterward the three bodies were hustled into trucks to be carried away. The woman and the two men had paid for the murder of an Italian peddler, the woman's husband.

Mrs. Anna Antonio, mother of three children, walked one hundred steps to the chair. Officials had feared that she would collapse, but she summoned courage at the last moment and did not falter on the death march. She muttered prayers as the straps were fastened around her, the mask placed over her head. Then the current was sent through her body and she was pronounced dead by the attending physicians.

Son Brought to Her.

Throughout the day she had maintained a faint hope that clemency would be extended her by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman. But when her 3 year old son, Frank, was brought to her an hour before the scheduled time for the electrocution she resigned herself to her fate.

Unaware of the doom approaching his mother, the child complained that he had lost a rubber ball. Mrs. Antonio gave him an apple with which to play. She was tearless when the boy was taken from her.

The other two children had seen their mother yesterday. Today was the seventh birthday of one daughter, Marie, who was to have had a party if news of a reprieve was received at the prison. But Marie went to bed tonight without her birthday party.

All three children, the oldest Phyllis, 9 years old, are in an institution at Albany.

Refuses Food and Water.

The first woman to die in the electric chair since Ruth Snyder, six years ago, Mrs. Antonio spent her last hours moaning softly to herself. She refused all food and water and prayed before a crucifix standing on a little table in her cell in back of a lighted candle.

Her attorney, Daniel H. Prior, had been unsuccessful in last minute attempts to obtain clemency from Gov. Lehman.

When it was apparent that there was no further hope Warden Lewis Lawes ordered the final preparations made. The bulky death chair was put in place and its straps and electrical connections made ready. Mrs. Antonio's head was shaved so that the head clamps might fit perfectly.

Warden Lawes Officiates.

Warden Lawes, who is opposed to capital punishment, officiated at the electrocution of Mrs. Antonio and her two accomplices, Vincent Saetta and Sam Feraci. White-faced and nervous, he gave the orders for the sending of the electric current through the three bodies. Obviously unstrung, he hobbled on a cane from the execution chamber afterwards.

Mrs. Antonio was taken to the chair first because of the warden's theory that she should not be subjected to the torture of seeing the two men go before her. To the priest who accompanied her on the march her last words, spoken as if in a trance, were: "Take care of the children."

Then she settled herself firmly in the big chair, betrayed no emotion as the straps were placed around her, and was murmuring prayers when the current jerked her body. She was placed in the chair at 11:11 and was pronounced dead at 11:16.

Quickly the two men followed her. Feraci entered the chair at 11:18 and

SILENT IN BRIEF STOP HERE; SEES PARTY LEADERS

Crowds Watch Train Pass Through.

Speaks on New Deal

President Roosevelt in an address at Green Bay, Wis., yesterday asserted that confidence is returning and that he contemplates no change from existing New Deal policies. He declared, however, that administration critics are hampering recovery.

Mr. Roosevelt also spoke approvingly of Senator Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin radical up for re-election, in what was interpreted as his first move to adjust party lines according to support of or opposition to the New Deal program. Text of speech on page 2.

President Roosevelt, with his son, John, and his official party, paid Chicago a brief visit yesterday on his way back to Washington from his vacation travels.

The President's special train spent 32 minutes in the yards of the Chicago and North Western railroad at California avenue and Kinzie street while a new diner and a Baltimore and Ohio engine were attached. It arrived at 6:43 p. m. daylight saving time and pulled out of the yards at 7:15.

While the President did not appear on the rear platform to address a crowd of several hundred persons which had gathered to greet him, he did receive a number of city, state and federal officials on the train.

Officials Board Train.

Among those who paid their respects to the chief executive were Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and State Treasurer J. C. Martin. All chatted with him several minutes and Secretary Ickes remained aboard the train for the trip to Washington.

Although the crowd was not large at the train's halting place in Chicago, people lined the North Western tracks as far as Waukegan to see Mr. Roosevelt pass. So thick were they in places that the engineer slowed the train's speed to avoid injuring any one. The party was one hour and 23 minutes behind schedule when it finally reached Chicago.

During the last part of the trip from Green Bay, Wis., where Mr. Roosevelt gave an address in the morning, the President remained inside his car, the Robert Peary, but spectators could see that he was tanned from his vacation cruise on the Pacific and his tour of the northwest.

Drink President's Health.

He received a novel salute at Highwood, just north of Highland Park, where a crowd of people holding steins of free beer supplied by local saloonkeepers shouted "Prosit" as he passed by. The President smilingly waved a reply to their toast.

As the train neared the larger north shore suburbs the tracks were edged with a thicker line of spectators. In Evanston the special was forced to creep along at ten miles an hour, as policemen were shoved aside by onlookers.

Gov. Horner was the first one to be received on board the train in the Chicago yards. He shook hands with the President's secretary, Louis McHenry Howe, and with John Roosevelt, and then threw his arms around Mr. Roosevelt.

Mentions Teachers' Pay.

"I'm certainly pleased about your Chicago teachers," exclaimed the President. "I'm glad they're going to be paid. And it's nice to see you and Mayor Kelly."

An unexpected visitor was permitted to board the train in the person of Mrs. Lillian K. Donovan, assistant cashier in the internal revenue department, a sufferer from infantile paralysis. She had been at the Warm Springs, Ga., Foundation for treatment and she exchanged greetings with the President as a former fellow patient.

While the guests were climbing aboard the special, Secretary of War Dern, who had been with the President since his arrival on the Pacific coast, got off. He was met by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Dern, of Winnetka.

Crowd Glimpses Roosevelt.

When it was established that Mr. Roosevelt did not intend to come out on the rear platform to make a speech, the full dress detail of 180 policemen around the train permitted the crowd to approach within 50 feet of the last car to get a view of the President.

The President presented a comfortable picture in the air cooled train. He was wearing a white shirt with the sleeves rolled up to his elbows and had on a black bow tie. He favored photographers by posing at the window before which he was sitting.

While the train paused in the yards, railroad men washed the passenger cars and loaded fresh provisions onto the new dining car. At the same time the Baltimore and Ohio locomotive was coupled to the train.

Smoothly, the train pulled out of the yards, while the crowd, breaking through the police lines, attempted to follow.

No Stop for McNutt.

There was no abatement in the crowds that waited to the south of the city for the outgoing train on the Baltimore and Ohio rails. In Gary, where thousands waited patiently for two hours, Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana impatiently paced the platform. The train slowed down, but kept rolling.

"I might have climbed aboard," said Gov. McNutt, "if the train had stopped."

He watched it disappear into the gathering dusk and then rode back to Indianapolis in his car.

For a time in the morning it was believed Mr. Roosevelt might linger in Chicago long enough to visit the World's Fair, but he sent a telegram from Green Bay to Rufus Dawes, president of the Fair, regretting that he would be unable to stop because of engagements in Washington.

DEFENDS NEW DEAL

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, ignoring party lines with words of praise for Senator Robert M. La Follette, interposed in Wisconsin politics here today and definitly made the New Deal the White House issue in the November congressional elections. It appeared to be a first step toward new party alignment, with Roosevelt policies as the line of demarcation.

The President indicated no recession is contemplated from the "brain trust's" socialized experiments and that the government will not get out of private business. In Nebraska politics, too, he gave a boost to a New Dealer Democrat, Edward R. Burke, who is running against an anti-New Dealer Democrat, Gov. Charles Bryan, for the senatorial nomination.

When the President bestowed his blessing upon Senator La Follette, radical Republican, who is running for reëlection in a newly incubated party of the La Follettites, great wailing and gnashing of teeth arose among Democratic state leaders. Back of the President on the platform stood "Young Bob," his face wreathed in a cherubic smile. His friends, nudging each other, proclaimed, "That elects Young Bob."

Democrat Chins Sag.

The chins of Democrats sagged down on their dripping shirt fronts. They had been beseeching the administration that the resurrected Wisconsin Democratic party be solidified to support a Democrat ticket in the expectation of electing another Democrat senator.

The utterance of the President is interpreted as the first actual move by the administration toward realignment of the Democrat and Republican parties. Sorting candidates and leaders out on whether they are for or against the brain trust's experimentation, it was Mr. Roosevelt's first important speech since leaving Hawaii, and national reverberations are likely.

Five little words were interpolated by the President into his speech. But they packed the dynamite. They were the names of the two Wisconsin senators, La Follette and F. Ryan Duffy, Democrat.

"Your two senators, Bob La Follette and Ryan Duffy, both old friends of mine," the President said, "have worked with me. I take this opportunity of expressing my gratitude to them."

Draws on Wisconsin for Policies.

In another place the President said he had greatly drawn upon Wisconsin in setting up New Deal agencies.

Some comfort, however, was extracted by the Democrats from a tribute paid by the President to the Democratic governor, A. G. Schmedeman, "another old friend of mine," who was thanked by Mr. Roosevelt for his New Deal coöperation. The governor was at the President's elbow and was given the honor of introducing him.

A bee sting is left in the honey for the La Follettes. Phil La Follette, brother of Bob, says he will run for governor in the La Follette third party, if no other radical will run. But where ex-Republican third party "Young Bob" gets the White House boost for senator, the Roosevelt benison for governor goes to Schmedeman.

So complexities still abound for the idea of a La Follette "dynasty." If Phil runs he will be racing against a White House endorsee. Schmedeman, while Brother Bob will be wearing the White House colors. It is hard to see how they might campaign together.

McGovern Crestfallen.

One of the most crestfallen is Francis E. McGovern, who wants to be Democratic nominee for senator. He was Republican governor of Wisconsin, then a Bull Mooser, now a New Dealer. He boarded the train in Minnesota, but found no consolation, while "Young Bob" kept away until the train came in and the mountain came to Mahomet.

The national political aspects of the day's visit fairly swamped the exposition of the New Deal and of conditions in the country laid down in the address. All that was talked about afterward was the benediction for Young Bob.

And Wisconsin was not the only state to receive political massaging.

The separation of Democrats into sheep and goats was started by the President in the case of Nebraska. At the end of his address he quoted a definition of the New Deal by Congressman Burke of Omaha, without mentioning him by name.

Burke Opposes "Brother Charlie."

Arthur Mullen of Omaha, who was Roosevelt floor manager at the Chicago convention, is backing Burke and his great aim is to defeat Bryan. Mullen was on the President's train for two days, and apparently worked to such purpose that Mr. Burke's rhapsody on the New Deal became the tail end of the Roosevelt address. In Nebraska they are set to use this as a campaign boost for Burke as a New Dealer Democratic candidate, against the brother of the late William J. Bryan, the "Great Commoner."

Yet, as Wisconsin Democrats sadly remarked, at the outset of the President's trip, the White House hung up the sign, "No Politics on This Tour."

Full indication that the President is determined to hold radical Republicans within the Democratic party was seen in the speech, and likewise in some political highlights on the tour. In Minnesota both Senator Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, and Congressman Einar Hoidale, Democratic nominee against Shipstead, were on the train. The Democrats sought a few kind words for Hoidale, but Shipstead basked in the Roosevelt smile quite as much as did Hoidale. Both have supported the New Deal in congress.

Retorts to Borah.

Likewise, today, President Roosevelt retorted to Senator William Borah [Rad. Rep., Idaho], one of the strongest critics of the New Oeal on the ground it is subversive of the constitution and the NRA and the codes foster monopoly.

Borah has great influence in the west. The President kept aloof from partisan politics from Portland to Green Bay, but his reference today to Borah as No. 1 man of the type which is holding action back is interpreted as being in a measure designed to strength Democratic New Dealer candidates in Oregon and Washington, where the 86 day longshoremen's strike, the loss of millions of dollars, the paralyzing of business, the spread of radicalism and intimidation by a Red minority are resounding in politics.

Switching from the political aspects of the day—the most engrossing phase—to the speech itself, the President indicated that no recession from the New Deal policies, originally established as temporary emergency measures, is contemplated.

The "forgotten man" of the presidential campaign has been replaced by the "average man," a phrase used several times by the President in his address. He dwelt upon confidence, and said it is returning among farmers, business men, manufacturers, bankers and small investors.

A rather wistful appeal for greater coöperation with the New Deal was made as the President dwelt upon "human rights" versus individualism.

"It is just as hard," he said, "to achieve harmonious and coöperative action among human beings as it is to conquer the forces of nature."

"Partial Answer" to People.

After saying the people have had a "partial answer" to demands for action, President Roosevelt said action might be delayed by two types of individuals. His description of the No. 1 type as a man whose objectives are right but insists on his own methods was accounted a response to Borah's onslaught on the New Deal.

The other type, the President said, is the man who asks some messsage "that will restore confidence." He said he had written one such man asking, "What would you like to have me say?" In reply the man wrote that the way to restore confidence was to abolish government control of business. If the New Deal took such a step, the President said, "the old law of the tooth and the claw would reign once more."

MRS. ROOSEVELT ENDS HER VACATION TRIP; BACK IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived in New York today from Chicago, ending her "off the record" vacation during which she visited the World's Fair at Chicago, made her debut as a radio news commentator, paid a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, in Nevada, where the latter was then awaiting divorce, did a little public speaking here and there, and met the President in Portland, Ore., when he arrived from his Hawaiian trip.

"Outside of the drouth area the people look better fed, better clothed: their automobiles are more and newer, and they look a great deal happier," she commented on her arrival here.

She said this after deploring the intense suffering in the drouth afflicted sections, but added that to get a fair picture of the condition of the country it was necessary to consider the drouth sections separately. Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by her secretary, went by taxicab to her New York home in east 65th street. She announced her intention to go to Hyde Park later.

SANITY TEST FOR YOUTH.

A mental examination by the city psychiatrist was ordered for James Allen, 19 years old, 2240 Roosevelt road, when he appeared yesterday before Judge Joseph H. McGarry.

UNWED MOTHER LOSES BATTLE TO REGAIN CHILD

Efforts of an unmarried mother to regain custody of her infant son to whose adoption by a married couple she had agreed were unsuccessful yesterday when County Judge J. G. Van Keuren refused to set aside the adoption decree. The mother is Miss Helen B. Witton, who resides at the Allerton hotel. She had filed a petition asking to set aside the court order which made her child the son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Harris, 5555 Everett avenue.

Miss Witton testified amid tears that she had met a young man soon after she came to the United States from England seven years ago. On Sept. 30, 1932, she became the mother of his child. While she was still in the hospital, she said when questioned by her attorney, Norman Becker, she was threatened by her sweetheart, who then asked her to sign several papers. Several days later, she said, she learned that they were the adoption papers.

After Attorney Becker pleaded for the mercy of the court, Judge Van Keuren said:

"I believe this girl is telling the truth. I have the utmost sympathy toward her in her effort to regain her child but I must rule with the law in this matter and I cannot set aside the adoption on the evidence submitted here."

Robs Physician of Cash, Car and Instrument Case

A robber leaped on the running board of the automobile of Dr. John Hillebrand, 5158 Wellington avenue, as he stopped for a trafic light at Addison and Central avenues late last night and after forcing him to the curb took $30 and the automobile. Dr. Hillebrand informed the police that his case of surgical instruments was in the car.

Roosevelt Says Science Fights Drouth

"I am glad to take part in the commemoration of the landing in Green Bay of the man who can truly be called the first white pioneer of Wisconsin.

"Over all the years the purposes of the men and women who established civilization in Wisconsin and in the northwest were the same as those that stimulated the earlier settlers of the Atlantic seaboard. Men everywhere throughout Europe had suffered from the imperfect and often unjust governments of their home lands and were driven by deep desire to find security and enlarged opportunity for themselves and their children.

Seek Better Life Chances.

"The new population flowing into our new lands of opportunity was a mixed population, differing often in language, in external customs, and in habits of thought. But in one thing they were alike—they showed a deep purpose to rid themselves forever of the jealousies, the prejudices, the intrigues, and the violence, whether internal or external, that disturbed their lives abroad.

"They sought a life less fettered by the exploitations that selfish men set up in governments that are not free. They sought a wider opportunity for the average man.

"Having achieved the initial adventure of migration to new homes, they moved forward to the further adventure of establishing forms of government and methods of operating these forms of government that might assure them the things that they sought.

Rely on Own Resources.

"They believed that men, out of their intelligence and their self-discipline, could create and use forms of government that would not enslave the human spirit, but free it and nourish it. They did not fear government, because they knew that government in the new world was their own.

"They built here in Wisconsin a state destined for extraordinary achievements. They set up institutions to enforce law and order, to care for the unfortunate, to promote the arts of industry and agriculture. They built a university and school system as enlightened as any that the world affords. They set up against all selfish private interests the organized authority of the people themselves through the state. They transformed utilities into public servants instead of private means of exploitation.

Long Fight for Rights.

"The average man in Wisconsin waged a long and bitter fight for his rights. Here, and in the nation at large, this battle has been twofold.

"He has had to fight nature. From the time that the settlers started to clear the land until now he has been compelled to assert the power of his brains and courage over the blind powers of the wind and the sun and the soil. He paid no heed to the reactionaries who would tell him that mankind must stand impotent before the forces of nature. Year after year, as science progressed and his mastery of the mysteries of the physical universe increased, he had been turning nature, once his hard master, into useful servitude.

"That is why, on this trip across the northern part of our continent, I have been so moved by the distressing effects of a widespread drouth and at the same time so strengthened in my belief that science and coöperation can do much from now on to undo the many mistakes men have made in the past and to aid the good forces of nature and the good impulses of men instead of fighting against them.

Says Pioneer Spirit Revives.

"We are but carrying forward the pioneering spirit of the fathers when we apply the pioneering methods to the better use of vast land and water resources—what God has given us to use as trustees not only for ourselves but for future generations.

"But man is fighting also those forces which disregard human coöperation and human rights in seeking that kind of individual profit which is gained at the expense of his fellows.

"It is just as hard to achieve harmonious and coöperative action among human beings as it is to conquer the forces of nature. Only through the submerging of individual desires into unselfish and practical coöperation can civilization grow.

"In the great national movement that culminated in 1932, people joined with enthusiasm. They lent hand and voice to the common cause, irrespective of many older political traditions. They saw the dawn of a new day. They were on the march; they were coming back into the possession of their own home land.

"As the humble instruments of their vision and power, those of us who were chosen to serve them in 1932 turned to the great task.

"In one year and five months the people of the United States have received at least a partial answer to their demands for action, and neither the demand nor the action has reached the end of the road.

"But action may be delayed by two types of individuals. Let me cite examples: First, there is the man whose objectives are wholly right and wholly progressive, but who declines to coöperate or even to discuss methods of arriving at the objectives, because he insists on his own methods and nobody else's.

Problem of Confidence.

"The other type to which I refer is the individual who demands some message to the people of the United States that will restore what he calls 'confidence.' When I hear this I cannot help but remember the pleas made by government and certain types of so-called 'big business' all through the years 1930, 1931, and 1932 that the only thing lacking in the United States was confidence.

"Before I left on my trip I received two letters from important men, both of them pleading that I say something to restore confidence. To both of them I wrote identical answers: 'What would you like to have me say?' From one of them I have received no reply at all six weeks later. I take it that he is still wondering how to answer.

"The other man wrote me frankly that in his judgment the way to restore confidence was for me to declare that all supervision by all forms of government, federal and state, over all forms of human activity called business should be forthwith abolished.

"In other words, he was frank enough to imply that he would repeal all laws, state or national, which regulate business—that a utility could henceforth charge any rate, reasonable or otherwise; that the railroads could go back to rebates and other secret agreements; that the processors of food stuffs could disregard all rules of health and of good faith; that the unregulated wild cat banking of a century ago could be restored; that fraudulent securities and watered stock could be palmed off on the public; that stock manipulation which caused panics and enriched insiders could go unchecked. In fact, if we were to listen to him, the old law of the tooth and the claw would reign once more.

"My friends, the people of the United States will not restore that ancient order. There is no lack of confidence on the part of those business men, farmers, and workers who clearly read the signs of times. Sound economic improvement comes from the improved conditions of the whole population and not a small fraction thereof.

"Those who would measure confidence in this country in the future must look first to the average citizen.

Calls Farmers Confident.

"Confidence returning to our agricultural population who, in spite of unpredictable and uncontrollable drouth in a large area, is giving understanding coöperation to practical planning and the ending of the useless bickering and sectional thinking of the past. Confidence is returning to the manufacturers who, in overwhelming numbers, are comparing the black ink of today with the red ink of many years gone by; to the workers who have achieved under the National Recovery administration rights for which they fought unsuccessfully for a generation; to the men and women whose willing hands found no work and who have been saved from starvation by government relief; to the youngsters whose childhood has been saved to them by the abolition of child labor; to the fair and sincere bankers and financiers and business men, big and little, who now, for the first time, find government coöperating with them in new attempts to put the golden rule into the temples of finance; to the home owners who have been saved from the stark threat of foreclosure, and to the small investors and savers of the nation who, for the first time, rightly believe that their savings are secure.

"These are the elements that make for confidence in the future. This government intends no injury to honest business. The processes we follow in seeking social justice do not in adding to general prosperity take from one to give to another. In this modern world the spreading out of opportunity ought not to consist of robbing Peter to pay Paul. We are concerned with more than mere subtraction and addition. We are concerned with the multiplication of wealth through coöperative action—wealth in which all can share.

"These high purposes must be accompanied by coöperation among those charged by the people with the duties of government. I am glad to be in a state from which I have greatly drawn in setting up the permanent and temporary agencies of government.

Lauds Wisconsin Senators.

"Your two senators, both old friends of mine, and many others have worked with me in maintaining excellent coöperation between the executive and legislative branches of the government. I take this opportunity of expressing my gratitude to them.

"Not only in Washington but in the states there has been coöperation by public officials in the achievement of the purposes we seek. I thank Gov. Schmedeman, another old friend of mine, for this patriotic coöperation with the national administration.

"We who support this New Deal do so because it is a square deal and because it is essential to the preservation of security and happiness of a free society.

"I like its definition by a member of the congress. He said: 'The New Deal is an old deal—as old as the earliest aspirations of humanity for liberty and justice and the good life. It is old as Christian ethics, for basically its ethics are the same. It is new as the Declaration of Independence was new, and the constitution of the United States; its motives are the same.

Called Aid to Opportunity.

"'It voices the deathless cry of good men and good women for the opportunity to live and work in freedom, the right to be secure in their homes and in the fruits of their labor, the power to protect themselves against the ruthless and the cunning. It recognizes that man is indeed his brother's keeper, insists that the laborer is worthy of his hire, demands that justice shall rule the mighty as well as the weak.

"'It seeks to cement ours ociety, rich and poor, manual workers and brain workers, into a voluntary brotherhood of freemen, standing together, striving together, for the common good of all.'

"Keep that vision before your eyes and in your hearts: it can and will be attained."

SECRETARY AIDS SAMPSELL; LOAN DETAILS BARED

Takes Blame for Asking Stock Transfer.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Revelation of the financial methods of Marshall E. Sampsell, a former Insull utility executive, and other officials of Insull subsidiaries, marked the trial yesterday of Sampsell before Chief Justice Michael Feinberg of the Criminal court. Sampsell, former president of the Central Illinois Public Service company, an Insull concern, is on trial charged with embezzlement and larceny of 5,000 shares of stock from the treasury of the company.

The last witness of the day, Miss Starr Taber, 190 East Chestnut street, former secretary to Sampsell, livened up the trial by taking responsibility for asking Leroy J. Clark, then secretary of the company, to give an irrevocable stock transfer to Sampsell before Clark turned the 5,000 shares of stock over to Sampsell. She said that, acting on her own initiative, she asked Clark to sign this transfer, which is considered an important element in the trial.

The prosecution contends Sampsell had asked that this transfer be given to him and that when Clark refused, Sampsell then took full possession of the stock and used 4,000 of the 5,000 shares as collateral for personal loans from four Springfield banks and the Continental Illinois bank of Chicago.

Subject Evaded on Stand.

Under the irrevocable transfer power Sampsell would have been able to pledge the stock for his loans without having assumed ownership of the certificates.

Clark, an unwilling state witness on Wednesday, testified that he had refused to sign such powers because he did not personally own the stock and could not give Sampsell power to pledge it for loans without himself becoming involved. Clark would not say that Sampsell had asked him to sign these irrevocable transfer powers, but was evasive on the subject.

Questioned by Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hora, Miss Taber, dressed in a becoming light blue frock with a darker blue hat, took full responsibility for asking Clark to sign the irrevocable powers:

Q.—Did you present irrevocable stock powers to Leroy J. Clark to sign? A.—I did.

Testimony Pleases Ex-Employer.

Q.—What was said at the time? A.—I couldn't remember.

Q.—Well, tell us as near as you can recall. A.—He said he would rather not sign them.

Q.—From whom did you receive them? A.—I had them myself.

Q.—Who asked you to have Mr. Clark sign them? A.—Well, the stock was in his name.

Q.—Did some one ask you to have them signed or did you act on your own initiative? A.—As I remember I acted on my own initiative.

Sampsell, a tall slender scholarly man of 60 years, seemed pleased with the fact that his former secretary was at least not trying to hurt him by her testimony. She concluded her direct testimony by saying that she gave 2,000 shares to J. Paul Clayton, former vice president of the company, to deliver to the Springfield banks for a $100,000 loan for Sampsell and Martin J. Insull, and herself delivered the other 2,000 shares to the Continental Illinois bank as partial collateral for Sampsell's loans there, totaling at that time about $250,000.

Details of Financing.

The outstanding facts of financial methods used by the utility chiefs in their financial dealings as gleaned from a procession of Springfield bank officials and utility company employés to the witness stand, prior to Miss Taber's appearance, were as follows:

1. That the Central Illinois Public Service company, which was referred to by its more common designation of CIPS, kept a fund to purchase its own stock on the open market in order to keep the price stabilized at what officials thought it should be.

2. That stock loans, or other loans, were made to officials without any official action of the board of directors.

3. That the stock put up as loan collateral by Sampsell, which the state charges was abstracted from the treasury of the company, was repurchased by the company, from four Springfield banks at its face value even though it had fallen on the open market to a price of less than half of its market quotation at the time it was pledged. It was also intimated in the testimony that the money to repurchase the stock was borrowed from the banks.

Clark Identifies Stock.

Clark, whose memory was refreshed overnight by Assistant State's Attorneys O'Hora and Alexander Napoli, again took the witness stand and gave most of the testimony on the financial methods used by the power company chiefs. He identified the stock offered inevidence as the same stock he had turned over to Sampsell from the company treasury.

On Wednesday Clark had refused to identify the stock, angering Prosecutor O'Hora. He was questioned yesterday as follows:

Q—Where was this stock purchased that you gave to Sampsell? A.—Through Russell Brewster & Co.

Q.—How did they come to purchase the stock? A.—They were given orders by Mr. Sampsell to purchase certain stock to keep it from falling below a designated figure.

Q.—Why was it purchased. A.—To protect the market.

The witness said that sometimes he gave the orders on how much stock to purchase and that all payments of such purchases came from money in the company treasury.

Denies Sensing Irregularity.

Q.—Why was the stock given to Sampsell? A.—To be used for his personal loans.

Q.—Was any action taken by the board of directors to authorize the Sampsell loan of stock? A.—No.

Q.—Did other officers make loans? An objection to this question was sustained.

On cross-examination Defense Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Charles Lounsbury proved by Clark that he voluntarily gave up the stock to Sampsell and that "no trespass was used to get it." He further said that it was not because "he thought something was crooked" that he refused to sign the irrevocable stock powers.

Logan Coleman, president of the Illinois National bank of Springfield, gave testimony, as did officials of the Ridgely Farmers State bank, the First National Bank of Springfield, and the Springfield Marine bank, to the effect that the 2,000 shares of stock put up as collateral by Sampsell and Insull were bought back later by the CIPS company.

Explain Repurchase of Securities.

Coleman testified that after Sampsell had severed his connection with the utility company, the stock was retrieved by the concern by paying the banks the face value of the notes and interest. The stock at the time it was pledged was selling for around $62 per share and when it was repurchased was below $30 per share, according to the prosecution. Expert testimony on this subject will be introduced later.

The defense attorneys said that it was repurchased because the utility company did most of its business with the Springfield banks and wanted to keep up friendly relations. They also said that a loan was negotiated from the same banks in order to take up the stock. Coleman started to give testimony on this point, but an objection stopped him.

The trial was considerably shortened yesterday when the defense attorneys agreed to stipulate the records of the Springfield banks after Coleman testified. The prosecution announced that under the present stipulation arrangement it may be possible to conclude its side of the case today.

CUMMINGS STRIKES AT ATTORNEYS WHO 'DISGRACE THE BAR'

HONOLULU, Aug. 9.—(AP)—How to rid the American bar of lawyers "who skirt close to the verge of criminality in contact with the criminal classes" will be one of the purposes of the national conference on crime in Washington in December, Attorney General Cummings told the chamber of commerce at a luncheon here today.

The attorney general, who will sail for San Francisco tomorrow aboard the Malolo after a week in the islands, struck sharply at members of the bar "who disgraced the privileges of an honorable profession."

Cummings came here in connection with land condemnation proceedings of the government.

300 Sue Cook County for $60,000 Overtime

Three hundred employés and former employés in the office of the county assessor were complainants yesterday in a suit for $60,000 filed against Cook county. The bill, registered in the Circuit court, alleged that the employés had never been paid for overtime work during May and June, 1931, when the quadrennial reassessment was being made. The sum named in the bill, which was drawn by Attorney Victor Frohlich, was computed at the rate of $1.20 an hour for overtime—the standard rate in the assessor's office, it was stated.

Edwin Hyland, 23 years old, 4324 Kenmore avenue, was shot and killed by detectives yesterday as he leaped from a window of his second story room while being questioned as a robbery suspect.

Detectives Charles Hecht, John Brustman, and Frank Khubiar of the Summerdale station had gone to the room to question Hyland. They said they had kept him under surveillance for several days in the belief he had been implicated in a robbery. At the county morgue Gene Reynolds, coroner's investigator, said he recognized Hyland as having been a minor west side hoodlum.

The detectives said Hyland tried to hide a revolver as they entered his room and then offered $14 for his freedom. When they refused, he leaped from the window. Robbery victims are to view the body at the morgue.

Steals Radios from Own Truck; Gets 90 Days

For the theft of radios which he was hauling in his truck, Richard Bansley, 3066 Lock street, yesterday was sentenced by Judge Alfred O. Erickson to 90 days in the bridewell. Bansley first reported to the Deering street police that two Negro hijackers had stolen his truck and $1,200 worth of radio sets he was hired to take to 4100 South Union avenue. Later he admitted he had invented the robbery story and led police to a south side rooming house, where several sets were recovered. Joseph Vinci and Frank Spoto, arrested as Bansley's accomplices, were discharged.

LAKE WIND CITY'S ONLY HOPE TODAY FOR HEAT RELIEF

Cool Wave from North Fails to Arrive.

Heat relief in the form of an onrush of cool air from Canada failed to materialize in Chicago yesterday and the temperature attained a maximum of 94, which was accompanied through most of the day by high humidity.

The official forecast for today indicated it may not be quite so warm as it was yesterday. However, Forecaster W. P. Day said there was little hope the area of high pressure from the northwest would arrive and the winds from Lake Michigan would have to furnish such relief as there may be.

"The high pressure area slowed down greatly in its march this way," the forecaster declared, "and by evening had reached only to La Crosse, Wis., and Charles City, Ia.

Some Hope of Rain.

"I believe that the winds from the northeast will afford comfort to Chicago, but they will be light and will not penetrate far inland. Conditions are to be unsettled and there are some prospects of showers."

For Missouri, downstate Illinois, Indiana, and Kansas the forecaster could see little hope of relief.

Over most of the midcontinent, with the exception of the northwestern states, extremely high temperatures prevailed yesterday. At Springfield, Ill., a new all-time heat record of 108.3 degrees was registered. It was the second time in two days that the record had been smashed, Wednesday's 107.5 also being a new maximum.

Downstate Cities Suffer.

Other downstate cities which suffered included Quincy, 111; Peoria, 104; Joliet, 108—a record for August; Carbondale, 104; Aurora, 105, and Ottawa, 107.

St. Louis recorded 108 degrees, Kansas City, 110; Keokuk, Ia., 110; Concordia, Kas., 108, and Fort Wayne, Ind., 102. In marked contrast was the maximum in Minneapolis, 86.

There were only a few scattered showers in the middle west and the plains states and crop deterioration, already more serious than in any summer of a generation past, continued.

Rush Cattle to Market.

At Sioux City, Ia., it was stated that the heat of the last week had practically ruined all crops except corn over a wide area, that there was no forage for live stock, and that tens of thousands of cattle were being sent to market daily in poor condition.

In South Dakota a number of families have moved voluntarily from marginal lands into concentration camps. One such camp is north of Yankton, on the James river.

Eventually, it is expected, these farmers will be placed on lands now owned by the South Dakota securities commission.

Mystery Veils Doug Fairbanks' Dash Across Atlantic Ocean

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—London friends of Douglas Fairbanks Sr. tonight declared his present journey to New York is not necessarily for a reconciliation with his wife, Mary Pickford.

These friends were not so hopeful of a reunion as Joseph M. Schenck, motion picture executive, who is accompanying Fairbanks on the liner Rex.

The two left Monte Carlo yesterday. It had been believed Fairbanks might leave the ship at Gibraltar and go from there to London, but upon arrival at Gibraltar tonight he remained aboard. Declining to discuss prospects of a reconciliation with Miss Pickford, he said he is returning to the United States to make pictures and intends going to California after one day in New York.

Schenck Talks to Mary.

Schenck is known to have been busy for the last week trying to effect a reconciliation. He made a transoceanic telephone call to Miss Pickford from London early last week and as a result hurried to the Riviera, proposing that Doug join him on a trip to the United States.

A prominent American film official here who claimed to know the nature of the conversation between Schenck and Miss Pickford said: "She wants Doug back badly."

Fairbanks' friends, however, in scoffing at the possibility of a reconciliation, pointed out that he had business which would call him to America.

"Fairbanks' income tax case, which will be coming up soon in America, involves a lot of money and he should be there for that," said one friend.

Sails in Shirt Sleeves.

Why business affairs should cause him to sail so suddenly was not explained, however. Dispatches from Monte Carlo said some of his friends, including Lady Ashley, with whom he frequently was seen on the Riviera, had expressed bewilderment when they learned he had boarded the Rex in his shirt sleeves and sailed without saying good-by to any one. Even attachés of his hotel said today that they believed he was still in Cannes, since he "took no traveling clothes when he left."

Fairbanks' lawyer denied statements by British film officials that Fairbanks had applied to become a British subject, was rejected and was ordered to return to America by October.

The British home office gave out no information on the subject owing to a rigid rule that such cases must be treated as "confidential." Fairbanks' working contract here has expired, but British officials said that any person of his position could remain in England as a private individual unless there were "special reasons requiring departure."

It was recalled that the divorce trial of Lord and Lady Ashley, in which the husband has named Fairbanks as co-respondent, is slated for October.

Service in Suit Completed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP)—An affidavit was filed today in the divorce suit of Mary Pickford against Douglas Fairbanks showing that service on the actor by publication had been completed. The affidavit was filed in order that a default might be entered and the case set for trial at an early date. The suit has been on file for several months.

MARY CORRECTS A RUMOR.

If Mary Pickford knows the secret of her estranged husband's mysterious dash from Monte Carlo to board the S. S. Rex bound for America on Wednesday, she prefers to let it remain one. Reached at the Drake hotel here last night, Miss Pickford declined to comment on cable reports that Doug Fairbanks is homeward bound for a reconciliation.

"I do wish to correct a rumor, however, that I have done any telephoning myself to Mr. Fairbanks in Europe," Miss Pickford said. "This is absolutely untrue. Mr. Fairbanks did call me once by telephone from France and Mr. Schenck [film producer sailing with Fairbanks] telephoned me once, but that is all."

CANADA TO KILL THOUSANDS OF THIRSTY CATTLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 9.—Scores of thousands of head of thirsty western Canadian cattle are likely to be slaughtered within the next week if rain does not come quickly to drouth-stricken areas. Robert Weir and George Hoadley, federal and Alberta ministers of agriculture, held a long conference today over conditions following widespread urging that the slaughter of the beasts should be instituted immediately. Saskatchewan is in more desperate straits than is Alberta. In the latter province thirty municipalities are in need of government aid. To a less extent cattle are also suffering from drouth in eastern Canada.

FAIR ATTENDANCE EXPECTED TO SET RECORD FOR WEEK

374,147 Paid Admissions in First Four Days.

The turnstiles at the World's Fair continued their revolutions last night, making a new weekly record for this year practically certain and setting at midnight a new record for any weekday except holidays, Saturdays, and the first Children's day. The new figure was 107,397 admissions.

With this record added to the already phenomenal three day attendance of 266,750 on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday—a total of 374,147—the previous record of 595,813 for an entire week is within easy reach, Fair officials said.

Yesterday's bumper crop of admissions, partly due to the fact that it was Children's day and Veterans' day, eclipsed the high weekday mark of 105,538 made only last Tuesday. On the basis of the four days' attendance officials saw a possibility of setting a week's record of more than 700,000 visitors.

Chicago Week Given Credit.

Fair officials attribute the large attendance to the number of free attractions which they have offered during the week, and to the crowds of Chicago citizens drawn in by the ceremonies of Chicago week.

Hopes for a record attendance are based partly upon the fact that the Chicago celebration will overlap tomorrow and Sunday with Farm week. A preliminary ceremony of that week, however, is scheduled for today.

Today's event will be a farm parade on State street, culminating in a radio broadcast at State and Madison streets which will invite the farmers of the nation to visit the Fair. It has been arranged by Fair officials in cooperation with the State Street council, the Keep Chicago Ahead committee and the station handling the broadcast.

Big Parade Today.

State street will be cleared of trafic for the parade, which starts at Wacker drive and will reach the "world's busiest corner" in time for the broadcast at 1 p. m. Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, President Rufus C. Dawes of the Fair, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, and Elmer T. Stevens and Walter L. Gregory, officers of the State Street council, have been asked to make short addresses of invitation.

The parade will include a procession of prize farm animals, the Black Horse troop, and A Century of Progress guides band. The car from which the broadcast is to be made will be hauled by six giant Clydesdale horses, the prize team of Wilson & Co., Chicago packers.

WRIT IS SOUGHT UNDER CODE TO BAN BEER SIGNS

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green filed yesterday in the federal court a petition for an injunction to restrain the Joseph Schlitz Brewing company of Milwaukee from violating the code of fair competition for the brewing industry. The petition charged that the brewing company, through its Chicago plant at 966 North Ogden avenue, had violated the code provision that no brewer may furnish, give, or rent signs costing more than $400 to any member of the industry or subsidiary.

The petition, the first of its kind for this industry to be filed here, said that the Chicago plant purchased 100 neon signs at $385 each from the Flashtric Sign works, 3901 North Western avenue. The government alleges, however, that the signs actually cost more than $400 when the cost of installation is included.

Twenty-two of the electric signs have been erected at the places of business of Schlitz dealers, the petition said, while the other 78 have not been installed. The petition asked that the brewing company be enjoined from installing the 78 signs and be forced to dismantle the 22 signs already erected.

491 SALOONS GET LICENSES IN DAY; 257 ARE CLOSED

In a last minute rush yesterday 491 applications for licenses to sell liquor were filed, according to Edward J. Kaindl, city collector.

When the deadline was reached at 7 p. m. police began closing some 900 saloons whose operators had failed to take out licenses for the last half of the year. Police stations were supplied with lists of saloon owners who had failed to renew licenses which ran out on June 30 for the first half of 1934. It was found that a number had gone out of business, but at 11 p. m. reports indicated that 257 had been closed.

At the deadline last night a total of 6,995 applications for licenses had been filed. This compares with 7,850 licenses issued for the period ended June 30.

DEFIES SNAKE AS TRUE DISCIPLE OF GOD; NEAR DEATH

Sylva, N. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—A 39 year old holiness preacher lay near death in a mountain cabin tonight—victim of his attempt to prove to his congregation that a rattlesnake could not harm a true disciple of God, but still refusing medical aid.

Albert Teester was bitten twice Sunday night during his attempted demonstration. As the fangs found their mark in the arm which held the mountain rattler aloft before his flock, his clerical demeanor left him and he fled screaming to the churchyard, where he rolled in agony on the ground.

Vehemently refusing to see a physician, he likewise refused the old standby of mountaineers in such cases—corn whisky. His right arm was swollen to several times normal size tonight. The skin is bursting as the poison works. His neck and back are puffed and his tongue is so swollen he can hardly speak. Death was believed a matter of hours.

France Lays Iron Hand on Algerian Rioters; 144 Held

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 9.—The French government today brought down an iron fist in Constantine, Algiers, where wholesale raids by the gendarmerie netted 144 arrests. These are a sequel to the bloody riots Sunday when starving Arab peasants launched a pogrom against Jewish grain dealers. Only two of those arrested are being held for murder, the rest being charged with assault and pillage.

U. S. Offers Aid in Settling Chilean-Paraguayan Row

Sevier of the United States went to the foreign office today to offer the good offices of the United States toward settling the controversy between Chile and Paraguay over Chile's alleged action in aiding Bolivia in the Chaco war.

Foreign Minister Cruchaga accepted the offer "in principle." Ambassador Sevier reported to Washington and awaited further instructions.

GAS EXPLOSION AT FORD EXHIBIT BURNS WORKERS

Sparks Cause Blaze in Industrialized Barn.

Two men were burned yesterday in a gasoline explosion in the Industrialized barn, part of the Ford Motor company exhibit at the World's Fair. The fire which followed did damage estimated at $500 to the barn, which was built by William Ford, father of the motor manufacturer, on his farm at Dearborn, Mich., in 1863, the year that Henry Ford was born.

Fumes from the gasoline, which was in a small tank, were apparently ignited by sparks from an electrical cable which was being repaired at the time.

One Taken to Hospital.

The man most seriously injured was William Daker, 9838 Throop street, an electrician employed by a contracting company. He was taken to the Jackson Park hospital with burns on the face. Albert Fox of Steger, a Ford employé, received minor burns which were treated in the emergency hospital in the exhibit.

The Industrialized barn, removed piece by piece from Dearborn to the Fair grounds and there re-erected, is the exemplification of Henry Ford's theory of farm relief. This is that the farmer during the slack season of his agricultural year, should supplement his income by industrial activity on his own farm.

One section of the barn houses a distillery for extracting oil from soy beans.

Develop Extraction Process.

The United States imports most of this oil from China. Ford engineers, however, have perfected simple and comparatively inexpensive apparatus for extracting the oil by solution in gasoline and subsequent distillation, which leaves the solid portion of the bean fit for stock food.

INJURED AT WORK, DIES.

Otto Lenhart, 44 years old, 5924 South Lincoln street, a sheet metal worker, died yesterday of injuries incurred Aug. 1 when he was crushed by a metal dust collector while at work in the malt plant of Albert Schwill & Co., 103d street and Avenue A.

NEGROES TO SING SONGS OF RACE AT MUSIC FEST

Chorus of 1,000 Will Do Noted Spirituals.

Buy Your Tickets Now!

Tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival ,to be held 7:30 p. m., Aug. 18, in Soldiers' field, may be purchased at The Tribune Public Service offices, by mail, or from your Tribune carrier.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Plantation days in the old south, when the Negroes gathered to sing their spirituals, will be recalled Saturday night, Aug. 18, when a Negro chorus of 1,000 voice appears as an event at the Chicagoland Music Festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. Garbed in white capes the Negroes will stand in the center of Soldiers' field stage, bringing to the vast audience the songs which were the prayers of a pastoral people for relief from their burdens.

Although the Negro people have come out of slavery their songs will endure because they are the true expression of a race, a race that has always been close to the soil. How the spirituals have become an integral part of the Negro's life was explained yesterday by Professors James A. Mundy and J. Wesley Jones, who will conduct the chorus at the festival.

Bondage Brought Music.

"The Negro had no music when he roamed the African jungle," Prof. Mundy said, "and it was not until he was sold into slavery that he found this outlet for his emotions. Then, oppressed by burdens, he communed with nature and learned to chant his appeals to God."

Prof. Jones pointed out that nearly all of the Negro spirituals are difficult to trace to their origin and authorship. These songs were chanted by the darkies on the plantations for years before any one thought of writing them down in a formal musical score, Prof. Jones said.

The first number which the chorus will sing on festival night—at about 9 o'clock—will be "Old Southland." This was composed about 1900 by J. Rosamund Johnson, but most of the melody was known previously in an old spiritual, "Go Down, Moses."

Sing Hymn of Race.

As the strains of "Old Southland" die away, Mrs. Clara Malone will step from the chorus and sing "Mighty Lak a Rose." After this a moment of stillness and then Miss Willie Jones will sing the opening bars of "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," one of the most popular of all Negro spirituals. Then the chorus will take it up and this paean of a people—this hymn of deliverance from earthly cares—will resound through the Stadium.

This will close the first half of the chorus program. The Negroes will return 20 minutes later and give chants of plantation days—"De Ol' Ark's Movin'" and "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho."

Then John Burdette, who has become known as one of the best Negro baritones in the country since his appearance at the first festival in 1930, will sing "Ol' Man River." When Burdette sang this number at the songfest four years ago he "stopped the show," and he has done the same every year since.

Following this he will sing another solo—the currently popular "Wagon Wheel," with the chorus concluding the program by humming the song.

Famous Since 1865.

Organized Negro choral singing began in 1865 when the eight Fisk Jubilee singers from Nashville, Tenn., toured the country. With the profits from their concerts they built the Jubilee hall at Nashville at a cost of $300,000.

Profs. Mundy and Jones have conducted their own choruses in Chicago for more than 20 years. For festival night they are combining their choruses with those from 35 coöperating Negro churches.

"Much as the audience at THE TRIBUNE festival will enjoy the singing," Prof. Jones said, "the choristers will enjoy it even more. Singing is part of them as it is part of our whole people."

[News of Music Festival contests will be found on page 15.]

$10 a Month Police Chief Agrees to Don a Uniform

Chester Norwiche, former dog track watchman, now $10 a month chief of police of East Hazel Crest, promised Acting First Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty yesterday that he would buy a uniform, label his automobile with the word "police," and patrol the highways in full view of trafic. There have been complaints that Norwiche made unnecesary arrests at a stop sign at the convergence of Park avenue and the Governor's highway in East Hazel Crest.

Teachers Praise Mayor for Pay Loan

CITY'S TEACHERS CELEBRATE PAY AT FAIR TODAY

Jubilee Honors Fight; Mayor to Talk.

Chicago's 14,000 school teachers will converge on A Century of Progress today to celebrate the successful culmination of Mayor Kelly's school loan program which is expected to bring them $22,500,000 in back pay checks within the next three weeks.

Free tickets for the jubilee program arranged by the World's Fair officials were distributed to the teachers Wednesday and yesterday with their June pay checks. The pay day, totaling $1,900,000 for employes of the educational department, was declared by the board of education on Monday, immediately after Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, had announced that the RFC would grant the long sought loan to pay up teachers' back salaries.

Mayor to Make Address.

Mayor Kelly will address the teachers on a program to be held in the Lagoon theater of the Fair at 4 o'clock this afternoon. He will describe the fight made to clear up board of education obligations despite slow tax collections and general depression, and will make a plea for coöperation between teachers and school officials in the future.

The program will be brief in order that the guests of the day may have ample time to visit the World's Fair attractions, said Capt. J. A. Reilly, head of the special events division for A Century of Progress, who is arranging the ceremony.

A. M. Nichelson, president of the Principals' club, will speak, following Mayor Kelly, as a representative of the teachers. Edward F. Dunne, United States commissioner at A Century of Progress, will appear for the federal government.

Four Use Free Tickets.

Four teachers, admittedly seeking a bit of night life, appeared at the 23d street gate at 1:10 o'clock this morning and gained admission on the free tickets. They were Herbert Ackerson, 32 years old, 440 Fullerton avenue, teacher in Wells school; James Jones, 30 years old, 1627 South Wood street, Crane High school; Preston Goorich, 26 years old, Jones school, and Paul Moisan, 33 years old, Bellwood, Ill., Spry school.

The four said they had not been able to attend the Fair this year, but that their recent pay checks had changed that. They said they would return later today and pay admission.

Make Own Program.

"We're going to help the teachers do what they like best throughout the day and are not cluttering up the program with special ceremonies," said Capt. Reilly. "Extra attendants have been ordered to the Hall of Science, the Court of States, the electrical exhibits, and the Travel and Transport building for the day because we believe the teachers will be especially interested in these exhibits."

While preparations for the entertainment of the teachers were under way James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, was in Washington conferring with Mr. Jones on the formal details of the agreement whereby the RFC will loan the school district $22,500,000 with school property not used for educational purposes pledged as security.

Wait Council's Action.

According to Washington dispatches, Mr. Jones assured the board president that the RFC is ready to advance the $22,500,000 loan as soon as the agreement has been approved by the city council and the board of education. Such approval is certain, it was explained, but Mr. McCahey preferred to submit the text of the agreement to RFC lawyers to make sure that it meets their requirements before it is acted on here.

Mr. McCahey, with Richard S. Folsom, board attorney, and Henry S. Cutler, municipal securities expert, who accompanied him to Washington, will leave for Chicago today to present the terms of the loan agreement to the city council and the board of education on Monday.

Mayor Ready to Sign.

Mayor Kelly will sign the council order approving the pact immediately after it is passed on Monday, he said yesterday, and it will become law in ten days. The government then will transfer the loan funds to Chicago and the checks can be issued to the teachers.

A delegation from the Teachers' volunteer emergency committee, said to represent all of the teachers in the city, appeared at the city hall yesterday and congratulated Mayor Kelly on the success of the school loan project.

Mayor Kelly last night attended a meeting of the 37th Ward Regular Democratic Women's organization on the lawn at the home of Mrs. J. B. Hamilton, 5920 West Huron street. Present were a large number of school teachers, who expressed to the mayor their thanks for his efforts in obtaining the loan that will enable the payment of all teachers' salaries in full.

GRAND JURY QUIZ MAY BE ASKED ON PENSIONS AUDIT

Citizens' Group Will Push Police Fund Inquiry.

Predictions that the Cook county grand jury may be asked to investigate transactions of the police pension board's investment committee and of a brokerage concern from which the board purchased more than $2,500,000 worth of securities during the years from 1930 to 1934 were made yesterday by members of the Citizens' Association of Chicago.

The association met at the Noonday club, holding a star chamber session at which it considered the findings disclosed on Wednesday when the George W. Rossetter company completed an audit of the pension board's books. The report of the auditors that former members of the pension board had made personal profits out of purchases of certain securities for the fund, and other alleged irregularities, were discussed.

Mayor Receives Facts.

None of the association members would reveal what action would be taken within the next few days, but Francis Broomell, president, said: "We were shown the audit and the amazing administration of the children's and widow's benefit fund. I can only say at this time that there will be immediate action on the basis of the audit. We are going to make things hum."

Mayor Kelly, who was given a copy of the audit on Wednesday afternoon, said yesterday that he had not yet had time to examine the findings with city attorneys.

"However," the mayor stated, "if I find that the newspapers have correctly interpreted the audit report I will do everything I can to see that justice is done.

Deals with Purchases.

"This matter, I am informed, may be one in which I would have no power. Some members of the pension board are elected by members of the police department and others are appointed by the mayor for a fixed term. All those now on the board were appointed prior to the time I became mayor."

The audit report dealt in detail with business dealings between the brokerage concern of Joseph M. Johnson & Co. and the pension board's investment committee which had the power to purchase securities with surplus funds.

One of the members of the investment committee was Police Captain Hugh T. McCarthy. His son, Hugh Jr., was a partner in the brokerage firm, and the auditors reported that the concern had made $100,000 in "excess" profits through transactions with the pension board.

Names Closed Banks.

Other matters reported in the audit included transactions in which, it is alleged, Harry B. Staver, president of the Citizens' Trust and Savings bank, and William O. J. Hattstaedt, president of the Lakeview State bank—both of whom were pension board members in 1928—made $15,979 in personal profits from the board's purchase of securities from their banks. Both banks are in receivership and neither of the men is now connected with the pension board.

HOLD TWO TO JURY IN HOLDUP.

Fred J. O'Hara and James Shannon, both 23 years old and both of 817 North La Salle street, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $3,500 each on charges of robbery yesterday by Judge Hayes.

FEDERAL FILES NOW HAVE FINGERPRINTS OF 39,806 CHICAGOANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Uncle Sam has the fingerprints of approximately 40,000 Chicagoans. The department of justice today announced that Chicago police have sent in for the federal files 39,806 sets of fingerprints since 1925.

Records from Chicago are part of the huge federal fingerprint outlay being built up. The government is now collecting such records at the rate of 144,000 a year from the larger cities in the country alone. Thousands of cities and towns contribute to the files.

During the year ended June 30 the Chicago police sent in 7,150 fingerprints to Washington, the records show. The largest number ever received from Chicago in one year was 8,113 in 1932. This total was larger than the annual contribution of any other city except New York for any year on record.

SEEK REBUILDING OF STOCKYARDS 'L' BY RAILWAY

The matter of restoring elevated service for stockyards workers became more complicated in a hearing yesterday before Examiner James R. Clark of the Illinois commerce commission, when Congressman Harry P. Beam moved that the commission cite the Chicago Junction Railway company to show cause why it should not rebuild the structure.

After argument the motion was referred to the commission for a ruling and the case was continued to Sept. 10. The elevated structure was destroyed in the recent stockyards fire, cutting off the service west of Halsted street.

There are now three actions pending before the commission. The first was the commission's citation of the elevated lines to show cause why they should not restore the service. The lines filed an answer to the citation and asked authority to run buses instead. The motion to have the Junction railway cited is the latest development.

There is a dispute between the Junction railroad and the elevated company as to which should bear the $100,000 expense of replacing the ruined structure. The tracks destroyed were leased from the railway by the elevated company in 1911 for a period of fifty years.

New North Avenue Lights Will Dazzle Street Tonight

Forty-six new one thousand candle power lights just installed along North avenue between Clark street and Clybourn avenue will be turned on for the first time tonight, it was announced yesterday by the North Central association. The installation of the lighting system was completed a month ahead of schedule by W. A. Jackson, commissioner of gas and electricity for the city. An official celebration under auspices of the association, originally scheduled for Sept. 11, will take place on that date, according to W. C. Calvert, secretary.

Police Clerk Is Dismissed for Drinking and Neglect

Richard J. Callahan, junior clerk in the bureau of criminal information and statistics, was discharged from the police department by the civil service commission yesterday on charges of intoxication, disorderly conduct and neglect of duty. The dismissal took place at the first hearing conducted by John P. Harding, restaurant man, who recently accepted the chairmanship of the commission without pay.

ILLINOIS G. O. P. HITS NEW DEAL; GIRDS FOR WAR

Party Is Revitalized for Campaign Drive.

lic economy. There is no substitute for private initiative in the field of business and industry, unless you want state socialism."

Crowds Reach Springfield.

Sunrise saw the automobile caravans moving across the countryside for Springfield, banners flying. The sun, which was parching the fields and drying up the Illinois rivers, gently flowing, gave no sign of mercy during the day, but this did not deter the pilgrims. They crowded along the pavements of the capital, the streets where Lincoln walked as an obscure lawyer and rising political figure, jammed the hotel lobbies and prepared to endure the worst flames of the day.

By 10 o'clock the ways to the fair grounds were thick with cars and crowds were gathering in front of the Coliseum. They were entertained by band music and when the doors opened at 11:30 began to fill the hall. There were 2,030 delegates to be taken care of and seats in the hall for 5,500. Unclaimed balcony seats were opened to the public at 11:45 and these were soon filled. From that time on it was a tremendous crush of late comers around the gates, with every seat taken inside. Everyone carried a small American flag. The men were all coatless, swinging fans and consuming ice water in a vain effort to keep down the turkish bath temperature of the hall.

Convention Opens at Noon.

The convention program was opened promptly at noon by C. Wayland Brooks, temporary chairman. Invocation was delivered by the Rev. J. H. Schlarman, bishop of Peoria. Later a prayer was offered by the Rev. E. S. Coombs of Peoria. Mr. Brooks then asked the people to remain standing and sing the first verse of "My Country 'Tis of Thee." This was sung with real fervor, ending in cheers. The Elgin watch makers sound money group, wearing sun helmets and accompanied by a band marched down the central aile, Senator Richard Barr at its head. This banner was first carried in 1896.

After the appointment of committees, Mr. Brooks plunged into his address to the delegates. This brought a new vigor and a stinging phraseology to his attack on the New Deal. The question that confronts the people today, he said, is essentially one of Americanism. Against this is the "actual and threatened imperialism of the New Deal."

Divine Right of Kings Dead.

"The time has come," he said, "to remind them [men flushed with power] that the divine right of kings was abandoned in this country in 1776, and will not be returned in 1934."

His speech was interrupted several times by cheers. He proposed for the Republican party the destruction of monopoly, to take the government out of competition with its citizens, to establish a definite limitation on real estate taxes, to unearth and deport communistic alien enemies and to take off the shackles of governmental interference from the citizens and let them employ once more their creative genius.

Moore Presents Names.

Edward F. Moore, chairman of the committee on permanent organization, reported, presenting Justus L. Johnson of Peoria, state chairman, for permanent chairman of the convention; Paul Samuels, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, as permanent secretary ,and John W. Kapp Jr., mayor of Springfield, sergeant at arms. This was adopted by the convention.

William M. Hodge of Decatur, state commander of the G. A. R., was introduced. Mr. Johnson was then presented by Mr. Brooks, the chairman. From the attendance, he said, it looked as though not only followers of Lincoln but those of Jefferson also were present. He made no speech, but started the work of the convention at once.

Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction, spoke on "Illinois Schools." Milton E. Jones ,candidate for congressman at large, spoke on the needs of the farmer. A time limit was placed on the speakers at this point, as the program had been delayed. People began to leave the hall for air, but were driven back by the intense heat.

William J. Stratton, candidate for state treasurer, made the shortest speech of the day. Not a dime of state money would be lost or stolen if he was elected, he said. Senator Noah Mason discussed legislation and education.

Illinois Trustees Nominated.

The committee on nominations for University of Illinois trustees presented the names of Andrew Magee, Harvey; La Grange Park, Cook county; William H. Wheat of Rantoul, and Mrs. Anna Wehrheim Brown of Sparta, Randolph county. A minority report was presented by State Representative Clinton Searles of Rock Island. He presented the names of the university alumni association, Merle J. Trees of Chicago, J. W. Armstrong of Rock Island, and Mrs. Mary W. Wall, Murphysboro. The two former have been trustees for twelve years. Mr. Searles said that whenever the Republican convention departed from accepting the alumni recommendation they had been defeated.

There was some confusion over these reports, the committee voting 14 to 9 on the majority report. Edward F. Moore made a motion to table the minority report. Mr. Johnson put this to a vote but was unable to decide which side had the greater volume of noise. He then called for a vote by districts. The result was 17 to 7 for tabling the report. Many were dissatisfied with this method and the chairman then put the question to a viva voce vote, asking whether the minority report should be substituted. This was adopted with such a roar that he ruled in favor of the minority report, thus putting the university ticket in the field again.

Telegrams were received from Charles S. Deneen, Louis L. Emmerson, and Frank O. Lowden, regretting that they could not attend the convention and wishing the party success in the November election.

Mr. Lowden's telegram follows:

"I regret more than I can say my inabiltiy to be present at that convention tomorrow. Never since the civil war has the Republican party faced a graver responsibility than confronts it today. As it then saved the Union so now must it stand unswervingly for the constitution in all its integrity under which alone the Union is secure. Meeting as it does almost within the shadow of Lincoln's tomb, it ought to be possible for the Republican party of Illinois to revive its courage and renew its allegiance to the great principles of representative government, of our hard won freedom, of equal rights under the law for all men, for which he stood with undaunted courage even in the darkest hours of the republic. To you, and through you, to the delegates there assembled I sent my heartiest greetings."

Parke Livingston, Cook county leader of the Young Republican league of Illinois, in a spirited appeal, declared that the younger forces of the party were unalterably opposed to the New Deal as a regimentation of social life started by the babylonians of ancient times and resurrected by the present national administration.

"We young people are opposed to the so-called New Deal because it would make of us mere cogs of a Russianized form of government," asserted Livingston. "Since the Declaration of Independence our people have been living in a land of opportunity with no limits to the heights which an individual might rise.

"We are opposed to the wild and unprecedented spending spree of the national administration. We feel that we and our children will be taxed to economic strangulation. We cherish a government that will safeguard the qualities of ambition, initiative and integrity for all men."

Roger F. Little attacked the state NRA and William E. King spoke on "The Tyranny of Regimentation." Senator Earl B. Searcy spoke on the "Tax Load and Tax Diversion." Over the speaker's platform was a cartoon of Gov. Horner eating "tax pie." Elmer J. Schnackenberg attacked the Horner rule of the legislature, calling it "auction block legislation." Leroy M. Greene discussed the "nuisance taxes." Placards lined the hall calling for the one per cent revenue amendment this year.

Hits "Tax Eating Machine."

George F. Nixon of Chicago attacked the "Democratic tax eating machine" and said the citizens face confiscation of their homes. He pleaded for a constitutional amendment limiting property taxes to 1 per cent. A $5,000 home, under this limitation would mean a tax of $50.

George F. Getz, national treasurer, Silas Strawn, Justice Clyde Stone, John A. Swanson, former state's attorney of Cook county; Col. Frank Knox, former Lieutenant Governor Oglesby, and Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman, were presented from the platform.

Mrs. Baur said the New Deal that is coming would be called the "square deal." The heat, she said, was melting all the women's factions together. She presented Mrs. William R. Fringer of Rockford, new state chairman of the women's division.

Mrs. Fringer said that as mothers the women were fighting for the future of their children. Women have come a long way since 1920, she said, and they must meet the challenge of today. The really important work is done in the precinct. As state chairman she said she was confident of the support of the Republican women of Illinois.

Ben O. Sumner spoke on "The Soldier and the Republican Party," B. M. Chiperfield on "Legislative Responsibility," and J. Lester Buford on "The State of Lincoln and Grant."

The delegates were informed at 4 o'clock that Mr. Fletcher was in the city and would be with them in half an hour. The only business that remained after that was the adoption of the platform.

Republican National Chairman Attacks New Deal

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.] — Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee delivered the keynote speech before the Republican state convention this afternoon. He said:

"The Republican party will continue to protest against and oppose the staggering cost of government under the present administration. At Jackson, Michigan, on July 7, I said, the 'New Deal' has cost to date $7,000,000,000. A treasury statement issued under date of June 30, 1934, gave the actual expenditures for the first fiscal year under the 'New Deal' as $7,105,050,084.

"Some of my critics have questioned these figures claiming: first, that a large part of these expenditures would have been incurred under any administration; second, that some of them were advances which may be repaid.

"But the fact remains that the treasury department's own statement shows that the 'New Deal'—the name by which President Roosevelt himself baptized his entire administration, and not merely the multitude of new offices he has erected and the swarms of new officers he has named to harass our people and eat out their substance, to paraphrase a forgotten document—has spent more than $7,000,000,000.

Huge Sum Is Authorized.

"I further stated that the congress had authorized the expenditure of at least $20,000,000,000 more. The facts are that, all told, between March 8, 1933, the day the last congress was convened in extraordinary session, and June 18, 1934, the day of its final adjournment, congress made specific appropriations to cover authorized, definite expenditures in the sum of $18,654,102,703. In addition, it authorized the expenditure of indefinite sums in excess of $8,000,000,000 by the Home Owners' Loan corporation, the Farm Mortgage corporation, the Federal Housing corporation, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation. How much of this latter amount will be spent cannot be accurately forecast, but considerably more than $2,000,000,000 has already been drawn upon.

"Again I have been charged with giving a misleading picture of the situation because some of this amount, like some of the $7,000,000,000, may be repaid. It is true that some, and we hope that all, of these advances will be repaid, but up to date no trustworthy estimate of the amount of these possible repayments can be made. Until they are repaid these amounts stand as a charge against the people of the United States and against the credit of our government.

Increase in Public Debt.

"In view of the lavish pouring out of the taxpayers' money by this administration there is, however, no necessity to exaggerate. Even if we accept the rose colored estimates of the amounts which may be repaid to the government which have been made by the apologists for the 'New Deal,' enough remains as a charge upon our people to cause us the greatest concern.

"No smoke screen of quibble can conceal the tremendous increase in the public debt already incurred in the short time this administration has been in office. Furthermore, it is evidently planning still further and greater expenditures, unless it be checked by a more vigilant congress.

"It has been charged that calling attention to these facts is undermining the credit of the United States. Not so. The credit of the United States can only be undermined by the government itself indulging in unsound financial policies and unchecked extravagances. Our people must face the fact that however these expenditures may be made—either by cash paid out over the counter or by the government's obligating itself to future payments—the bill for the unrepaid government advances and expenditures will come to them. We are entitled to know what our government is doing with our money and our credit.

"The expenditure of public funds has reached the point that reliable authorities state one person out of every six in the United States is receiving government support in one form or another. The administration characterizes this as 'priming the pump.' There might be some shadow of excuse for this creation of unprecedented deficits and piling up of public debt and increase of federal offices and taxes if there were some indication that the pump were going to begin operating on its own. But there is no such indication. The danger now is that in obtaining funds with which to prime the pump we are drying up the streams of private resources and public credit.

AAA Richly Primed.

"One of the pumps which has been richly primed is the Agricultural Adjustment administration, but it is not working any better today than it was when the priming process began.

"The declared purpose of the agricultural adjustment act was to restore the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar to parity, or 100—the level it enjoyed during the five year period 1909-1914. That act became a law in May, 1933, at which time the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar was indicated by the statistical index as 61. According to the United States bureau of agricultural economics, the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar in May this year stood at 61, exactly what it was the month the act became a law.

"A month ago, at the beginning of the new harvest year, the AAA issued a statement to the effect that as the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar was substantially what it was a year ago when the processing tax was first announced, the wheat adjustment program for the next year would be on the same basis as it was last year.

"The question inevitably arises that if the AAA in one year did not raise the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar one cent, and left him no better off than before the 'New Deal' began its vast experimental program at a cost of billions of dollars, why continue it?

A Tragic Disappointment.

"The failure of the agricultural adjustment act to afford any economic relief to agriculture is a tragic disappointment. Moreover, it has introduced into our agriculture a principle that is alien to our form of government and a menace to the welfare and the freedom of the farmers of America. That is the principle of a thinly veiled governmental control of agricultural activities.

"The administration began with the very pleasing assurance that all it asked was voluntary coöperation. The plan was sugar coated by the promise of the payment of benefits or bonuses to those who did coöperate. The plan did not work.

"As a consequence, additional legislation was enacted to compel, by means of the taxing power, the cotton and tobacco farmers to do what the so-called farm experts demanded. They are no longer asked to curtail acreage and paid a bonus if they do. Instead, a federal agency arbitrarily fixes the amount of cotton or tobacco they may market. They are taxed, or fined, 50 per cent of the market value of the cotton and 33 1-3 per cent of the market value of the tobacco on any amount they attempt to market in excess of the quota fixed by a federal burocrat. Moreover, they are liable, under the terms of the law, to fine and imprisonment in addition. A Texas paper pungently phrases this as 'the crime of the extra bale.'

"On June 15 this year the administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment act issued a statement in which he said:

"'Instinctively I shrink from the application of arbitrary federal power to regulate the production of American farms. . . . We are proceeding upon the principle of voluntary coöperation.'

Cites Historic Parallel.

"That statement, coming on the heels of the enactment of the Cotton Control act and in face of a clause contained in the Agricultural Adjustment act which makes the farmer a criminal if he violates any rule or regulation laid down by the secretary of agriculture in connection with the Agricultural Adjustment act, reminds one of a historical incident during the Napoleonic wars. Le Febvre, one of Napoleon's marshals, calling about him the populace of a small town which his forces had just entered, said:

"'We have come to bring you liberty and equality, but don't lose your heads about it; for the first one of you that moves without my permission will be shot.'

"It is perfectly apparent that if congress can delegate power to a federal burocrat to control the production and marketing of cotton or tobacco, by threat of fines and criminal statutes, the same can be done regarding production and marketing of any agricultural product. Should this be done the American farmer will lose complete control of his land. If we are going to deny the American farmer the right to till his own land and market the products thereof, we transform him from an independent citizen into a serf and we are back in the feudal ages. Already they are talking of moving farmers away from their lands and homes to become virtually wards of the government, just as we treated the Indians.

And the Blue Eagle.

"We have the Blue Eagle. It is a symbol of the 'New Deal,' yet it did not appear in the Democratic platform of 1932! It was not mentioned in the National Industrial Recovery act. It originated in the offices of the NRA.

"We have been told by Gen. Johnson that it is a copyrighted emblem which may be granted or withheld by order of the President or some of his burocratic representatives in the NRA. It is, in effect and for all practical purposes, a government license to do business, yet even Gen. Johnson claims it is not under the jurisdiction of any federal court.

Suppose, in order to compel all farmers to come in under the A. A. A., it decides to copyright a black crow and then decrees that all those who do not paint a black crow on their barnyard gate will get no government money. This may sound like a lot of political hooey, but it is no more fanciful than what has been done with the Blue Eagle—the badge of industrial servitude. If the Blue Eagle can be made to bring industry to the government's heel, why not have a black crow—the emblem of scarcity and crop reduction—for agriculture? The professors may yet decide they need such help in their fight against nature. Indeed, Secretary Wallace in his campaign for destruction of farm products reminds me of the farmer in Macbeth who hanged himself in the expectation of plenty.

New Deal and the Soviets.

"There is absolutely no difference between the 'New Deal' philosophy and the philosophy of the soviet government. The 'New Deal' philosophy has been that reduction of agricultural products is necessary to the economic prosperity of the nation, no matter what happens to the individual farmer. The philosophy of the soviet government is that an increase in production of agricultural products is necessary to the economic prosperity of Russia, regardless of what happens to the individual farmer.

"If tomorrow the 'New Deal' should decide the economic prosperity of this country, due to the drouth or other causes, demanded increased agricultural production, all it would need to do would be to reverse the lever of the burocratic engine it has constructed and the American farmer would be ordered to speed up where he had been ordered to slow down.

Success of the Farmer.

"Every one wants the farmer to receive in return for his labor, initiative, and industry the same commensurate rewards as are received by the laboring man, the salaried employé, or the man in business, but the Republican party does not believe that this end can be secured by erecting a burocracy with the power of life and death over every farm and farmer and over agriculture as a whole. Under such a system not only would agriculture, but our entire government, become the tool of those who possess the cunning and the power to seize and keep control of the federal governmental machinery.

"That is exactly the direction in which the 'New Deal' is headed. The road it is traveling has been traveled by other peoples at various times in history, and in every instance it has ended in the destruction of individual liberty and the erection of a dictatorial form of government.

"Many of our greatest leaders like George Washington and Thomas Jefferson were farmers, born and raised. Under a planned economy where every one is told what he may and may not do with his land we may produce crops and some demagogues, but we will not produce the kind of men and the kind of leaders that have made this country great.

Tarif and the Farmer.

"Now, a word about the tarif. The Democrats, both of the old school and of the new, claim that the tarif by unduly protecting our industry and our laboring population has hurt the farmer in two ways. First, by raising the price of the things he has to buy to work with and to wear, and second, by limiting or closing our market to the foreigner not only reduce his capacity to buy here but cause him to retaliate by putting high duties on American farm products. The Republican party maintains that neither of these arguments will bear analysis.

"I shall not, however, go into the merits of this Democratic contention today. I will merely call attention to this incontrovertible fact. The Democratic party has been in complete control of the law-making power for two sessions of congress and it has not reduced a single schedule of the much maligned tarif act of 1930.

"This, mark you, was the congress which passed practically every law the President told it to pass. Wouldn't you have thought that after all the outcry raised by them in the press and on the stump the Democratic party, with the aid of the 'Brain Trust,' would have had a tarif bill prepared which would have corrected these terrible injustices and iniquities that so injured the farmer and the consumer?

"With their absolute control they could have railroaded it through as they did so many other far-reaching and important measures without debate. They did not do so because they did not dare take the consequences. The truth is that there are so many states and communities now represented by Democratic senators and representatives which are so vitally interested in the protection afforded by the tarif that they were afraid to repeal it or revise any rates downward.

"To cover up this pre-election hypocrisy, their failure to act and also, perhaps, to evade political responsibility, the Democratic congress amended the tarif law by giving the President power and authority to reduce our tarif schedules by 50 per cent to carry out trade bargains with other countries. The well paid army of press agents of the government for awhile made a great play with the reciprocal treaties we were about to negotiate, but our people are still kept in ignorance of what the government contemplates doing in matters vitally affecting their industrial and agricultural interests.

"Mr. Chairman, I may be prejudiced. Practically all Republicans, unless they are "New Deal" Roosevelt Republicans, are now supposed to be prejudiced, if not indeed unpatriotic, but just the same I will venture to predict that in spite of all the fuss and feathers of this heretofore unheard of and, as I think, unconstitutional delegation of tarif power to the President, little or nothing of consequence will be done by this administration in the way of tarif reduction. Indeed, in both the AAA and the NRA they have made provisions for increased duties.

Compares Party Policies.

"Spokesmen for the 'New Deal' apparently think it is sufficient defense of the experimental program of this administration to ask what the Republican party would substitute in place of their policies.

"The Republican party is not a party of substitutes. The history of the United States during the last three-quarters of a century demonstrates this outstanding political fact. The Republican party has been the party of sound economic policies. Up to the time this administration came into power, the Democratic party never had an opportunity to try out any political nostrums which may have been advocated in its national platforms. They could not be tried because the people rejected them at the polls.

"But in the last campaign this procedure was reversed. The Democrats advocated some sound policies in their platform but adopted substitutes after they came into power. Let us look at some of their platform pledges, which Mr. Roosevelt approved 100 per cent.

"The Democratic platform and the candidate promised the mantenance of 'a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards.' Within ninety days after the inauguration the administration substituted a dishonest currency and a commodity dollar.

"The platform and the candidates promised public economy. The administration substituted unprecedented profligacy.

"State Capitalism."

"The platform and the candidate promised to take government out of business. The administration substituted a system of state capitalism by which the government is going into many fields of private endeavor by means of corporations set up by presidential appointees and financed by the taxpayers' money.

"The platform and the candidate promised the elimination of useless bureaus. The administration substituted for that pledge a perfect wilderness of alphabetical setups which now exceed forty and are still growing in number, and which scarcely a man, in or out of the Democratic party, can accurately enumerate or describe.

"The platform and the candidate promised the strengthening and impartial enforcement of anti-trust laws to prevent monopoly. The administration substituted the NRA, which abolished the anti-trust laws and fostered monopoly.

"The platform and the candidate promised a federal budget balanced on the basis of accurate executive estimates within revenues. The administration substituted a double system of bookkeeping whereby the public is in ignorance of the exact state of the budget.

Tangle of Legal Mystery.

"The platform and the candidate promised the restoration of agriculture. The administration substituted the degradation of agriculture, depriving the farmer of his constitutional liberties, denying him the right to conduct his own business, and through the instrumentalities of the NRA has pushed prices up on him to such a degree that he is relatively worse off today than he was when this administration came into power.

"The platform and the candidate promised a 'simplification of legal procedure and a reorganization of the judicial system to make the attainment of justice speedy, certain, and less costly.' The administration substituted, through the medium of the NRA, a tangle of legal procedure which it is impossible to unravel. A special committee of the American Bar association characterizes the situation in the following language:

"'Federal administrative agencies exercising judicial, in combination with legislative and executive powers, are obliterating essential lines of our government structure and, for the original classic simplicity, are substituting a labyrinth in which the rights of individuals, while preserved in form, can easily be nullified in practice.'

"Furthermore the administration has deliberately and skilfully sought to evade, and so far has succeeded in evading, a test of the constitutionality of many of its acts in the courts of the land. A federal judge in Baltimore a few days ago plainly stated that the battery of government lawyers in a case before him were deliberately obstructing the decision of the case on its merits.

What G. O. P. Stands For.

"Consequently 'New Deal' spokesmen put the cart before the horse when they ask the Republican party what it would substitute in place of the weird experiments which this administration is carrying on. The Republican party demands that the substitutes which the administration is now offering for sound, economic governmental policies be abandoned, and there be a return to common sense and constitutional government.

"The Republican party holds there is no substitute for the United States constitution and its guaranties of liberty to the humblest citizen.

"There is no substitute for sound money.

"There is no substitute for public economy.

"There is no substitute for a tarif policy which adequately protects agriculture and industry and labor in this country unless we are willing to reduce our standard of living to the lowest international common denominator.

Solvent Nation a Necessity.

"There is no substitute for a federal fiscal policy which, by keeping expenditures within receipts, maintains a solvent nation and keeps public taxes from becoming oppressive to the individual and destructive of productive private enterprise.

"There is no substitute for private initiative in the field of business and industry, unless you want state socialism.

"There is no substitute for representative government. The congress, elected by the people, should legislate for the people. It should not abdicate its authority or transfer its power to a group of burocrats and political parasites who hold no commission from the people and are not answerable to the people.

Appeals to Voters to Check It.

"Now, my fellow Republicans—this 'New Deal' administration is on trial at the bar of the public opinion of the United States. Verdict will be rendered on Nov. 6. Unless a check is administered at the polls, the Roosevelt administration will claim that its colossal expenditures and reckless experiments adopted without a popular mandate and as I have shown, in exact and diametrical opposition to the Democratic party platform promises, have been approved by the people and they will be encouraged to go even farther along the dangerous road they are traveling. And when I say dangerous, I mean dangerous.

"The philosophy underlying the 'New Deal'—the principle running through it like a sinister red thread must give the gravest concern to every man who loves this country and believes in her institutions and destiny. I think here, in Illinois, the home and last resting place of Abraham Lincoln, amongst a rural community where the distinctly American virtues of self-respect and independence have always prevailed, is an appropriate place to refer to it.

"It is, that the morale of our people is being undermined and destroyed by the 'New Deal.' Millions of people, amongst them farmers, the backbone of the country, are being lured and seduced into independence upon the government for their living. American liberty ought not to be sold even to one's government."

G. O. P. SPEAKERS ROAST DEMOCRAT RULE AT PARLEY

Assail New Dealers on Many Fronts.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The Democratic party administration of nation and state was attacked on many fronts today by speakers at the Republican state convention at Springfield. Here are excerpts from the speeches:

Roger F. Little, Champaign: The so-called NRA is the longest backward step ever taken by any nation founded on Anglo-Saxon concepts of government. NRA places all citizenship, private and corporate, in a strait jacket and denies to it the opportunity to progress. The state NRA act is the most craven, cowardly abdication and treasonable attempt to delegate legislative power ever recorded in Illinois political history.

"The government is now in the hands of a crew, intolerant of the rights of individuals and impatient of constitutional methods and safeguards. Essential to their success is restriction of the freedom of speech and of the press. Fortunate are we that the newspapers had visions and insight enough to see what the consequences would be, and brave enough to put up a fight."

Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Republican, floor leader in the house of representatives: "Some persons of obvious influence with the present régime at Washington seem bent on making America safe for socialism and burocracy. To accomplish their purpose, the traditions of our country are repudiated, the experiences of our nation are ignored, and the constitution under which America has grown and prospered for a century and a half is violated. A pyramiding and all-permeating burocracy threatens our constitutional form of government."

William J. Stratton, nominee for state treasurer: "In this hour, when the very life of our state institutions and the future of our republic is threatened, I earnestly beseech you not only to give your wholehearted support to every candidate running on the Republican ticket, but also to devote your time, energy and influence toward insuring the success of the Republican party in this campaign, that, in the language of Abraham Lincoln, 'The government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.'"

Milton E. Jones, Williamsville, nominee for congressman at large: "Freedom of action on the part of business, including the farming industry, is essential to prosperity. With prosperity your so-called surplus will disappear through increased and natural consumption of the farmer's products. Less government regulation, less government interference, less government intolerance and greater individual freedom are essential to the recovery of American agriculture."

Senator Earle B. Searcy, Springfield: "This year, 1934, with political plunder and slush funds at an all time peak, with the American farmer so fettered by Democratic tarif betrayals that South America controls the price of his grain, with the common run of citizens staggering under false price increases, this year, 1934, witnesses the darkest challenge of Americanism since the revolutionary war."

B. M. Chiperfield, nominee for congress from the 15th district: "Congress has abandoned its high position, has sold its birthright of legislation and become a rubber stamp for the President of the United States. Nearly 40 new bureaus have been established, and to these bureaus has been given the power to direct the life of the citizen."

Ben O. Sumner, nominee for congress in the 23d district: "Two years ago the Democratic party sang the soft sweet song of the siren to the veteran, lured the veterans into their ranks and then struck them down. But the veterans are now ready to get back into the Republican party to which they belong and which belongs to them."

Francis G. Blair, nominee for reelection as superintendent of public instruction: "Never was there a time which called more imperatively for us to rededicate ourselves to these fundamental doctrines of sound self-government [the doctrins of Lincoln] than at the present moment."

Senator Noah M. Mason, Oglesby: "The state treasury is today in default in its payments to the school districts of the state 17 million dollars, money appropriated to the common school fund but unpaid because other appropriations such as state pay rolls have been given preferred standing. Because of his betrayal of the one and a half million school children of Illinois I say Gov. Horner has become a millstone about the neck of the Democratic party in Illinois and that the downfall of the party in November is certain."

Charles H. Fletcher, Mattoon, nominee for congress from the 19th district—The Republican party desires to go on record as condemning the administration of the emergency relief and work relief programs of the Democratic party. The prodigality and waste with which relief has been handled has become so excessive that the New Dealers themselves have had to call a halt.

Representative William E. King, Chicago—Regimentation, which is the essence of the New Deal, is the greatest legalized racket in the annals of modern history. It is a scheme which steals away man's rights and liberties under the guise of recovery. It is throttling business of every kind and levying tribute to support an army of government hirelings who are defying the constitution of the United States and running the government to destruction.

J. L. Buford, Johnston City, nominee for congress, 25th district—A new emergency confronts this nation of ours. The system of government that you and I believed in is as surely being destroyed as it would have been if the confederate states had been victorious. I want to laud the institution that has brought us the light. The newspapers of this commonwealth have seen the dangers that lie ahead. Without counting the cost to themselves, they are giving the facts which show our people conditions as they are."

Representative L. M. Green, Rockford—The sales tax automatically expires July 1, 1935. The Democrats have already announced that they propose to make it a permanent part of the taxing system of the state of Illinois. The consummation of their purpose can be defeated only by the election of a Republican legislature.

George F. Nixon, candidate for president of the Cook county board: "The people of this state are being taxed into pauperism.

"The people's representatives in the last general assembly fought in vain for tax limitation. A bill was passed in the lower house and defeated by Democratic political chicanery in the senate.

"The Republican minority in the lower house led this fight. The people look to us because the governor and the Democratic party have refused to listen to them. They are not Republicans—they are not Democrats. They are the people of this state.

"They have come to us now, and this is one issue upon which we can go to them confident of victory in November."

Bathers in Pacific Ocean Find Selves in 'Hot Water'

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Bathers who took a dip in the Pacific today found themselves in "hot water," the ocean temperature being 75 degrees at noon. This was one degree warmer than the previous high temperature recorded in August, 1928.

CITY HAY FEVER SEASON STARTS EARLY THIS YEAR

The hay fever season is under way in Chicago, physicians said yesterday. An analysis of the pollen content of the atmosphere, announced during the day by O. C. Durham, botanist, with the Abbott laboratories of North Chicago, revealed four pollen grains were found in a single cubic yard of air.

This is sufficient to cause sneezing by hay fever sufferers, it was explained. Physicians declared that the hay fever season started eight or nine days early this year because of the excessive heat.

"Last year was the worst pollen year hay fever victims in Chicago ever had," Mr. Durham said. "Despite the early start, however, this year may be lightest in pollen content."

CORNER STONE'S "MILLS" NOW IS "MORGENTHAU"

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 9.—[Specail.]—The corner stone of Bridgeport's new postoffice building, which is to be opened next month, blossomed yesterday with the names of Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury; and James A. Farley, postmaster general, although, when it was placed in position May 27, 1933, the inscription was topped by the name of Ogden L. Mills as secretary of the treasury.

Mr. Mills' name has been removed, and so has that of James A. Wetmore, who was acting supervising architect of the treasury department under Mr. Mills. Instead of Mr. Wetmore's name, that of Louis A. Simon, supervising architect of the treasury department, appears on the stone. The name of Mr. Hoover's postmaster general, Walter Brown, did not appear on the corner stone originally. In the new inscription, however, the name of Mr. Farley is in letters just as big as those that spell the name of Mr. Morgenthau, and a good deal larger than those in the names which follow.

Arrives in Time to See Holdup; Robbed of $371

Miss Gertrude McKay, 440 Barry avenue, halted her car in front of her home yesterday as three men were taking $26 and a $50 watch from David Wolf, 1545 East 60th street, in a car parked several feet down the street. Two of the robbers came to Miss McKay's car and took her purse containing $26 and jewelry valued at $345.

BROOKS TELLS PARTY GOAL AT STATE MEETING

Candidate for Congress Is Speaker.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—C. Wayland Brooks, chairman of the convention and candidate for congressman-at-large, this afternoon made a speech before the G. O. P. convention as follows:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: My first duty is to thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me in electing me to fill the position which has in the past been dignified by illustrious men. In calling this convention to order today I do so with the full knowledge of the tremendous importance of our meeting; to take counsel with each other and to determine the course we shall take in regard to our government.

"We have the happy privilege to meet here officially, under the law, Americans, representing and constituting one of the great political forces that guide the destiny of a free people.

Heart of Great Nation.

"We meet in the capital city of a great state nestled in the heart of a great nation. We represent the Republicans of the sovereign state of Illinois, the state that joins the east with the west and the north with the south, a state composed of more than seven and one-half million free men and women anxious to see the right and to follow it.

"We are desirous of so conducting ourselves as to be worthy of our heritage and to continue to build a structure of government that will adequately meet the needs of the future and yet not destroy the truly American foundation which has been in the past and still is the hope of the world.

"As we meet in this city, rich in its tradition and proud of its contribution to the advancement and preservation of human rights, we come with a genuine sense of reverent gratitude for the life, the death, and the memory of the man who gave birth to our political faith, who gave freedom to an oppressed people and preserved the union of the sovereign right of states re-united in a common cause.

Points to Other Nations.

"As we look over the rest of the world today with its devastation and distress, watching the cruel, critical events of old despotisms masquerading under new names, crystallizing all power in the hands of egotistical individuals who loudly boast—

"'I am the government; I am the law; I am the Supreme court'—and putting men to death without trial or consideration, merely because they differed in their political views, we should be, and I am sure we are, grateful to the divine power and to the brave men and women who gave us a constitutional form of government; a government of individual liberty and rights guaranteed by governmental powers being nicely divided and distributed among the people that make up that government and support it.

America at Crossroads.

"America stands at the crossroads today, lacking perhaps the full realization that the destiny of any people is not a matter of chance, but is a matter of choice; not something to be waited for, but a thing to be achieved and accomplished. Uncontrollable and unexpected events may retard or quicken a nation's growth, but the main purpose of any government will determine its ultimate destiny.

"What then is the fundamental purpose of our government?

"The real purpose of the founders of our government was to secure for themselves and for posterity the blessings of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness by the individual citizen by throwing off the oppressive yoke of a distant government and creating a government at home, and that purpose has been religiously followed up to a little more than a year ago. Legislators elected by the people have often opposed each other on economic questions. They have quarreled among themselves over finance and tarif, but they have always united and agreed in defending self-government as the predominate and controlling national ideal.

Return of Imperialism.

"You and I have lived to see the time when the ancient doctrine of imperialism, driven from our midst over a century ago, has returned, coming this time under the appealing guise of emergency and necessity. Once more this old temptation has come at a time when a great people are in distress, bringing its offer of consolation and relief, but bringing with it also that inevitable characteristic of grievous and staggering burden of taxes that will ultimately destroy any government.

"The question today is plain. It is essentially an American question. Will the American people, consisting of the sons and daughters of the pioneers who dared the seas, felled the forests, forded the streams, climbed the mountains, crossed a continent in search of an opportunity to work, worship, and live unrestrained by the hand of a centralized government, yield to the bribery of imperialism now? Or will they demand that they be allowed to go forward with as little restraint as possible, without government control over the personal details of their everyday life?

No Time for Ceremony.

"I think the time has come when we must take a vigorous stand on that question. There is no time now for ceremony. These are days of swift, bewildering motion and change.

"I think the time has come when men elevated high in the affairs of our government should stop creating confusion and class consciousness by pitting one group of our citizens against the other. The time has come when men high in the affairs of our government who bask in the easy luxury of inherited name and wealth should stop calling the honest business man 'a chiseler' and speaking too patronizingly of the so-called common man and understand that under the constitution we are all common men.

"The time has come now to say to men flushed with power as they seek to entrench themselves by a continued and increasing march for centralized control of this nation that it is unusual, unnatural, and un-American; that it was never intended that one specially appointed individual should have the power to levy taxes by processing or otherwise unrestrained; that it was never intended that one man specially appointed should distribute these billions of blessings and benefits, where, when, and as he arbitrarily might dictate; that it was never intended that one man specially appointed should make all the rules of all the industry of a nation which are enforced as federal law by fine and imprisonment upon our entire citizenry, humble widows and working men alike.

Divine Right of Kings.

"The time has come to remind them, in their march for concentrated power, that the divine right of kings was abandoned in this country in 1776 and will not be returned in 1934.

"We recognize full well the many defects in our economic system and the terrific abuses that have grown up under them. We pledge to do our best to destroy these abuses, but a nation of patient people in a year and one-half of the most stupendous public spending ever known in the civilized world have come to the conclusion that you cannot remedy these defects by mere soft spoken words to the so-called common man and at the same time by governmental regulation build up price fixing monopolies to take away his regulated earnings by arbitrarily fixing high the prices on all his living necessities.

"What do we propose?

"We propose to destroy monopoly wherever we find it.

"We propose to take the government out of competition with the citizens who by their earnings and effort must support that government.

"We propose by establishing a definite limitation on the amount of taxes to be assessed against real estate to restore the great American ambition to own your own house and farm without the fear of governmental confiscation.

"We propose to restore confidence in the characters of American citizens and to provide adequate facilities for the unearthing and deportation of the communistic alien enemies in our midst that incite riots and seek to destroy our form of government.

"We propose to make the law so definite in relation to industry and agriculture that the American citizen can plan his own life rather than have some individual employed in a government bureau issue orders from a distant place at uncertain intervals, which carry with them fine and imprisonment unless the American citizen bows to that edict.

Take Off the Shackles.

"We propose to unleash the hand of the individual American citizen, the laborer, the farmer, and the business man.

"We propose to take off the shackles of governmental, experimental interference with the activities of the everyday life of the strong blooded citizens of this nation and let them employ once more their own creative genius, and if we do our part well America will march triumphantly out of its present distress, it will meet all of its obligations, and by the grace of God we will continue to amaze the world."

G. O. P. State Platform Warns of New Deal's Abuse of Liberty

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—"Liberty is too sacred for experimentation—bolshevism never thrives at contented firesides."

Thus did the Republican party in the state convention here today write into its platform an attack on costly New Deal experimentation and reaffirm its own time-honored traditions of orderly, economical and constitutional government.

The brain trusters were not mentioned by name, but the Republicans ripped into their policies from all angles. The party declaration began as follows:

"In order to restore good government and popular confidence therein the Republican party demands free speech and a free press and all other constitutional rights without infringement by NRA or any other governmental agency."

32 Grievances Listed.

Then the document set forth 32 points of grievance against the party in power nationally and in Illinois, together with suggestions for a restoration of "government of freedom" under the Republican banner.

Tying these points together, the Republican platform concluded:

"Inspired by the patriotism of Washington and Lincoln, yet with ever-changing needs of the 20th century in view, we declare our unalterable opposition to communism, bolshevism, socialism, or any other form of radicalism or dictatorship in government such as the present régimes are heading toward.

"We fear and caution against political or economic revolutions, peaceable or otherwise, without consent of the people. We cannot too solemnly reaffirm our unshaken confidence in our mother country, her ideals, principles and traditions. We feel securely entrenched under her constitutional wings, with free speech and free press definitly and for all time insured; with justice and equality for all and with unrestricted opportunity to the humblest citizen.

Confidence in Nation's Future.

"Therein all her greatness lies. As we marvel at her achievements of yesterday. we have confidence in her glorious tomorrow, if we pursue the course charted by our forefathers. Liberty is too sacred for experimentation. Bolshevism never thrives at contented firesides. We are unreservedly committed to a free government in its fullest aspect and we bow only to the will of the people."

The Republicans declared they viewed with amazement the Democratic promises of 1932 as compared with the "radical, near-communistic performances of 1934."

"No real Democrat," said this "broken promises" plank of the platform, "need apologize for deserting the un-American experiments of this year, even though he may have followed in the best of faith a leadership in 1932 which promised sound Jeffersonian remedies for a distressed citizenship.

"The Republican party asks citizens who believe in Americanism to join it in a determination to bring back orderly government, peace, and contentment," the platform continued.

"The Republican party believes in civil service, which the administrations now in power have debauched. It believes in wholesome working conditions, with labor in a position to keep for itself the fruits of its toil. It believes in an educational system that will induce young citizens to love America and abhor communism in any form."

In its stand on the farmer's problems the Republican party declared itself against the administration of the AAA and demanded the repeal of all taxes that constitute a direct factor in keeping the farmer from receiving for his produce a market price commensurate with the price paid by consumers for processed and finished commodities.

Diversion of $130,000,000 in gas taxes for relief and other purposes was lambasted as injuring the farmer and blocking reëmployment of men. The platform declared in this instance that 70 per cent of the farmers still live on dirt roads and have paid their share of license fees and gasoline tax.

Says Prosperity Depends on Farm.

Stating that upon the restoration of agricultural prosperity depends the return of prosperity to all, the document urged:

1. New industrial uses for farm commodities.

2. Removal of marginal and submarginal lands from production and their restoration to the public domain.

3. Reciprocal trade agreements with foreign nations.

"We demand that tarif betrayals of the Illinois farmers cease," said the Republicans, "that the federal government begin to foster increases of farm market prices instead of continuing to permit South America to hold Illinois farm market prices down."

In its preamble the platform proclaimed its loyalty to the principles of the party and rejoiced that it had been united.

"Two years ago, a then Democratic leadership, both state and national, promised tax slashes and governmental retrenchments," ran the preamble. "It solemnly promised to reduce government expenses and abolish useless commissions and bureaus. It promised to balance budgets.

"Instead, the state and national administrations, when elected, deserted every known principle of democracy, substituted a hybrid structure of socialism, and with abandon and dissolution never before witnessed by Americans, have already amassed the largest national debt in our history, and now have embarked on the project of the personal and economic conduct of every American citizen under the direct control of so-called government.

"Thus have these leaderships abandoned the followers of both major parties, and brought, not economy and retrenchment, but wastefulness and despair to trusting Americans."

Urges 1 Per Cent Limitation.

The Cook county planks, made public Tuesday, were adopted practically in their entirety. Gov. Horner was lampooned as heading a "despotic, tax-eating Democratic machine, squandering taxpayers' money and denying Illinois citizens an opportunity to vote upon a constitutional amendment for tax limitation." The sales tax was also attacked on the ground that it shifted the burden of taxation from those with ability to pay to those least able to pay.

The proposed limitation of 1 per cent on the fair cash value of property was urged. Following considerable debate in the platform committee this plank was adopted.

State Representative R. J. Branson of Centralia headed the committee that drew up the platform. Its reading and adoption came last on the program, and by that time many of the delegates had fled to their bath tubs for relief from the stifling heat.

CROP REDUCTION IS ATTACKED BY SENATOR BORAH

Farmers Are Worse Off, Idahoan Avers.

Meridian, Idaho, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah denounced the administration crop reduction program tonight as joining "with the chinch bugs, the boll weevil, the locusts, the storms, and the drouth in making scarce the things for which millions are nightly praying."

Such a program, he asserted, is "contrary to every phase" of President Roosevelt's political philosophy.

Speaking in a farming community 15 miles from Boise, in which he has in years past inaugurated several of his campaigns for reëlection, the senator declared crop reduction was not necessary to save the farmer. Instead, he urged termination of monopoly, protection from unjust freight rates, and provision of "a sound and sufficient currency system."

Mort Power Sought.

He commented that legislation failing of enactment by the last congress was likely to come before the next congress "to give the secretary of agriculture power to prescribe what a farmer may sow or plant, even what turkeys and chickens he may raise, and to manage in great detail the entire farm operation.

"It was proposed that the farmer must obtain a license to farm his own land. The secretary would then dictate the terms of that license. And failure to observe the terms would be punishable by fines as high as $1,000 a day if the unfortunate farmer were convicted.

"It was also contemplated that these regulators might dictate the terms upon which food products from the farm might be distributed. In fact, it gave complete control to the authorities in Washington to manage the simplest details of the farm. It robbed the farmer of his judgment, his discretion, his opinion as to what was best to be done.

Authors Fail to Agree.

"It is fair to say that the authors of the amendments contended they did not go so far."

He urged that there was ample need for all the farmers could produce if all in this country had plenty and commented that if there were an efficient economic system to enable him to do so "there would be none of this defeatist scuttling talk about abandoning millions of acres in the west and turning it back to the owls and bats."

The "amazing mystery" about the theory of crop destruction, he said, is "who sold it to the President."

"It is contrary to every phase of his political philosophy. The President of the United States is rarely gifted with a deep and abiding sense of optimism. This is well illustrated in the last few days in his plan to develop power in the northwest, a quarter of a century in advance of demands. This destruction of food and the things of which clothing are made in the midst of millions of hungry and ill clad men and women is the last spasm of pessimism. It has never seemed to me to be any part or parcel of the philosophy of recovery or the political philosophy of the President."

He declared "destruction is not the remedy" for 60,000,000 on charity and 20,000,000 living "meagerly." "Reduction," he said, "is not only economically unsound, but inhuman."

NATIONS PREPARING MORE BRUTAL WARS, LLOYD GEORGE WARNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 9.—David Lloyd George, Great Britain's fiery wartime prime minister, told his countrymen assembled for the annual national Eisteddfod festival at Neath today to look out for another war in Europe before long.

"Nations are preparing for more destructive wars than the world has yet seen," said Lloyd George. "Nations are spending five billion dollars annually to forge weapons for human slaughter, which this time will include women and children in the sacrifice."

By inference Lloyd George flayed his own country's plans to greatly increase its military air force. "The last act of the British parliament was to approve the spending of an additional $100,000,000 on the most horrible of all destructive weapons," he said.

He pleaded for reconciliation of patriotism and peace. The Welshman said that Britain was suffering from lack of leadership, which has come about from the fact that those who would have supplied the leadership of this generation were killed in the last war.

7 NORTH SHORE TOWNS IN COURT OVER WATER TAX

The north shore towns of Winnetka, Kenilworth, Wilmette, Glencoe, Evanston, Highland Park, and Lake Forest joined yesterday in a petition for an injunction to restrain Knowlton L. Ames Jr., Illinois director of finance, from attempting to collect the state sales tax on water sold to residents. The petition was filed in the Circuit court.

The bill said that the department of finance has construed the sales tax law as applicable to municipal corporations engaged in furnishing water service for manufacturing or domestic use. The plaintifs cite the state water act of 1872, which grants every citizen the right to take water from Lake Michigan for his own needs. Under this act, they contend, the municipal waterworks should not be taxed, since the water they furnish is used by the citizens living within their respective limits.

FIGHTS POLICEMAN. FINED.

Philip Gardino, 34 years old, 1932 Humboldt boulevard, was fined $1 by Judge Erwin J. Hasten yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct growing out of a fight with Policeman Lloyd Reichard Wednesday night after cars driven by the two had collided at Irving Park boulevard and Frontier avenue.

STEAL 1,027 GUNS FROM 29 STATES' GUARD ARMORIES

U.S. Seeks to End Looting by Underworld.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The underworld has stolen 1,027 guns—ten of them machine guns—and 23,110 rounds of ammunition from National Guard armories in 29 states since Jan. 1, 1932, William Stanley, acting attorney general, said today. At the same time he revealed that the department of justice has asked the war department to prevail upon state governors to end these thefts.

Stanley reminded that the federal machine gun law, which takes effect tomorrow, is intended to close firearms channels to the criminal.

"The underworld will have to get guns in order to operate," he said, adding that for that reason the justice department was particularly anxious to end the raids on National Guard equipment—loaned by the war department.

To Ask States' Assistance.

The war department intends to ask the governors of the states involved and other state executives to protect their weapons from the country's Dillingers and their ilk.

Stanley told reporters:

"We think the National Guard armories as a whole didn't appreciate what was going on.

"The amount of the losses has just come to our attention in the last year in a study leading up to enactment of the machine gun bill.

"We hope the people of the states will become interested in protecting the stocks of arms adequately."

Officials at National Guard headquarters here said they had been cooperating with state officials in an effort to prevent the robberies.

They said machine guns, rifles and pistols were loaned by the war department to guard units and it was the responsibility of state officials to provide proper storerooms for the the arms.

Imposes License Fee.

The law which goes into effect tomorrow imposes federal license taxes on concerns engaged in the manufacture and sale of sawed-off shotguns and machine guns.

The department of justice negotiated an unofficial agreement with machine gun manufacturers whereby they inform the President of proposed purchases of such weapons. The notice is turned over to the department for investigation. If the department approves the sales they are consummated.

Figures made public by Stanley showed that of the stolen guns, 49 were automatic rifles, 28 were other high powered rifles and 940 were pistols.

Two hundred and thirty of the stolen weapons and 1,250 rounds of ammunition have been recovered, but no machine guns.

"SEIZE SILVER," ROOSEVELT SAYS; DOLLAR SKIDS

Act Helps Debtors, but Harms Others.

terests of the United States may require."

The proclamation cites the authority granted by congress for the President to fix the gold content of the dollar and the relation of the silver dollar thereto. It adds that the silver purchase act, approved June 19, 1934, asserted:

"It is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States that the proportion of silver to gold in monetary stocks of the United States shall be increased with the ultimate objective of having and maintaining one-fourth of the monetary value of such stocks in silver."

Backing of Paper Money.

The authority of the secretary of the treasury to issue silver certificates from time to time is described and the reserve back of such new and old currency is stated to be:

"An amount of silver in bullion or standard silver dollars of a monetary value equal to the face amount of such silver certificates."

These certificates are made full legal tender and redeemable in silver dollars, "and the secretary of the treasury is authorized to coin standard silver dollars for their redemption."

The presidential proclamation cites his authority "by executive order to require the delivery to the United States mints of any and all silver by whomsoever possessed." It is pointed out that the silver may be added to the monetary stock of the United States by coinage or otherwise, as the President decides.

The purposes of the action, as set forth in the proclamation, are the stabilization of domestic prices and the meeting of the menace to American trade due to depreciated foreign currencies.

The proclamation further provides that silver mined after Aug. 9 may be accepted at the mints and paid for in silver dollars or silver certificates at the option of the seller.

The price to be paid for the silver is fixed by the proclamation at $1.2929 per fine ounce, troy weight, less a charge of "61 8-25 per cent thereof for seignorage, brassage, coinage, and other mint charges."

May Retire U. S. Notes.

With the peril of a collapse of national credit always present because of the huge expenditures of the New Deal, the profit derived from the silver nationalization may be devoted to retiring government notes as they become due, instead of attempting to refinance them.

As an evidence of the perilous position of New Deal financing, government bonds, which have been selling off in the last few days on inflation rumors, dipped still further today as the silver news broke. For the first time in recent history an issue of federal securities, 150 millions of guaranteed bonds offered by the Home Owners' Loan corporation, actually could not be sold at par on the day that the treasury sought to issue them.

A total of 128 million dollars' worth was sold for 99 cents on the dollar, and the remaining 22 millions in bonds were bought by the treasury itself.

Late in the day, however, new strength found its way into the bond market, and federal securities recovered. This strength is understood to have been supplied by the treasury department itself which started to buy in its own securities in order to support them. Before the day closed 21 million dollars' worth of government bonds had been dumped by their holders.

The present order applies only to silver stocks actually existing in the country as of today, and has no effect on newly mined silver, nor on imported silver. Commercial users of silver, such as film manufacturers and silversmiths, may obtain their stocks on the open silver exchanges as before, or may obtain them direct from abroad. There is no import duty on silver, but today's action here is expected to have a permanent rising effect on world silver prices, which have been lifted materially since the administration's monetary experiments began. Silver prices advanced sharply early today, before trading was halted by special order.

In foreign markets the American dollar cheapened sharply in terms of the franc and the pound. There were indications that the news of the impending move had leaked into financial markets, because in the London silver exchange, which closed 2½ hours before President Roosevelt's order was announce dhere, heavy purchases had forced the price up a half penny an ounce. The purchases were attributed to American sources.

Foreign currencies climbed in New York exchange, the Canadian dollar selling at $1.02½, up a half cent; the Italian lira at 8.67 was up 5 points; the Dutch guilder at 68.85 cents was up 67 points, and German marks were up 9 points at 39.40 cents.

New Silver Price Higher.

Newly mined silver will continue to be accepted at mints at a valuation of 64½ cents an ounce, a price fixed on Dec. 21, 1933, in an effort to aid the silver states.

Secretary Morgenthau said the decision to nationalize silver was arrived at this morning when he notified President Roosevelt by telephone that silver prices in New York had hit 49½ cents. The secretary said that inasmuch as the treasury had decided silver prices were at an appropriate level, it was necessary to act immediately.

ALL-BRAN MADE HIM REGULAR AS CLOCK

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Constipation

We quote from his voluntary and enthusiastic letter: "After reading your advertisement, I decided to use ALL-BRAN. I had been taking pills right along. But now I don't have to take pills.

"I take ALL-BRAN every morning, and am as regular as the clock. It has done me a lot of good."—Stephen Higgins, 51 S. Nein St., South Norwalk, Conn.

Common constipation freqently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet this condition can be overcome, usually, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

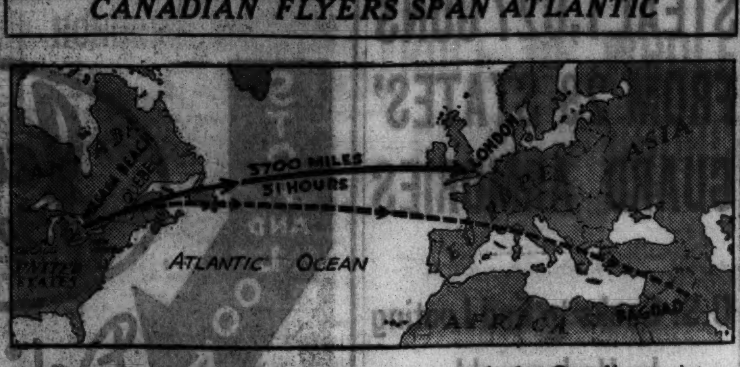
Tests show this delicious cereal provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body it forms a soft mass. Gently this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream. Us it also in making fluffy muffins and breads, etc. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CANADIAN FLYERS SPAN ATLANTIC



The dotted line shows projected route of the Canadian aviators, Ayling and Reid, from Wasaga Beach, Ont., to Bagdad, Iraq, a distance of 6,300 miles. The heavy line shows route actually taken by flyers. They landed at Heston airdrome, London, because of fuel shortage.

AIRPLANE CRASH FATAL TO TWO LAID TO LOOPING

Glasgow, Mont., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The looping of an airplane was believed by investigating authorities today to have been responsible for the deaths of two young men, one in a fall from the plane and the other in the wreckage of the ship as it crashed.

Lionel Carver was killed last night after toppling from his seat in the plane. Francis Freizen was the pilot. Both men were of Nashua, Mont., near which the tragedy occurred.

Three witnesses told authorities the pilot had been stunting shortly before the ship fell.

National Balloon Race Goes to Kendall of Navy

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The National Aeronautic association announced today that Lieut. Charles H. Kendall of the navy with 206.4 miles had won first place in the balloon race last week to determine America's three entries in the international Gordon Bennett race. Capt. William J. Flood of the army took second place with 189.1 miles. The winner of third place was undetermined because the log of Lieut. Haynie McCormick of the army had been lost in the mails.

FACE DISASTER OVER ATLANTIC; LAND IN ENGLAND

Canadian Aviators Fly 3,700 Miles.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug 9.—Safe in England tonight, the Canadian flyers, James R. Ayling and Leonard Reid, revealed that their flight from Canada had nearly come to an abrupt end in mid-Atlantic because of Ayling's drowsiness. They were flying blind through fog and clouds for 10 hours.

The pair flew their twin engine biplane Trail of the Caribou from Wasaga Beach, Ont., to Heston airdrome in 31 hours, covering 3,700 miles, but a frozen carburetor, causing excessive gasoline consumption, frustrated their project to fly 6,300 miles to Bagdad, Iraq, and exceed the 5,637 mile distance record held by Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi of France.

The Canadians landed at Heston, not far from London, at 6 p. m. [noon, Chicago time], and an hour later went on to Hatfield. They had used 400 of their 600 gallons of gasoline for the Atlantic crossing.

Used Wrong Foot.

Reid discovered their approach to disaster.

"All the time we were flying blind," he declared, "we were between 4,000 and 7,000 feet altitude. After a few aster. Ayling pushed the rudder bar aster. Ayling pushed the rudder bar away with the wrong foot, and the machine swung around 36 degrees. It gave him a shock to see the compass spin around, but it was a good thing, because it really woke him up. He was dozing. We found that we could not do three hours at the controls and took shorter spells.

"Not long after this, while climbing through fog, the carburetors froze open. We did not dare close them in case they froze shut, and caused the engines to fail." Reid added, "That was what upset the whole trip. The engines were using 17 gallons of gasoline instead of the usual 10 gallons."

Greeted By Small Crowd.

"We preferred to come down in England under those conditions rather than risk landing in some out of the way spot in Europe," Ayling said.

A small crowd in the Heston club house rushed to greet the flyers as they landed. They appeared much worn and tired.

"We're glad to be here," said the airmen as they climbed out of their plane, and Ayling, who is 29, went to a booth to phone his father, Sir William Ayling, at Berkhampstead, that he had arrived safely.

Upon reaching Hatfield, Reid, 36, was greeted by his mother, Lady Reid, widow of Sir William Duff Reid of St. John's, Newfoundland. He had telephoned her from Heston.

Today's flight is being hailed here as the first between Canada and England. It was the twenty-fourth Atlantic crossing by air. The airmen said they had no definite plans for the future. Detailing the flight, Ayling and Reid gave out the following joint account:

Flew Over Belle Isle.

"We took off at 5 o'clock in the morning on Wednesday with 600 gallons of gasoline under strong cross winds, and following the St. Lawrence river valley," the statement said. "Our last sight of land was Belle Isle, which we crossed at 9 o'clock Wednesday night. Half an hour later we saw a ship, and up to then the weather had been good, with tail winds.

"But at 2:30 a. m. we struck fog over the water and tried to get above it, but only ran into clouds higher up. We could not see water or sky, and were flying blind until about 10 o'clock this morning. Two hours later, through a hole in the clouds, we saw the Irish coast about noon.

"We experienced freezing in the carburetors and lost a great amount of fuel, which finally induced us to abandon our attempt to go on to Bagdad, since there would have been no chance to reach it without refueling. It was tough luck, that's all."

PICKS SOUTHERNER'S POCKETS.

Homer Garrett of Baton Rouge, La., reported yesterday to Central police that his pockets had been picked of $10 and $200 in travelers' checks as he stood on the elevated station platform at Madison street and Wabash avenue.

IL DUCE ORDERS CABINET IN TOGS FOR WAR GAMES

ROME, Aug. 9.—(AP)—A two-gun, leather-booted Italian government cabinet will go to the front between Bologna and Florence to learn about war from the doughboys, Premier Mussolini decreed today.

Il Duce ordered every cabinet minister and undersecretary in all government departments to take up posts of command on the "line of fire" during the army maneuvers scheduled Aug. 19 to 24.

Professor to War.

This means that the staid Prof. Francesco Ercole, minister of education; the dignified Pietro de Francischi, minister of justice, and all the other subdirectors of the nation's destiny must throw off the cloistered atmosphere of legal corridors and show their worth as military leaders.

The order includes dapper, high hatted, morning coated, and spatted Fulvio Suvich, under secretary of state, who during the last year has conducted many of Il Duce's most delicate international diplomatic interchanges.

He, like 58 year old Minister of Colonies De Bono, is a senator and a retired general. They must don olive drabs and equip themselves as soldiers during the maneuvers which are to be "as serious" as peacetime circumstances will permit.

Can't Play Hooky.

That they will be serious enough has been assured by Il Duce's order. Military officers say he intends to be present personally as war minister and commander-in-chief of the Italian army. The same line of maneuvers adopted during the naval exercises, finished yesterday, will be adopted.

This means that troops likely will be required to advance under real barrages and that gas mask drills are likely to become a serious business, carried on under tear gas and other fumes which would temporarily lay out any soldier who failed to enter into the spirit of the thing.

TELLS VETERANS NOT TO SEEK CCC AID IN CAPITAL

Ex-service men were warned yesterday not to go to Washington in the belief they can obtain immediate enrollment in the Civilian Conservation corps. The next general enrollment for veterans in the forestry camps will begin Oct. 1.

"Veterans throughout the country have apparently gained the impression that by coming to Washington they can obtain authority for immediate enrollment in the CCC camps," said a telegram sent by Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of the Veterans' administration, to officials here.

"This impression is erroneous. While exceptions have been made in the past, I have been advised by the director of emergency conservation work that in the future no more special enrollments of transient veterans congregated in Washington will be authorized."

SAYS VETERANS MAY DROP PLEA FOR U. S. BONUS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Commander Edward A. Hayes of the American Legion indicated today the bonus issue might be laid aside when the national convention meets at Miami in October.

Hayes did not reveal his attitude on the cash payment of the bonus, but he said:

"I have heard very little mention of the bonus in the state conventions I have attended."

A resolution urging bonus payment was pending at the Legion convention in Chicago last year, but it failed of adoption after President Roosevelt addressed the gathering.

"The universal draft," Hayes said, "is likely to focus the attention of the delegates and the Legion as a whole next year."

HITLER AMNESTY TO OPEN PRISONS FOR THOUSANDS

Second Decree Dissolves Austrian Legion.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—"Peace at home and abroad," Adolf Hitler's first slogan in his new capacity as Reichsfuehrer [nation's leader] found expression today in a proclamation of general amnesty in Germany and in the dissolution of the Austrian Nazi legion—self exiles from their country—in Bavaria.

The amnesty, which will open the doors of jails and concentration camps for thousands of political prisoners, was in celebration of Hitler's own decree by which he assumed the presidency along with the chancellorship. It is hoped the beneficiaries of his decree will flock to the polls Aug. 19 and approve his fusion of the two offices.

Dissolution of the legion created much excitement at their headquarters in Munich. The men will no longer be paid out of Nazi party funds. The legionnaires immediately doffed their uniforms, donned civil garb and declared that they now prefer to return to Austria. Those remaining in Germany will be sent to labor camps.

Austria Forces Hitler.

Austria apparently forced the dissolution of the legion when accepting Baron Franz von Papen, former chancellor, as Hitler's new minister to Vienna. Austria had proclaimed that Von Papen would only be welcomed when the legion was dissolved.

The amnesty will release prisoners who were convicted for the most part under the Nazi decree which makes it a crime to criticize Hitler.

Three other groups of offenders are also included in the amnesty decree. They are those found guilty of the Nazi lese majesty—uttering or printing remarks calculated to lower the prestige of the state; those convicted of uttering insults or causing injury to others in political disputes, and finally Hitler's own followers whose zeal in the Nazi cause inspired them to overstep the laws.

Treason Not Included.

The exact number to be released under the decree of amnesty cannot be predicted, but those affected come under the heading of prisoners who received small fines and short sentences. In no case does it apply to sentences for high treason, espionage, or attempts against life. Among those still held in this class are the communists Ernst Thaelmann and Ernst Torgler. In the decree Hitler asked for an immediate investigation, however, to determine whether the release order could be extended to those held in "protective" custody and to some of the suspects taken in the "purge" of the Nazi party on June 30.

Among the thousands taken into "protective custody" in connection with the events of June 30 were Theodor Duesterberg, formerly second in command of the Stahlhelm; Prof. Lorenz Morsbach, head of the German Student exchange; Walther Luetgebrune, defense counsel for Gen. Erich Ludendorff during the latter's trial, and Alfons Sack, Herr Torgler's defense counsel at the reichstag fire trial. It is rumored that Herr Sack has already been released. His office said he was out of town, but would return on Saturday.

Restricted to Aug. 2.

As it now stands, the "general amnesty law" applies only to those convicted before Aug. 2, the date of President Paul von Hindenburg's death. It releases those fined up to 1,000 marks [$400] and imprisoned for not more than six months, unless guilty of previous convictions.

Those with criminal records are released if their sentences as political offenders were not more than three months' imprisonment or if their fines were not higher than 500 marks [$200].

The decree was interpreted as a direct bid for support in the plebiscite ten days hence, when Hitler will ask for public endorsement of his self-appointment as German president as well as chancellor. It was also seen as an attempt to convince foreign opinion that the plebiscite will not be held with the opposition intimidated by fear of imprisonment.

Goebbels to Speak.

The Nazi campaign for the plebscite will open formally on Aug. 13, when the official period of mourning for Hindenburg expires. The opening gun will be fired in a radio address by the minister for propaganda, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels. Hitler will address the country over the radio Aug. 17. All owners of sets have been urged to hold parties in their homes on the occasion, and to invite neighbors without radios in to hear the speech.

Simultaneously with the issuance of the amnesty decree, a glowing Nazi report on the unemployment situation in Germany was released. The total unemployed was reported as numbering 2,426,000, which was stated to be a decrease of 54,000 during July. Announcement of the decrease, which was hailed as a great Nazi achievement, was accompanied by a statement urging redoubled efforts to reduce the number of workless.

Warn Against Ridicule.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The state of Baden has published a warning of punishment for persons who ridicule subjects of sterilization operations, of which 572 have been performed since Jan. 1.

State governments were instructed today by Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior, to centralize their health records for a national eugenic index. Standardized examination blanks, embracing the mental as well as physical condition of citizens, are to be introduced.

Visit Hindenburg Tomb.

HOHENSTEIN, East Prussia, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Germany continued tirelessly today to pay its last respects to the late President Paul von Hindenburg.

Thousands of persons in an unbroken line passed through the tower room in the Tannenberg war memorial to view the black draped coffin of the field marshal.

Large detachments of police and storm troopers were still on duty to handle the crowd and it was expected their numbers would be even greater next Sunday.

OTTO SPURNS SERVICE HONORING DOLLFUSS; SEES SIGHTS INSTEAD

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Archduke Otto, whose movements are being followed with interest as talk of Hapsburg restoration in Austria is heard, today declined an invitation to assist in a memorial service here for the slain Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

Otto, who spent the day sightseeing, was inclined to accept, but his companions, Count Heinrich von Degenfeld and Count Alexander Pallavicini, persuaded him to decline in order to avoid the possibility of unpleasant incidents.

The Austrian prelate, Count Rene von Poquet, left his card at Otto's hotel, expressing the hope that "during your majesty's stay in Copenhagen I will have the opportunity to bless your majesty."

Otto said that he probably would leave Saturday for Sweden. He declined to discuss Austria or politics. No indication was given as to whether he intends to go to Italy, which was said to be the final destination at the time he left Belgium.

One report here was that his trip had been arranged in such a way that he would be "in a neutral quarter" while restoration was under discussion. This report attributed the advice to Austrian monarchists and to Premier Mussolini of Italy.

AUSTRIA EXTENDS OLIVE BRANCH TO SOCIALIST PARTY

Asks Aid of Workers in War on Nazis.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Aug. 9.—Leaders of the outlawed Austrian Socialist party, to which the new government has repeatedly tendered the olive branch in the last two weeks, met today at Budweis, across the Czechoslovakian border, to decide whether to accept the offer.

Meanwhile, in the midst of their deliberations, the government made a new bid for Socialist support, which is likely to be more effective than any thus far. It freed Karl Seitz, former burgomaster of Vienna and the first president of the republic, who was deposed and imprisoned during the February revolt.

Seitz, escorted by six police officers, was taken to a sanitarium, where he has agreed to remain at the disposition of the authorities. He could have been released long ago at the price of formally admitting that he was no longer mayor of Vienna, but he refused, and finally won the moral point.

Both Sides Yield.

Exactly what the government's offer is, besides a promise of peace, to gain the support of the still numerically powerful Socialists in the fight on the Nazis has not been revealed. It is believed, however, first, that at least one undersecretaryship in the cabinet will be offered—perhaps to Seitz; second, that the Socialists involved in the February fighting will be granted amnesty or dealt with leniently, and, third, that a program attractive to the workers will be drafted.

Many Socialist leaders are understood to be willing, in order to meet the government part way, to abandon the principle that the party is international and to make their boundaries those of Austria.

If sufficient concessions are offered to make up for the bloody repression of February—which even many Fascist Heimwehr (Home Guard) sympathizers now admit was a mistake—there should be no difficulty in expanding the scope of the government to the left, as Vienna Socialists are far from being revolutionary Reds.

Austria Warns Von Papen.

VIENNA, Aug. 9.—(AP)—A warning to Franz von Papen not to mix in Austria's internal affairs when he arrives as German minister was broadcast throughout Europe tonight by Col. Walter Adam, Austrian propaganda chief.

"The success of the mission of Von Papen, who will be greeted in Vienna not as a special representative of Chancellor Hitler but as the minister from Germany," he said, "can depend upon nothing other than fulfilling the demand for honoring complete, legal, political independence of Austria, avoiding any interference with internal conditions even through social relationships."

Adam accused the German press of treating the putschists in the outbreak in which Chancellor Dollfuss was killed as heroes. He declared that the chancellor's pocketbook was stolen as he lay dying and that it was found in the courtroom where the putschists were searched. A report from Graz tonight said that Nazi prisoners there had started a hunger strike.

Chancellor Flies to Hungary.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Aug. 10 [Friday].—Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, Austrian chancellor, arrived this afternoon in Szeged, Hungary's second largest city, by airplane. The chancellor was accompanied by his wife and secretary.

Sensational rumors concerning the object of these conferences were categorically denied by official diplomatic circles, which said it is only natural Austria's new leader should pay his first political visit to neighboring Hungary, whose premier was such an extremely close friend.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug store. © 1931 C. M. Co.

BISHOP SEIZES RULE OF WHOLE GERMAN CHURCH

Three Southern States Rise in Protest.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(AP)—In a dramatic session of the National Synod and amid solemn protests of twelve representatives of the Bavarian, Hanover and Wuerttemberg state churches Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller today was made dictator over the Protestant churches in the individual states of the third reich.

Dr. August Jaeger, commissioner for Protestant churches, interpreting this sweeping act before half empty benches, said that this concentration of power would aid pacification within the church.

"With the abolition of individual states on Jan. 30, 1934," he said, "it became necessary also for the church to be incorporated within the reich."

Since the Reichbishop, named by the Nazi regimé, now has power to proclaim church laws by decree it was assumed that he would act in the matter of collecting church taxes in that manner.

Voice "No Confidence."

When Reichsbishop Mueller previously has attempted to enforce his decrees in synods, such as the Westphalian, which bitterly opposed him, the Westphalian group asked the members to pay the church taxes to the pastors instead of to the state.

When the church law concerning "headship of the German evangelical and state churches" came up a joint protest was read by the Bavarian and Wuerttemberg representatives, who declared that their congregations had no confidence in the reichsbishop.

They claimed also that members of the synod were not given a chance to consider the drafts which were handed to them only last night.

Protest also was raised against the hurried calling of the session "while the whole nation still is mourning the death of President von Hindenburg."

Trying to smooth out differences, Dr. Jaeger explained that the law was intended only as a temporary one "to pave the way for further pacification."

Earlier he had said that in the future "not balloting but brotherly discussion will be used" in the church.

Object to Hitler Oath.

There was opposition also to a law requiring pastors and church officials to take an oath of fealty to Chancellor Hitler, the Bavarian, Wuerttemberg and Hessian members saying this would bring many pastors severe qualms of conscience.

Nonconfidence also was expressed by oppositions to the law which legalized all past acts of the reichsbishop's church government, and it was contended that a government which has to legalize its laws by another law is itself illegal.

The only one of the many laws passed which received unanimous approval was that abolishing the church flag of a purple cross on white. Henceforth the Protestant churches will hoist only the national colors.

It was announced today that six church superintendents of Rhine province were dismissed for disobedience.

Vatican Rejects Accord.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—The vatican has rejected the accord made by Catholic bishops and the Reich minister of the interior covering the rights of Catholic societies under the concordat according to a report current here today.

This accord represented the result of months of negotiations and was accepted late in the evening, a few hours before the bloody purging of the Nazi party on June 30.

The vatican is understood to have refused to sign it because guarantees offered by the government for its fulfilments were regarded as insufficient. Evidently the murder of two Catholic youth leaders in connection with the "purge" destroyed the Vatican's confidence.

REVIVAL OF REAL AMERICAN SPIRIT URGED ON CLUBS

Kiwanis and Reveres Told to Fight Reds.

Appeals for a return to old fashioned Americanism in government were voiced by speakers yesterday at luncheon meetings of the Chicago Kiwanis club and the Paul Reveres, both held in the Hamilton club.

Another development in the fight against present day subversive tendencies in government was the departure for Boston of Michael F Shannon, grand exalted rule of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, to start a campaign against the spread of communism. Mr. Shannon, who left by airplane, said that the 1,400 lodges of Elks in the country would accept "marching orders" and combat Red doctrines.

Warns of Red Influence.

The speaker at the Kiwanis meeting was G. Simon Carter, secretary of the Constitutional Educational association. He declared that there are two schools of thought on American government today. One, he said, advocates a return to the system of the founders, a government of checks and balances and the respect for property rights that has made the nation what it is. The other school charges that the constitution has failed, and calls loudly for communism or a dictatorship.

"The real New Deal was made in 1788," Mr. Carter declared. "The men whom George Washington called to the first constitutional convention were skilled in government, had studied it for years as a science, and knew exactly where they were going. They had learned the first lesson of political history, that throughout the centuries, rule had swung like a pendulum from king to mob, and then back again to king.

"Out of every pure democracy had come a dictator, out of every attempt of the many to govern by direct action grew hard rule by the few. So they built on the middle ground, wisely safeguarding each department of government from the other, and with that structure we went literally from nowhere to the top."

Afraid of Government Today.

But today the man in business or on the street is afraid, Mr. Carter said, because no one knows what the government will do next. This fear, the speaker charged, is the result of a governmental program calculated to destroy appreciation of the established system.

In the last few months America has turned to replacing statesmen with demagogs, Mr. Carter declared. The principle of the founders that men qualified in public affairs shall be chosen to conduct those affairs has been set aside, he said.

"But there is a growing undercurrent of thought among the people about these profound changes," Mr. Carter concluded. "Something has gone wrong, and America wants to know what it is. It is the duty of the business man as the leader in the country's economic-political life, to assist to his utmost in antidoting the internationalist propaganda that is making this change."

Paul Reveres Hear Talk.

Lee Meriwether of St. Louis, world traveler and former state labor commissioner of Missouri, spoke before the Paul Reveres, a patriotic organization.

Mr. Meriwether, who has visited Russia a number of times, declared the threatening of Mrs. Kathryn Budd of Brooklyn, N. Y., forbidden by the NRA to make artificial flowers in her home to earn a livelihood for her family, was strictly in the Moscow manner.

Mrs. Budd, a widow and the sole support of two children and her mother, has waged a court fight since last May to modify the NRA regulations which prevent her working at home. The case has attracted nationwide attention.

"The New Deal which does these, and many like things, will be hailed by communist Russians as heaven-sent," Mr. Meriwether declared. "But to Americans who perceive its implications, who know it means an end of individual liberty handed down by our fathers, it seems an abhorrent thing that must and shall be rejected."

END DISTILLERY STRIKE; 1,100 TO RETURN TO JOBS

Pekin, Ill., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The strike at the American Distilling company plant, one of the largest in the Peoria district, was settled at midnight tonight, and tomorrow all the 1,100 employés are expected to return to work.

The strike, which climaxed last Tuesday night when nearly a score of persons were injured in a clash between pickets and nonunion employés, hinged on the case of John Booth, a fireman, discharged with what union men claimed was not proper cause.

Under the terms of the arbitration Booth is to be rehired as an ashman and pickets were to be withdrawn.

Win Back Pep—Vigor—Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages, with scanty amount, causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

NRA LOSES FIRST MAJOR COLORADO LEGAL BATTLE

Move to Enforce Coal Code Price Fails.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The National Recovery Act enforcers went down to defeat in their first major legal battle in Colorado today.

Judge J. Foster Symes of the United States District court in Denver handed down a decision which in effect condones the action of a Colorado coal operator who for more than a year admittedly has been violating the bituminous coal code.

The decision denied to the legal division of the NRA, the plaintif, an injunction restraining Ballard Gearhart of Mesa county from selling coal below minimum prices set up by the code authority.

Repercussions from this legal blow are expected to be felt elsewhere in the country.

Local code administrators in all lines felt that the decision would seriously hamper, if not altogether block, enforcement activities. The NRA litigation division here was urged to appeal the case immediately.

It was charged in the suit that Gearhart, with full knowledge of code provisions, sold his product below the minimum price, "with intent and design to violate the code." A brief filed by Gearhart in answer to the complaint admitted the charge, but contended that the act upon which the charge was based was unconstitutional

Since coal bought from Gearhart sometimes is shipped into Utah, NRA legal counsel attempted to invoke the interstate commerce act, alleging that Gearhart's acts caused "general depression in the price of coal, encouraged price cutting, and destroyed the free flow of interstate commerce."

Judge Symes in his decision said: "The particular acts and conduct of the defendant do not restrain or burden interstate commerce and are not subject to federal regulation. Injunctive relief is denied and the bill dismissed."

Lending added import to the content of his decision, Judges Symes stated, "We resist the temptation to write a general dissertation upon the economics of the New Deal."

HANGS SELF IN HOME.

Gustav Benson, 66 years old, 1436 Otto street, a retired painter, yesterday hanged himself with his belt in the bedroom of his home.

BATTLE QUARTET RACING IN AUTOS 85 MILES AN HOUR

Four men captured in a five mile chase that was marked by gunfire in western Lake county yesterday were held at the Lake county jail pending investigation of their records.

The men are Anthony Vercillo, 29 years old, 124 21st avenue, Melrose Park; James Torraco, 29, of 514 23d avenue, Melrose Park; Frank Bernardi, 25, of 1456 Polk street; and Carmen Salvatore, 23, of 216 South Washtenaw avenue.

Deputy Sherifs George Tiffany and John Sweeney of Lake county sighted the men in their car as they drove south in Milwaukee avenue through Antioch, and gave chase. During the pursuit, which at times reached a speed of 85 miles an hour, the occupants of the fugitive car flung out a sawed-off shotgun and a pistol which were later recovered. The car was halted by shots from the pursuers' shotguns, near Channel lake. Thirteen slugs struck the fleeing automobile but no one was wounded.

Tiffany and Sweeney told State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county that the four men offered a $500 bribe for their release.

Thistles on His Farm Cost Foe of Plant $75

Belvidere, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Arne Johnson, who is supposed to see that thistles are expelled from Leroy township, was fined $75 and costs in court here today. Canadian thistles were found on his own farm. Johnson contended he didn't know they were there.

CUBA TAKES OVER AMERICAN OWNED PHONE COMPANY

HAVANA, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The strike ridden Cuban Telephone company, a $28,000,000 American investment, was in the hands of the Cuban government today. A government official was placed in charge of operations as "interventor." H. C. Hart, American president of the firm, registered a vigorous protest.

The company refused to grant government demands that it reëmploy some 256 former strike leaders, charging some of them were guilty of sabotage. A group of employés of the firm, which serves the entire island, entered the building here last night, asserting they would remain until the issue was solved satisfactorily. Many of them have opposed rehiring of the former strike leaders. Spokesmen for the workers said they would sabotage the plant if the army tried to remove them.

Details of a transfer had not been worked out. It was understood the company retains title to the properties, but the government takes over responsibility for service. President Carlos Mendieta and his cabinet remained in lengthy session on the question.

"Gas Heat has ended our furnace worries forever"

Read why Otto Spilka, 1622 So. 61st Avenue, Cicero, endorses gas heat.

WE asked Otto Spilka what he thought of gas heat. Here is what he had to say: "We would never think of going back to the old days—the old heating methods. We installed gas heat when our coal bin was full—and never for a minute have we regretted it. Gas heat is with us to stay." These are Mr. Spilka's own words. Yet, if you were to ask any of the 20,000 other users of gas heat in the Chicagoland area, you would probably get the very same answer.

No furnace worries, no soot, no dirt

They know the comforts gas heat has brought to their homes. They know it is clean—absolutely clean. There's no soot to cover walls and curtains. No ashes to get furniture and woodwork dusty. No dirt to clean in the house or basement. Just uniform, clean heat, day in and day out, any time of the year. And with gas heat you can forget you ever had a furnace. No running up and down stairs to fix the fire. All you do is to set a little thermostat on the wall.

Get the facts now

Investigate gas heat now—before your winter heating problems commence. It costs you nothing to try it. You try it for one month, two months or a year before you decide. While you are trying it you pay only a small rental for the burner—$3 a month during the nine heating months in the average home. This charge is included in the bill for the gas you use. If at any time within the year you decide you don't like gas heat, we'll remove it and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike condition.

Now—before the cold weather sets in—get the facts on gas heat and the countless pleasures it will bring to your home. Call your local gas company for details.

YOU INVEST NOTHING To Try Gas Heat

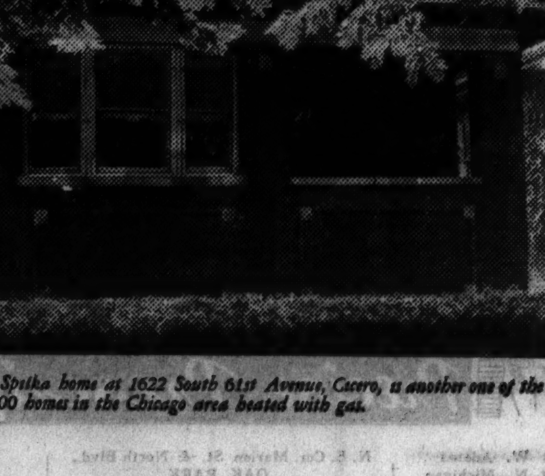
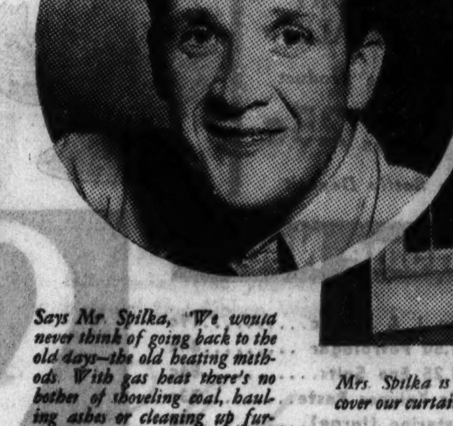
Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.



The Spilka home at 1622 South 61st Avenue, Cicero, is another one of the 20,000 homes in the Chicago area heated with gas.



Says Mr. Spilka, "We would never think of going back to the old days—the old heating methods. With gas heat there's no bother of shoveling coal, hauling ashes or cleaning up furnace muss."

This Summer Invite The World To Chicago

Mrs. Spilka is happy about gas heat. 'Soot and dirt never cover our curtains and walls any more. Gas heat is so clean."

Gas is a Servant in the Home, and a Factory Hand, Too

Gas does more than heat houses, cook, heat water and furnish automatic refrigeration for the home.

It is working in factories, large and small, the country over. No heating job is too delicate and exacting for gas in industry; no heating job is too big.

Gas puts the iridium tip on your fountain pen, helps solder your jewelry or glasses, and heat-treats the tiny steel wheels in your watch. In a single industry—making automobiles — gas is used to dry varnishes; heat plating vats, cast plates for batteries, temper springs, harden bearings and piston pins, braze radiators, and forge bumpers. It roasts vast quantities of coffee, bakes ice cream cones, smokes hams and bacons and toasts cereals.

Hundreds of the things you buy and use from day to day have been improved in quality or made more economical by the part gas plays in their manufacture.

JUDGES PONDER PLEAS TO UPSET MILITARY RULE

Minneapolis Case Heard in U. S. Court.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Three federal judges listened today to the impassioned appeals for and against the continuance of martial law in Minneapolis. For the first time since the truck drivers' dispute began more than three weeks ago, its issues were placed before the courts.

Arguments progressed until a late hour. When they were concluded, Judges John B. Sanborn, Joseph W. Molyneaux, and Gunnar H. Nordbye, took the case under advisement. They were expected to give a decision before the end of this week.

Olson Argues Own Case.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson was the most clamorus orator of the day. Both a defendant and arguer of his own case. Employers of the striking drivers are asking that martial law be withdrawn. Their counsel said it was oppressing their businesses illegally, inasmuch as the military is permitting trucks to move if their owners subscribe to a peace proposal made by federal conciliators. Gov. Olson, Adj. Gen. E. A. Walsh and the provost marshal, Col. Elmer McDevitt, are defendants.

If the injunction asked by the employers is granted, the state troops on duty here for two weeks will be subordinated to the local civil authorities. The employers believe they could resume truck operations with the coöperation of the police force.

Freedom of the streets of the city was the plea made by M. H. Boutelle, chief counsel for the employers. He declared martial law has resulted in violations of the United States constitution and the abrogation of state laws.

Denies Any Dictatorship.

"We are not living in an autocracy, and we have not reached the points of a dictatorship," Boutelle argued. "We concede that the executive has the right to call out the military, but we do question his authority to do anything given birth in his ideas. Ours is a government of law and not of men.

"The governor is bound by laws and a constitution which subordinates the military to the civil authority. What right has a governor and his military aids to subordinate the civil authority to the military? He can't do this unless our constitution is nothing but a scrap of paper.

"When the governor of a state calls out the military, he calls them out under civil authority. All military dictatorship must be amenable to civil law."

Cites U. S. Supreme Court.

Part of the employers' case was based upon a United States Supreme court decision in a Texas case where Gov. Ross Sterling called out the troops to enforce his edict of oil quotas for producers. The Supreme court held that martial law could not be used to control private business.

Gov. Olson spoke after Col. F. D. McCarthy, judge advocate of the guard. The colonel argued that the imposition of martial law had been necessary to preserve peace and order. He introduced 22 affidavits signed by residents of Minneapolis supporting the governors' use of the troops.

Through these affidavits, the governor, for the first time made public recognition of a contention long held by the employers — that communists are backing the strike. Previously he had referred to the charge as a "smoke screen."

Communist Meeting Cited.

Joseph E. Kelly, one of the citizens signing an affidavit, stated that he had heard plans discussed at a meeting of the unemployed council to participate in disturbances in order to help the striking drivers. Another affidavit, signed by John C. Kerr, told of a communist meeting at which speakers declared the communists were responsible for both the San Francisco and the Minneapolis strike.

Gov. Olson declared that his proclamation of martial law could not be interfered with "by any court," and that "it is preposterous to think any federal court could order the executive branch of the state government to put the military under civil authority as the employers desire."

The governor insisted that the Texas case was not applicable to the Minneapolis situation because no violence preceded the Sterling declaration of martial law.

Recalls May Truck Strike.

Olson went back to the first truck strike in May which he insisted was called "because of the alleged payment by various employers of wages which would not enable the persons to whom said wages were paid to maintain a decent standard of living for themselves and their families."

Gov. Olson also attacked the Citizens Alliance, an organization of business men who believe in the open shop. He said that the chief of police, Michael Johannes, had promised to "render whatever service is within our power" to help the members of that association.

Referring to the riot on July 20, when two pickets were fatally wounded and about 50 others were shot, Olson repeated his previous assertion that 40 of those were shot in the back by Minneapolis police.

He also defended his granting of permits only to those truck operators who agree to follow the peace plan of Father Francis J. Haas and E. H. Dunnigan, federal conciliators.

MILITIA SEIZES 4 AS FEUDISTS IN KENTUCKY

Judge Acts After Recent Killing.

Manchester, Ky., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The first use of the newly reorganized state militia in the suppression of outlawry today has resulted in four men being lodged in jail as suspects in a family feud that has taken four lives in the last six years.

The men were held for examination by County Judge J. M. Lyttle here in his inquiry into the slaying of Goebel Hammond and the wounding of Steve Martin on Tuesday.

Both Shot from Ambush.

An unknown assailant shot them down from ambush within 200 yards of where Hammond's father and two brothers met similar deaths six years ago.

The four suspects held are William Benge, 60; his son, Sherman, 40; Willie Cupp, 38, and a man who gave his name as "John Dillinger" of Indianapolis. They denied any complicity with the shooting.

After rounding up the men and placing them in cells, the militiamen were disbanded by Judge Lyttle, who had ordered them out to arrest suspects and investigate the shooting.

Would Divide Up County.

Because of the death toll in feuds and other outlawry in Clay county, where the recent shooting occurred, a recommendation was made two years ago by Nat B. Sewell, state inspector and examiner, to Gov. Ruby Laffoon that the county be abolished and parceled out among adjoining counties.

However, county officials vigorously defended the community and the general assembly took no action on the inspector's report. But now the fate of the county again is being discussed. Judge Lyttle's order calling out the militia stated that it appeared "there is a condition of outlawry existing."

KOHLER TO MEET STRIKERS TODAY ON PEACE TERMS

Former Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin and representatives of the striking employés of the Kohler company at Kohler, Wis., will meet today in the offices of Carl Steffensen, mediator of the Chicago regional labor board. It is expected that terms for the settlement of the strike will be discussed.

Steffensen said that there was nothing formal about the meeting and that he could not comment on possible developments.

At Kohler, where there were serious riots shortly after the strike started, all was reported quiet yesterday.

Reported Apart

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—R. C. [Danny] Dowling, movie dance director, and Marjorie Crawford, actress-aviatrix, today were reported separated. Their May wedding in Wellton, Ariz., climaxed a tempestuous and unusual wooing.

The couple motored to Yuma, Ariz., April 1 and Dowling applied for a marriage license there, but Miss Crawford accused her suitor of kidnaping her and taking her to the Arizona city at gun point, and kidnaping charges against Dowling were brought to trial in Los Angeles.

Dowling testified he had given his bride-to-be a bath in the Yuma hotel. Miss Crawford changed her mind in the middle of the testimony and decided she did not wish to press the kidnaping case. After drawing a rebuke from the judge the couple became reconciled.

ROBBERS STEAL CAR, LOOT THREE FILLING STATIONS

Three robbers, riding in an automobile which had been stolen earlier from in front of the home of Joseph Murray, 1506 West 51st street, took $73.50 and a quantity of oil in holdups of three south side filling stations yesterday.

John Janca, attendant in a filling station at 7356 South Morgan street, lost $1.50 and 11 quarts of oil to the bandits just 30 minutes after he had surrendered $12 to another robber.

"I have only $1.50 and a ticket to the police showup," Janca told the robbers.

"Give us the $1.50," one of the bandits told Janca. "You can keep the showup ticket. You'll need that."

The robbers also took $12 from George Mischeau, 7722 Maryland avenue, attendant in a filling station at 8919 South State street, and $60 from John Tabbert and Warren Bonke, attendants of a gasoline station at 1604 West 95th street.

Attorney Sues Husband of Woman Death Plotter

Marion Opas, former husband of Mrs. Bessie Opas, who is now serving a term in the Women's prison at Dwight for conspiracy to murder him, was named defendant in a suit filed yesterday in the Municipal court by Attorney Thomas E. Kluczynski. The suit asks $190 as the balance the attorney claims is due him for representing Opas in his divorce suit and in a property settlement with his wife.

OTTAWA MAN HANGS SELF.

Ottawa, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Despondent because he was without employment, Joe Kopchak, 43, hanged himself with a window sash cord last night at his home. The weight of his lifeless body caused the cord to break, letting him fall to the floor, where neighbors found his body this morning.

ELDERLY SISTERS LOSE LIVELIHOOD UNDER NRA EDICT

Need Permit to Continue Work at Home.

For 20 years Misses Mary, Jessie, and Louise West have supported themselves and their eldest sister, Catherine, and paid the taxes on their weather beaten brick house at 2234 Maypole avenue through their labors at home. Now they are, unwillingly, idle.

The sisters have been barred from working by an executive order prohibiting the sewing of baseballs—their work—except in factories. The NRA code for the sporting goods industries is designed to stop the employment of home workers.

Their former employers, George Young & Co., 715 South Western avenue, have offered the West sisters work in their factory. But they are all elderly and fear they could not keep up the pace set by younger workers. Also, they may apply for a permit to be allowed to work at home. The clause of the executive order governing such permits outlines the following conditions:

State Official Sees Hope.

"The home worker was accustomed to this method of earning a living before the code prohibition went into effect and is too old to be able to make an adjustment to factory routine."

Martin P. Durkin, director of the state department of labor, said that the West sisters probably would be eligible under this clause and that if they apply for a permit their case will be investigated and then passed on by the handicap advisory board, which holds its next meeting Aug. 20.

The red tape involved is a puzzle to the Misses West. Frankly, they are unable to understand why their work has been taken from them.

"I have made some inquiries about permits," said Miss Louise, "but I do not understand how to get one and I was told it would take a month or two to have one issed.

Hoped To Pay Taxes.

"We own our home here," she continued, "and have lived in it 20 years. We were looking forward to being able to pay our back taxes when this blow fell. Now it looks difficult. We have no other source of income. We can't rent rooms here and we can't sell the house. All that we ask is a chance to stay here and work. The stitching we did was suited to our abilities and we didn't have to hurry too much."

Miss Jessie West said her grandmother, Mrs. Catherine West, was one of the founders in 1860 of the Chicago Day Nursery and Half Orphanage. The father of the sisters, Samuel West, was a merchant who dealt in rugs, bedding and curtains on Lake street before the fire of 1871.

Both Miss Jessie and Miss Louise asserted they were much averse to asking relief, but Miss Jessie added that unless they could do the work they were accustomed to doing they feared they would have to apply for help.

Between 40 and 50 home workers employed by the Young company have lost their chance to earn.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attach the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."

—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

THE PRESIDENT ON THE STATE OF THE NATION.

After a pleasant absence of five weeks from the country and its troubled affairs, it is perhaps natural for the President to unfold before his fellow countrymen a picture of conditions resembling his hopes rather than the realities which are shaking the confidence of the country. It is certainly disquieting that we receive from him in his broadcast at Green Bay a view of our situation which bears so little resemblance to the actualities he will presently be expected to deal with. The high purposes he asserts virtually all men approve and share, but their mere assertion gives no substantial promise of relief from the dangers and difficulties which actually confront the nation.

The President would have us believe that the present mood of the nation is one of confidence with the deplorable but unimportant exception of some few protestants whose complaint he has no trouble in discrediting in the familiar method of disposing of the man of straw or the man-eating shark. Mr. Roosevelt has put up for our mutual condemnation an individual who exhorts him to return to that law of tooth and claw which he and his advisers would have us believe was until his coming the law of American life. This unnamed petitioner demands the abolition of all supervision over all forms of human activity called business and we are asked to believe that it is only he and such as he who cherish any doubts of the beneficence of the New Deal experimentation or any complaints as to its results up to this time.

The President may well rest assured that such a critic and adviser is negligible and we would even go further to suggest that he is not worth mentioning. But there are causes of discontent not so easily disposed of and we think it a pity they were not dealt with in the President's summary. If the conditions of violence in industrial dispute and the demonstrated inadequacies of the administration's elaborate machinery of conciliation are to be waived in any estimate of present conditions or other major aspects of the economic and social situation which are disquieting, a good part of the public would have welcomed a discussion of the humble, yet significant, case of Mrs. Budd, the flowermaker, and the plight of many other business enterprises under the discipline of the NRA. The unprecedented treatment of the airplane industry still remains without explanation satisfying to any one of fair mind or conscious of the achievement of American enterprise in that field. The nonarrival of reemployment guaranteed as the assured result of the enormous expenditure of public money would seem to challenge comment, and the prospect of increased federal spending with its certain implications of graft and political favoritism suggests the propriety of some assurances of restraint and correction, if there can be any. The sinews of the nation are strong and its spirit courageous, but the country needs and deserves at this time something more substantial than glittering generalities and unexceptionable sentiments.

HITLER OFFERS ASSURANCES.

The interview granted by the new president of Germany to the London Mail, published through the Associated Press in THE TRIBUNE, would be more influential if the means adopted and the spirit exhibited by the Nazi régime in its rise to power had been more consistent with its pacific declarations. Taken without reference to events, the pronouncement could hardly have been bettered by any ardent pacifist. If Herr Hitler and the forces he represents are governed faithfully by it the most disturbing factor in Europe will be removed.

There is a great deal to be said for Germany's protest against her treatment at the Versailles conference of 1919 and since that unhappy fiasco, and it is impossible not to sympathize with the German people's demand for adequate defense in the midst of heavily armed neighbors. But the Nazi régime has made it difficult for the friends of German restoration, and in fact it has isolated Germany to an extent not equaled since the period immediately following the war. British opinion and apparently even the guarded tendency of the British government toward friendly relations with Berlin have been seriously compromised by recent events in Austria and the "blood purge" in Germany; Italy and France have been brought closer, and an atmosphere of fear which is anything but conducive to the amelioration of Germany's international relations has been created. Nazi diplomacy, no doubt, has been heavily influenced by considerations of domestic politics, but whatever advantages may have been gained in that quarter have been expensive in her foreign affairs. From the latter viewpoint it could hardly have been more inept. It would seem that the skill of Bismarck in playing one adversary against another has made no impression upon the present directors of Germany's foreign affairs.

Herr Hitler's declarations will therefore be heavily discounted until they have been validated by the actual course of his conduct. But we do not think they should be taken as of no significance. The most suspicious and unfriendly critic might give them weight as evidence that the present German government recognizes the situation and will find it expedient to adopt a course more conducive to European stability. This is devoutly to be hoped for and should be encouraged as far as reasonable doubts and reservations justify. Europe and the world greatly need a stabilization of central Europe and a restoration of the German people to peace and prosperity. Disapproval and distrust of the Nazi régime should not be allowed to obscure that fact or subject Germany to a policy which would, and in fact has, supported the most mischievous elements of German politics. The blame for Germany's situation must be shared by some of her neighbors, and in fact its sources lie deep in the history of European politics since the beginning of the modern era. The whole picture is a reminder of the remark ascribed to Oxenstiern: "Observe, my son, with how little wisdom mankind is governed."

NATURE'S SCOWL AND SMILE.

Frank Ridgway in a wide swing around the country has encountered drouth, desolation, and despair in some spots and agricultural cheerfulness, industry, and bounteous crops in others. Nature has not visited all the country as a messenger of doom but in many spots has been her smiling, benevolent self. Kansas has been seared to the soul, but Mississippi is singing the song of harvest home. Wisconsin has prosperous farms and New Yorkers are putting up a varied and bounteous crop.

Some parts of the country which have supported millions look as if final desolation had fallen upon them. Others, with abundant rain, have produced above the average. No one could predict for 1936 what the conditions will be. They may be completely reversed. The land that lies stricken in its own dust may be a Garden of Eden. The proposal to accept this year's conditions as final and to move stricken people off stricken lands to spots governmentally prepared for them may lack prevision. There are, of course, people who live on lands which are always marginal or submarginal, but it may be taken into consideration that such lands frequently attract the very people who struggle on them. The land and the people are congenial. There are marginal and submarginal people, just as there are marginal and submarginal lands. It is not improbable that submarginal people would soon reduce rich land to about the same degree of productivity as that of the land from which they were moved. There are many mountain people, for instance, who would rather scratch such a living as they can from their hillsides than to face the responsibility of work on a productive tract. Possibly on new locations new generations could be taught different habits. That is the hope of the planners and it may not be wholly illusory. But the rule will stand that in the long run the people who really want to improve their conditions will have the individual incentive to do so on their own. Subsidizing of them certainly tends to subtract from any ambitions they might have.

IN SPITE OF POLITICS.

Recent news reports tell of the shattering of more world speed and efficiency records for commercial airplanes. A huge clipper ship of the Pan-American Airways, capable of carrying thirty-two passengers and 2,000 pounds of cargo with ease, flew for 1,242.8 miles at an average speed of 157.5 miles an hour.

Commercial air lines in this country are constantly improving both their service and speed. Metallurgists, aerodynamic engineers, and internal combustion engine experts have combined their efforts to produce the ultimate in aircraft.

The business man can now lunch comfortably in New York and dine comfortably in Chicago. One air line alone has twelve planes daily plying between the two cities. Pullman planes for longer travel are now in common usage. An overnight service to Los Angeles has arrived.

Thus a great public service and industry has been built up. Yet it was this great industry that the national administration tried to wreck not so long ago by the unprecedented and totally unfair action in canceling all air mail contracts.

The administration's action in this respect will remain a great mystery to most of the country. Only a New Dealer could explain it.

Editorial of the Day

TO FEEL IMPORTANT.

[Danville Commercial-News.]

The psychologists discourage us sometimes and make us think that we aren't much good as a race.

Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam tells us the reason we run to the scene of an accident is not the desire to help nor is it mere curiosity.

He quotes Dr. Alfred Adler as saying that with most of us it is just manifestation of the general human desire to be important. And Dr. Wiggam says we feel important if we can be the first to help the victim of an accident and we get a real thrill out of it.

So that is why we run to fires and to accidents. We don't go to put out the fire but to feel important. We do not go to save life but because we want to feel important. We are a sorry lot, we human beings, if the love of importance is stronger than other impulses.

We aren't versed in psychology, but we don't think it is because he wants to feel important that a man jumps into the water to save a drowning person.

Perhaps we don't know and the psychologists will scoff at us, but we are inclined to think that we may rush to an accident sometimes not because we want to feel important but because we know we would feel very small, very unimportant, indeed absolutely no good at all, if we failed to try to help.

But maybe we are wrong and the psychologists are right.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

I WOULD GO BACK.

Yes, I would go back as a dream through the years
Greeting the smiles of them, forgetting the tears,
And after the dream to awake to the joy
Of meeting once more that barefoot boy.

A boy with one toe bandaged with care,
A lad with a smile and whose tousled hair
Peeps from under an old thatched straw,
With the bulliest dog you ever saw.

Here's the boy with that long cane pole
That can reach far over the deepest hole,
And the old tin can with its wiggling bait—
But let's be off, for who can wait?

Barefoot boy, show me the way
To realms of boyhood of that other day,
To the flowing stream with its branches low,
To that kingdom of freedom of long ago.

TOO OLD.

"Are you seeking a position for yourself or for your daughter?" asked the efficient young employment manager of the "over 30" applicant. He had taken a correspondence course in psychology and felt he knew what department heads wanted even better than department heads themselves.

"For myself," replied the woman sadly. "Is that so singular? It is true I have worked many years in various lines of business. But I am really a better stenographer today than I was 15 years ago. It was impossible for me, owing to other responsibilities, to save enough in those years to provide for retirement. I must continue to work if I am to go on living."

"You may be competent. I grant that," said the young man, looking over some papers on his desk with an air of dismissal, "but employers these days are much opposed to older help. They are hired only in emergencies and are the first laid off. Offices and stores are mainly for the young. They form a more attractive background, and of course there is the matter of concentration and adaptability which is so important in business. Why not try housework or something more suited to your age? Sorry I can't speak more encouragingly, but I know what employers want."

So the woman of 35, who might have looked several years younger but for the lines of worry and fatigue, walked slowly out. In the hall she almost collided with a girl who had thrown a ball at another who had splashed a glass of ice water at a laughing young man. All were in the golden twenties. They were adaptable and they were concentrating—but not upon work. Ecila.

CIGARET AD.

Lady in Red, what can it be
That seems to hint of tragedy?
Is it the sadness of your eyes
Or droop of lips, grown worldly wise?
Pray have you had a brief romance
Which disappointed you perchance?
Your pensive face and queenly air
Must captivate men everywhere.
Exquisite one of Mystery,
I'd love to read your diary!

WE TRUST THOSE WAKE HELPERS who were wont to give us a few gentle thrusts while we were in Florida, Louisville, and at the Carnera camp are now happy and content. Their plaint was that we occupied nearly all the space with our own creations. Note our present forbearance. But we're giving contributors the run of the column for the present. Please excuse us if we don't promise to make this condition permanent. At times we just love to write, and as a reader we're our own favorite author.

VOICE OF A BUCKEYE.

Harvey: How do all you Hoosiers get that way? Taking all the space to talk about eating chinquapins which are, at best, only a halfwit sort of chestnut. Why, were you ever up in the Western Reserve of Ohio, and did you ever taste salt risin' bread? That's bread for you. When you cut it you don't cut into a porous loaf. Spread with butter, it holds brown sugar something wonderful and how good. Of course you may use it with that delicious farm-made maple sirup, but it's better to dedunk it with sirup. I wouldn't give you a loaf of salt risin' bread, if I could get it, for all the chinquapins in Indiana. Buckeye.

FREE FROM WORRY.

Wake-Line: That contribution entitled "Was the Mother Scotch?" reminds me of a recent happening. A mother took her small son to the doctor to recover a penny the child had swallowed. On examination, the physician found the youngster badly in need of a mastoid operation, advised the mother to dress him quickly and to rush him to the hospital. Said the mother: "But, doctor, what about the penny?" He replied: "Oh, that's such a small amount I wouldn't worry about it." I happen to know this mother was not Scotch.

VARICOSE VEINS.

VARICOSE veins of the lower extremities are not alone unsightly; they frequently cause discomfort, and are often associated with the so-called varicose ulcers. The word varicose is used to describe a vein that has become dilated, lengthened, and tortuous. Veins through which blood does not flow at the normal rate of speed may dilate because of the increase in pressure due to stagnation. With increased pressure the walls of the vein attempt to thicken, the valves are destroyed, and sooner or later the flow of blood back toward the heart is seriously interfered with.

The causes of varicose veins may be listed as long periods of standing that may interfere with the function of the valves of the veins; any obstruction to the venous return, such as pelvic tumors in women; cirrhosis of the liver; valvular heart disease; abdominal pressure, as at stool; disease of the vein wall.

Blood returns from the lower leg to the heart via two systems of veins; the superficial, that lies under the skin, and the deep veins that pass between the deeper muscular structures. These two systems freely communicate with each other, and the valves are so placed that blood can flow freely from the superficial to the deep veins, but not in the reverse direction.

Blood is returned to the heart from the extremities through the contraction and relaxation of the muscles, through changes in pressure in the abdominal cavity that virtually amount to suction, and through the constant pressure of blood entering the veins from the capillaries. Valves occur at frequent intervals and counteract the force of gravity. Hence if a vein becomes dilated the valve does not fit, and blood may then pass toward the feet when the individual is standing.

The older treatment of ligating superficial varicose veins is still used, and may be the treatment of choice in certain cases. Within recent years, however, a new plan of obliterating useless veins has come into vogue. It consists of injecting some irritating substance that will cause the blood in the vein to form a firm, tough, fibrin clot. When this is accomplished blood from the extremities will be forced to return to the heart via the deep veins.

The solutions usually employed are quinine hydrochloride and urethan, lithium salicylate, and sodium morrhuate. Of these, sodium morrhuate is preferred by many physicians who have had long experience with this method. The injection is made by means of an ordinary hypodermic syringe.

There are certain conditions in which the injection treatment should not be used, such as pregnancy, advanced heart, lung or kidney disease, diabetes, cirrhosis of the liver, or active vein inflammation.

In addition to the ligation and the injection methods of treatment great comfort to the patient may be secured through the application of an Unna paste boot. Unna's paste is a mixture of glycerin, water, and gelatin, and may be applied in conjunction with a light bandage, causing firm compression of the varicosed veins. The Unna bandage is renewed at intervals of from two to three weeks.

The injection method has been attended with such great success that it has become popular. Accidents are exceedingly rare. One report lists 53,000 cases with a high percentage of successful results. In the hands of a competent physician the plan offers great relief and if used before varicose ulcers develop will, in most instances, prevent their formation.

VITAMINS.

W. G. writes: Why bother about vitamins?

REPLY.

Symptoms of vitamin deficiency occur in a small proportion of our population. To this proportion the symptoms are real and ill health may result. Most of us can agree with you.

MINERAL OIL.

Mrs. E. H. J. writes: What is the harm or benefit of the continued use of mineral oil?

REPLY.

Mineral oil is indigestible and acts as a foreign substance in the intestinal tract. Many people have used it without harm for years.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—A married couple who are German citizens recently became the parents of a daughter who was born in Chicago. This couple intends to go back to Germany in a few months and perhaps reside there permanently. Will their daughter, who will be taken to Germany by her parents, lose her American citizenship, or will she retain it regardless of where she may be taken by her parents?

F. R.

The child is a citizen of the United States and is regarded as such by the United States government, but it is possible that the German government may regard her as a German citizen also. It would be advisable for the child to register with an American consul upon attaining the age of 18 years if she is then abroad.

ATTACHMENT.

Zion, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Three days ago a sherif attached my car on a judgment. I have filed debtor's schedule with the sherif, but he refuses to release the car. 1. How long can he hold the car now that debtor's schedule has been filed with him showing the total value of my property to be $125? 2. As this car is probably in storage at some garage, who should stand the storage charges? 3. What is the best method of getting my car back with the minimum of time and expense?

F. H.

1. He must sell within the ninety days' life of the execution.

2. They would be charged against the proceeds of the execution sale.

3. On the facts stated we see no way except by paying the judgment.

MORTGAGE INTEREST.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A holds first mortgage on property owned by B. B wants a reduction in interest rate, to which A agrees. Will it suffice to change the rate on the coupons? If not, just what procedure should be followed? M. O.

In general we advise against changing the papers on their face. It would be preferable to draw up an agreement stating the new terms. It will be somewhat difficult to work out valid consideration for the new agreement, since it is the general rule that no payment of less than the full amount due will operate as a complete satisfaction of an undisputed obligation.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The British cabinet is now considering a concrete offer made by those princes of India who have individual treaties with the imperial crown for the establishment of an imperial Indian air force. The proposal was discussed during the recent tour of India by Lord Londonderry, secretary for air, who presented the air ministry's views and then left the matter to the 27 great military rulers to decide. Their councils have now approved the scheme.

The nizam of Hyderabad, ruler over 14,000,000 subjects and a territory almost as large as Italy, has offered to maintain an imperial service air force of 250 land and sea planes, according to well informed government circles.

The maharajahs of Mysore, Kashmir, Baroda and Gwalior, who are first class rulers enjoying the same military honors as King George of England or the President of the United States, have between them offered 600 machines. The second class princes, those who come under the Rajputana and Punjab agencies and supply more than 60 per cent of the recruits for the Indian army, have offered 500 machines.

All of these machines would be maintained out of the pockets of the princes. They would in time add 1,350 fighting machines to the strength of the Indian army, a force which is considered in Indian military circles as negligible in view of the population of 350,000,000 involved and India's vast seaboard.

The case of Kashmir is interesting the British authorities. That state is near the borders of Russian territory, and although no data exist of the exact strength of the soviet air force, it is computed that there is a concentration at Tashkent of 500 air and sea planes, which are destined for operations either on the Oxus river or the waterways that intersect Kashmir.

The princes have carefully gone into the cost of the new arm. None of the states is in a position to meet the new expenditure without sacrificing something. In this case the rulers have decided to give up many of their spectacular regiments of cavalry and put the money into an air force.

The British government is treading warily over the princes' offer and has shelved it until the viceroy, Lord Willingdon, returns to his post. Already there is an outcry in advanced Indian circles that this new weapon in the hands of an essentially reactionary element in India will one day become a thorn in the side of Indian nationalism. To meet this the government has decided to set up a committee which will sit in the capital at Delhi this winter to consider the matter. It will be composed of representatives of the air ministry, members of the military councils of the first and second class princes, and prominent leaders of British Indian political thought.

So far the government of India has not given enthusiastic encouragement to British Indians to develop an air sense. A secret report recently declared that in India a mechanical and a revolutionary mentality went together.

Owing to this, flying in India has been soft pedaled from Delhi, but the new situation in the far east has awakened the princes to their danger, and is giving an entirely new complexion to this question of India's contribution to the empire's air defense.

A MAIL BOX ASSESSMENT.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—On Sept. 6, 1933, after receiving a notice for personal property assessment, I called at Room 319 County building and made affidavit that I rented a room furnished. Also that the other name on the mail box was for the information of the letter carrier solely, for the party did not now and never did live at that address. Now I receive an assessment "as of April 1, 1933." I did not live here until June, 1933. My schedule is $111. That of the other letter box name, who never lived at the address given, is $167. I called at Room 337 County building Monday and was given a ticket to call again on Aug. 14 at 2 o'clock p. m. before the board of appeals. As for the other assessment, I was told "to forget it" or "tear it up."

No assessor ever called here to ascertain facts. Names were taken from the letter box and the assessed valuations are purely imaginary. Does the assessor pay the carfare and time lost to individuals who are forced to make three or more trips to the County building to correct the idiotic blunders of their assessors who make appraisals from names on letter boxes and in telephone books and who seem to make it a point never to see the parties whom they are trying to assess illegally? A VICTIM.

SUGGESTING A LEGAL BATTLE.

Waukegan, Ill., Aug. 6.—Salutations to THE TRIBUNE! Keep up the good fight against the New Deal. Keep pointing out the hypocrisy, the unfairness, the unconstitutionality of the whole mess.

You are carving for yourselves a unique niche in the journalistic hall of fame; first by your successful attack on prohibition, and now by your fight against a would-be feudal tyranny.

I hope you won't object if I make a suggestion. I suggest that THE TRIBUNE establish a fund for law expenses. Then assume one of the New Deal violation cases which, if won, would shake the foundations of the entire program; hire the ablest lawyers and carry it all the way to the United States Supreme court. Then, if you lost, God help us!

WILLIAM DANSON.

PRINTING THE NEWS.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—I belonged to the haters' club until I read recent remarks of Johnson, Tugwell, et al., and saw Carey Orr's cartoon.

It is not a bad idea to form your opinion of a person on the character and intellectual ability of his enemies. To be classed with that outfit was a little too much, so I am out. Some years ago I had suspicions such as Johnson states as fact, but a daily reading of THE TRIBUNE and papers opposed to you has convinced me that you print the news whether it agrees with your ideas or not. EX-MEMBER T. H. C.

THE SOURCE OF VIOLENCE.

Moline, Ill., July 27.—I wish to tell you how much I appreciate your editorial, "The Source of Violence," in yesterday's paper. I am heartily in sympathy with all of it and want to commend you for the stand you have taken.

F. J. OTIS, M. D.

ODIUM THEOLOGICUM.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 30.—It was my pleasure yesterday to sit in on an event which showed me that I am not alone on my opinion towards THE TRIBUNE, and which I am glad to report to you, though I realize, of course, that it will never see daylight in your columns or, if it does, only under a barbed headline.

As Dr. John A. Ryan of the Catholic University of America, a foremost writer, lecturer, and thinker, and an outstanding authority on industrial and sociological problems, gave a talk before a large audience at Tekakwitha lodge on Nagawicka lake, some 26 miles from Milwaukee, he was interrupted only once. A heavy round of applause cut in when, in the midst of his talk he had occasion to remark: ". . . but if you believe THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, though how any one can, is incredible to me, etc." There actually were cheers.

Later Msgr. Ryan referred to THE TRIBUNE again. He said that the popes had long ago frowned on the kind of "liberty" which your newspaper is advocating—"the liberty of the strong to oppose and suppress the weak."

Here was a large audience, apparently of the same mind. Why doesn't THE TRIBUNE become smart, forget its selfish attitude? WILEY A. COOK.

AND YOU'VE WRITTEN IT.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—According to the President's broadcast of last night, the Republican party has had nothing whatever to do with national parks and national monuments, and you would think that the Wilson administration, and Franklin K. Lane, and the present administration under the direction of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mr. Ickes had saved all the beauty spots in this country for the American people.

In other words, Mr. Roosevelt by inference wants the country to forget that anything has been done except by the Democratic party. It seems to me that this ought to be a choice subject for a good strong editorial. F. H. ELAM.

AN ERROR IN ARITHMETIC.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 6.—Your article appearing in Monday's TRIBUNE referring to moving grain from Morris, Ill., to Chicago by water is very misleading. You quote the rate of 4 cents by river against 9 cents by rail, and indicate that inasmuch as this difference of 5 cents is based on 100 pounds, which is equal to about two bushels, it means a saving to the farmer of 10 cents per bushel. This should read 2½ cents per bushel instead of 10 cents, and any one connected with the grain business knows this, but the farmer and newspaper editors take things for granted.

PEORIAN.

TICKET FIXING.

Maywood, Ill., Aug. 7.—The reasons given by the public officers and officials for the persistence of ticket fixing in auto cases is obviously just plain alibi. The judge interviewed said that 26 per cent of ticket holders cannot be found because they give false names and addresses. What about license numbers? Every arresting officer gets your number. LUCY MEENS.

CODE MAY BOOST COUNTY'S RELIEF COAL $600,000

NRA Provisions Must Be Met, Says Reynolds.

Specifications for the purchase of three million tons of charity coal were being revised almost hourly yesterday at the headquarters of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, but one permanent provision was that NRA requirements must be satisfied. This provision will increase relief costs at least $600,000 in Cook county because of the application of the retail dealers' code.

Last year, after two months of controversy, bids were awarded to two coal companies whose margin for handling ranged from $1.11 to $1.36 a ton. The setup under the retail code this year provides a dealer margin of $1.75 a ton, an arbitrary figure arrived at after a public hearing here. Since the Cook county quota of charity coal is about one and a half million tons, the increase in the single item of relief will probably be considerably more than $600,000.

Have Definite Instructions.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the relief commission, was asked whether the commission was definitly committed to adhering to the NRA codes in the purchase of the coal.

"We had specific instructions from the Federal Emergency Relief administration that we must buy everything in accordance with the codes," Mr. Reynolds said.

Asked whether there had been any order from Gov. Horner that relief funds must be spent at code prices, he said there had been "no written instructions." Mr. Reynolds then added there was no order as far as he knows.

"Are you going to hand out the bids or open the field to really competitive bidding?" he was asked.

"The field is wide open, except that the specifications are limited to Illinois coal," he replied.

Price $5.10 to $5.85.

Unless some hurried change is decided upon, the code prices of the charity coal will range from $5.10 to $5.85, according to the quality. Last year the low bid in the city was $4.14, and the average of the bids submitted was only $4.35 for city deliveries.

Mr. Reynolds admitted that the "bids" under the code are expected to be a mere formality, since the "minimum" code prices prove to be also the maximum prices on the market.

"We want to satisfy everybody," said E. H. Smith, to whom was delegated the task of drawing up the specifications. "Our purpose is to keep many of the coal dealers off the relief rolls themselves."

The dealers, as the decision stood yesterday, were to be placed on a list like the relief grocers. Indigents on the rolls will receive coal tickets as they now do food tickets, and choose their own coal dealer, changing from one to another at their own discretion.

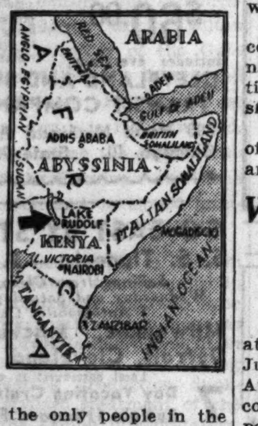
Regulations for Operators.

In an effort to prevent substitution of inferior grades of coal, the specifications state that the mine operator must write a letter promising to ship only coal of a certain grade from a specific mine to the dealers. The dealer will be required to possess in readiness to show to investigators the bills of lading for coal shipments, proving the coal came from a given mine.

The specifications require that each dealer must permit representatives of the relief commission to inspect his records at any time. Last year coal contracts with several companies were canceled because of large scale frauds.

TELL OF TRIBE BELIEVING IT IS ALONE IN WORLD

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The exploring Johnsons returned from their favorite Africa today aboard the United States liner Manhattan and reported the discovery of a lost tribe of lake dwelling natives, seventy in all, who are living between Kenya and Abyssinia in the placid belief that they are the only people in the world. The arrival of the Johnsons, the explorers suspect, did little to disabuse the native minds of this impression.



"They probably forgot all about us within two days after we left," Mr. Johnson said, adding that the whole affair, including the arrival of the Johnsons by amphibian plane, apparently made almost no impression on the immured seventy. They live on an island and lack even canoes to explore Lake Rudolph. They have no agriculture and live on fish. They are extremely skinny," Mr. Johnson added.

The nearest native settlement to them, the Johnsons believe, lies 50 or 100 miles distant. When the Johnsons dropped in "they were somewhat startled and we learned it had never occurred to them that other human beings might inhabit the earth or even, for that matter, that the earth existed beyond the shores of their lake."

URGE PROGRAM TO CUT TAXES AND SPENDING

Industrialists Attack Capital Stock Levy.

A program urging drastic reductions in taxes and government spending was approved by the executive committee of the American Taxpayers' league and representatives of industry at a meeting in the Stevens hotel yesterday. The program will be presented to a convention of the league, to be held here probably in the fall.

Speakers centered their attack on the new capital stock tax against corporate investments and advocated repeal of the federal income tax law. They suggested reduction of governmental expense through elimination of overlapping units and the raising of revenue by means of a federal manufacturers' sales tax.

The federal tax levied by the last congress against the capital stock of corporations was described as the "most important piece of tax legislation in the last 25 years," by J. A. Arnold of Washington, executive secretary of the league.

Deems Collections Confiscatory.

"The government is entering into the direct property tax field," he declared. "This is expressly prohibited by section 9, article 4 of the constitution."

T. W. Phillips of Pittsburgh, former Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, declared that present taxes are "virtual confiscation and destruction of wealth."

"Two per cent of the people are paying a majority of the taxes," he declared. "We cannot maintain a capitalistic system and continue to destroy capital."

B. W. Snow, of Bartlett, Frazier company, grain dealers, characterized the present tax program as a piece of patchwork, with overlapping federal, state and local levies.

Would Levy On Government Pay.

"If we are going to live through the next two years," he said "it is essential for men of knowledge to give all the help possible. We do not want to evade taxes, but to get a system under which the burden is distributed equitably."

The withdrawal of government from competition with private business and the taxing of incomes of employés of federal, state and local governments pending repeal of the income tax law were other points urged.

At the conclusion of the meeting, a committee, headed by Mr. Snow, was named to make plans for the convention and to get the program into final shape.

At the meeting were representatives of the insurance, grocery, packing and other businesses.

WAVES WOODEN GUN, STARTLING COURT; FINED $5!

Miss Eva Norkus, 25 years old, created consternation in the court of Justice of the Peace C. B. Dickerson, Aurora, yesterday when she drew a concealed wooden pistol from her pocket and brandished it.

"Look," she said, "it's just like the one Dillinger had. It wouldn't hurt a fly."

When the magistrate had regained part of his composure he announced that a fine of $50 was imposed on Miss Norkus. Later he became still calmer and remitted all but $5 of the fine.

Miss Norkus was arrested after she had threatened Valentine Jorkes of Aurora, whose brother-in-law employs her as a housekeeper, with the pistol. The Jorkes family asked her arrest, not knowing the weapon was a Crown Point type Dillinger gun. She explained that she drew the toy in court with no idea other than to prove its harmlessness.

BUS EMPLOYES' UNION CONSENTS TO STRIKE CALL

The Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés, Local No. 112, met last night at Carmen's hall and authorized the local's executive commitee to take whatever action it saw fit in calling a strike against the Chicago Motor Coach company.

On July 17 the organization ordered a strike for July 24, but postponed action to await a report from the national labor relations board on the NRA status of the motor coach company. This report was made on July 30 and recommended that the NRA compliance board take away the company's Blue Eagle, on the ground that it had failed to reinstate certain men who had been discharged.

Ralph Stolzman is president of the amalgamated association, which claims a membership of 50 per cent of the motor coach workers. John A. Ritchie, president of the coach company, has asserted that the proportion is much smaller. It was indicated that the strike call would be delayed until after Gen. Hugh S. Johnson has taken some action on the Blue Eagle recommendation.

EXPECT 30,000 AT PICNIC FOR DISABLED VETS

Preparations are being made for an attendance of 30,000 at the homecoming and picnic for disabled veterans to be held Sunday at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital, it was announced yesterday by John O'Connor, recreational director of the hospital. Veterans' organizations from all parts of the city and Cook county are aiding in the arrangements for the affair, which is under the supervision of Dr. Hugh Scott, managing director of the hospital.

Opening at 10 a. m. with a baseball game, the program will continue until 8:30 p. m., when outdoor dancing will begin in the space before the administration building. Other features include musical numbers by a kiltie band and two full length motion pictures.

Prior to the dancing there will be drills by American Legion drum and bugle corps and bands.

No More Duplicate Auto Plates, Illinois Decides

Secretary of State Hughes announced yesterday that duplicates will no longer be issued for stolen or lost automobile license plates. The losers instead will receive new numbers. The reason is that police, notified of a license number that had been stolen, have occasionally arrested the loser carrying his duplicate plates on his car.

NOISY MOTOR EXHAUST BRINGS FINES TO TWO

3 Drivers of Long Trucks Also Found Guilty.

BY HAL FOUST.

Judge Justin F. McCarthy of the Trafic court yesterday gave the support of the judiciary to two new Chicago police activities, the suppression of unnecessary motor exhaust noises and the prohibition of excessively long trucks and trailers.

The drivers of three long trucks were fined $50, $10 and $1, respectively, and two operators of noisy motorcycles were fined $25 each. Four defendants in muffler cases failed to respond when their names were called in court and Judge McCarthy issued warants for their arrest.

Orders Cash Bond.

"Hereafter, in muffler cases made returnable to my court," said the judge, "the defendants should not be issued summonses on the street but should be escorted to the nearest police station and required to post cash bond.

"Motorists who operate noisy exhausts are not entitled to courtesy of a summons. Their offense is a discourtesy to the community at large, and the offense has become so common with the growth of motor transportation that it constitutes a menace to health, demanding stringent regulation."

Four Face Warants.

The four for whom warants were issued were named as: Emil Klepin, 1507 South 61st court; Charles Davis, 1917 West 34th place; Willard Wilken, 3806 West 15th street, and Roy A. Monsen, 1407 North Leamington avenue. The first two were operating trucks and the others were driving passenger cars when they received summonses.

The motorcycle riders who were fined $25 each are Carl Dahl, 4615 North Albany avenue, who pleaded that his machine was the same as those used by the police, and T. K. McDonough, 1739 Foster avenue, who pleaded that his muffler was the standard equipment purchased with his wheel.

Long Truck Violations.

The $50 fine for excessively long truck was assessed against a chauffeur for the Akron-Chicago Transportation company of Akron, O., which makes regular deliveries of tires to Chicago. The offending tractor and semi-trailer measured 37 feet and 3 inches, which is two feet and three inches over the legal maximum for this type of carrier.

"We have been coming into Chicago for years, believing that we were permitted 40 feet, the same as for a truck and trailer," said Carl L. Strunk, Chicago manager of the company, "and now that we're advised of the law we'll cut the length of our trucks."

Ignorance No Excuse.

"You admit that you have been a consistent violator of this statute," said Judge McCarthy, "so your punishment shall be in accordance with your offense. Ignorance of the law is no excuse, particularly for a commercial operator.

"The increase in our motor death rate is due in a large measure to disregard for the law. Our legislature, in enacting this provision of the motor vehicle act, held that any single unit or any tractor and semi-trailer over 35 feet and any truck and trailer over 40 feet is a hazard. Common experience substantiates the judgment of the legislature. The truck dimension laws should be enforced."

Second Operator Fined.

Alfred Holden, another truck driver, received a $10 fine after admitting his guilt and testifying that his equipment was now in a shop for shortening. Seymour Lapin, 4224 Jackson boulevard, was fined $1 on his showing that his truck has been shortened since his arrest last week.

Sprout & Davis, Inc., of Whiting, Ind., operators of a fleet of illegally long trucks, gained a continuance, and the police were told by the court that they should continue to make arrests where violations by this defendant were noted.

The city's garbage trucks and trailers, rattling over the streets on hard tires in trains 72 feet long, presented a problem to Judge McCarthy.

Joe Mannino, a driver of one of these trains, was arraigned on a charge of operating an overlength vehicle.

City's Case a Problem.

"The city is broke and unable to purchase equipment in compliance with the state vehicle code," Joseph Butler, superintendent of streets, told the court. "The problem resolves itself into a question of which is the greater menace, to operate the present equipment or to close down our garbage collection service."

The judge entered a nol pros in the case on the showing that enforcement of the motor vehicle code might cause an epidemic from uncollected garbage.

ELECTROCUTE MOTHER OF 3 AND TWO MEN IN N. Y.

Son, 3, Tells Her He Had Lost Rubber Ball.

was dead at 11:24. After the current had been turned off physicians who examined him discovered a spark of life remaining and the current was turned on again. Saetta was strapped in the chair at 11:26 and was dead at 11:30.

The two men had been stolid about the punishment to be given them. Where the woman had refused food and water, they had eaten hearty dinners, taking advantage of the ancient prison maxim that a condemned man may order what he wishes. Saetta ate a big steak, Feraci roast chicken.

Just before the death march, Saetta made a last feeble attempt to save Mrs. Antonio.

"She's innocent," he muttered to his guards, apparently referring to Mrs. Antonio. But none paid attention to his words.

Court Bars New Trial.

Saetta had previously saved Mrs. Antonio from the chair by a last minute "confession" on June 28. At that time he gave a new version of the killing, exonerating the woman. But the courts ruled that there was no justification for a new trial.

The three were found guilty of the murder of the woman's husband, Salvatore, who was found stabbed and shot to death on Easter Sunday, 1932. Evidence at the trial was that the trio had planned the murder together for his $5,000 insurance which they were to share. They were convicted in April, 1933, and numerous appeals delayed their execution until tonight.

At Albany Gov. Lehman issued a statement declaring he was unable to find "any circumstances which would, under my oath of office, and the duty I owe to the people of the state, justify the commuting of her sentence. . . . I am convinced that each of the defendants is guilty."

3 UNIDENTIFIED SUSPECTS SLAIN BY PATROLMEN

Emporia, Kas., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Three men suspected by officers of planning to rob the Lebo, Kas., State bank were shot and killed by Kansas state highway patrolmen in a gun battle near here today.

The men had not been identified late tonight. Officers were checking a possibility they might be Raymond Hamilton, Irvin [Blackie] Thompson, and Joe Palmer, condemned convicts who escaped from the Texas state prison July 22.

Wint Smith, head of the Kansas highway patrol, said, however, after comparing the bodies with photographs of Hamilton and Frank Callan, also an escaped Texas convict, that none of them appeared to be Hamilton or Callan.

The men were shot and killed when two carloads of state patrolmen encountered them sitting in an old model motor car without a license number on a side road. When the officers got out of their cars they said the three men opened fire on them. The patrolmen returned the fire, killing all three.

Two Chicagoans Seized as Suspects in Michigan

Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Roy Waggoner, 22, and William Ocannor, 21, both giving their address as Chicago, were turned over to Grand Rapids, Mich., detectives as robbery suspects today. They were seized here on suspicion they planned to rob a local theater. They admitted checking a German luger pistol and kits of tools at a bus station here.

"Street Car of Future" Is Displayed

FAST, LUXURIOUS STREET CAR GETS TEST RUN IN CITY

Trolley of Future May Serve Public Soon.

A fast, comfortable street car yesterday began a 30 day demonstration on Chicago streets. The quiet, economical vehicle is of a type that may replace the present equipment that rattles and clatters over the rails of the city. It is the third such model being operated by the Chicago Surface Lines in search of revolutionary improvement in mass transportation of the future.

Guy Richardson, president of the Surface Lines, believes these improvements are not so far in the future as the layman might expect considering that the corporation is in receivership and with the general economic outlook none too bright.

The demonstrations may establish, he pointed out, that light weight, speedy cars will benefit the company and the community so much that a way can be found to expedite replacements.

Designed by Pullman.

Yesterday's addition to the experimentation was constructed by the Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation on specifications prepared by Dr. C. F. Hirshfeld of Detroit, director of a conference committee of electric railway presidents. This committee in 1929 raised $500,000 for such research work.

Quietness was obtained through a liberal use of rubber compositions developed during the last few years. The wheels, while of steel tread, are given resiliency as well as sound suppression through rubber inserts. Rubber deadens noise in trucks and springs. A welded body eliminates squeaks and rattles.

The body, designed by John Hession Jr., well known in the automotive field, is constructed of a corrosion resisting steel alloy known as Cor-ten steel. The rust resisting quality permitted the use of thin sheets so that the weight of the coach is only 31,000 pounds, in contrast with weights of 40,000 or 50,000 in standard equipment.

Better, Surer Brakes.

The low weight, in combination with a new braking device, helps to give the new car rapid acceleration to its 50 miles an hour top speed. The new braking device is a shoe that contacts the rail rather than the wheel and retards the vehicle with magnetic action as well as friction.

The comfort of the passengers has received attention in a control of acceleration and braking so as to eliminate jerks. Deep upholstery for seats, indirect and adequate lighting, and in forced ventilation are other new features.

MT. GREENWOOD FIGHTS REMOVAL OF FIRE STATION

A delegation of thirty men and women from the Mt. Greenwood section along West 111th street, headed by Maurice F. Donnelly, 10705 South Albany avenue, visited Mayor Kelly yesterday to protest the proposed removal of the Mt. Greenwood fire station from its present site at 111th street and Albany avenue to Greenwood Park. Removal of the station would create a fire hazard, since 90 per cent of the section the station now serves is made up of frame buildings and it would take apparatus fifteen minutes or more to reach the section from Greenwood Park, the delegation pointed out. Mayor Kelly assured the group that the move was planned only for economy and promised to try to find funds to repair the old station. Mount Greenwood was annexed to Chicago in 1927.

COURT SAYS LONG HAD NO POWERS TO NAME BOARD

Holds Police Bill to Be Unconstitutional.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Activity prevailed on all "partial martial" law sectors in New Orleans today, although there were no casualties.

Senator Huey P. Long received a stunning blow when Judge Nat Bond in the Civil District court ruled that the senator had no power or authority to name a police board to preside over the department in New Orleans. Such action had been taken by Gov. O. K. Allen at Long's admitted order following the passage of a bill in the recent legislature.

The court held that the legislative act was unconstitutional in that it deprived the citizens of New Orleans of the right of self-government.

Continues Contempt Proceedings.

A crowded courtroom also heard Judge Bond continue contempt proceedings against Adjt. Gen. Raymond Fleming who had been ordered by the court to disband the troops now in charge of the registration office. Judge Bond said that he did not regard the service obtained at Jackson barracks on sentries stationed there as legal. He declared, however, that to serve Gen. Fleming by force would bring about a clash between armed deputies and New Orleans police in which some of the "young boys, among Long's troops, might be killed."

He declared that Gen. Fleming would become the "wandering" adjutant general, as it is the intention and purpose of the court to serve him with contempt papers "if it takes years."

Beauty Appears at Quiz.

Mrs. Carl Fisher, secretary to the secretary of the New Orleans levee board, controled by Senator Long, created a sensation when she appeared in the Federal building and went before the grand jury which is investigating the income tax returns of Senator Long and his political associates. Mrs. Fisher, reputed to be one of the most beautiful women in New Orleans, was attired in a picture hat and a blue frock. It is understood that she was called upon to testify regarding the affairs of the levee board, which handles millions of dollars, due to recent airport and lake front developments.

Mrs. Fisher is the daughter-in-law of State Senator Jules Fisher, a Long leader. He was urged for nomination for the presidency at the Chicago convention, which picked Mr. Roosevelt, by Senator Long's rump delegation headed by former Lieut. Gov. Fernand Moulton. It is understood here that the United States attorney general's office in Washington is preparing to send a special prosecutor to New Orleans if indictments are brought in the income tax cases.

Mike Moss, former financial and political power and pal of Senator Long, remains under guard of federal agents and may be called before the grand jury again.

Teacher, 21, Registers.

Due to the sensation caused by the ousting of Miss Irene Bergeron, pretty New Orleans 21 year old school teacher, from the registration office by armed troops when she attempted to register, the young woman and her father were allowed to register this afternoon without question. Late yesterday afternoon when Miss Bergeron appeared at the registrar's office, the registrar, R. J. Gregory, said she had made out her card wrong and told her she couldn't register. Miss Bergeron held on to the card and said she was going to take it to the superintendent of schools, Nicholas Bauer, to prove it was made out perfectly. Gregory called a squad of the troops who are guarding his office, and the card was forcibly taken away from Miss Bergeron.

The affair created such a furore in New Orleans that when the young women appeared at the registration office this afternoon she was treated with all outward courtesy.

Twenty-two civic clubs are meeting in New Orleans Friday to demand the withdrawal of troops from the city and the lifting of "partial martial law," which is having such a crushing effect on business.

TWO INDICTED ON CHARGE THEY SLEW WITNESS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Monroe [Blackie] Armes and John R. [Bab] Moran, St. Louis gangsters, were indicted today by a St. Louis county grand jury on a charge of murdering John C. Johnson, Negro, star witness for the prosecution in the Kelly kidnaping case.

Johnson, in whose shack a gang allegedly held Dr. Isaac D. Kelly, St. Louis physician, during a 1931 kidnaping, was killed with a machine gun last May 12 as he sat on the steps at the home of a deputy sherif where he was staying for safe keeping.

Moran was arrested yesterday by detectives. He appeared before a grand jury today and announcement of the indictments followed. Armes is in Leavenworth penitentiary serving a ten year sentence recently imposed for assaulting federal officers in East St. Louis, Ill., during a raid on a whisky still.

Johnson, victim of the machine gunners, was said by Prosecuting Attorney C. Arthur Anderson, of St. Louis county, to have confessed that Dr. Kelly, who eventually was released without payment of ransom had been held in his shack.

The Negro implicated Angelo Rosegrant, Bart Davit and Felix McDonald as members of the kidnap band, the prosecutor said.

MISS HELEN BELL.

Busy Summer

The very best accessory in weather such as Chicago has been having recently is a huge fan, thinks Miss Helen Bell, who commutes between her home in Winnetka and A Century of Progres, where she is the director of the Junior league activities in the Children's theater on the Enchanted Island. So very busy has she been all summer that she hasn't had time to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell, at their summer place at Huron Mountain, Mich., for even a week-end, but she is hoping to get away today or tomorrow for a brief vacation at Huron Mountain.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Tsar Paul," a play with an insane emperor as its central character, was given its first performance on the American stage last night as the third and last production of the Todd Theater festival at Woodstock, Ill. It is a work by Merezhkovsky, an eminent novelist of the prerevolutionary régime in Russia who is well known in this country through his widely read "Leonardo da Vinci."

This piece, a typical historical drama full of Muscovite nobles, elaborately costumed army officers, and ornamental court attendants, brings Hilton Edwards, stage director of the Gate theater of Dublin, into the foreground of the Todd festival. He appears as the mad, or at any rate feeble-minded, tsar, son of Catherine the Great, who joined one of the European coalitions against Napoleon and developed grandiose schemes for military conquest.

The rôle has been acted in London by Charles Laughton, the specialist in psychopathic character analysis who has become internationally famous as a film star. Edwards has played it in Dublin with success, and the staging of the Woodstock production duplicates in its stylized treatment of the background the Dublin interpretation.

Edwards builds up, with vivid detail, a striking picture of an autocrat who is plainly the victim of a mental disease. The playwright has treated this character in a somewhat Tolstoyan manner, contrasting moods of savage brutality with pitiful breakdowns into whimpering self pity. In one scene Paul will be a bloodthirsty bully, raving against every one in sight, in the next he will be a tearful idiot, protesting Christlike sympathy for his people and the world.

All of this is rich food for any character actor with sound technical equipment, and Edwards gives a fine exhibition of his skill. He communicates the moods of dread and sympathy that the deranged autocrat inspires in his court with telling effect. He is a much more commanding figure than he was in the two preceding productions of the Todd festival, when he appeared in relatively unimportant rôles, Taffy in "Trilby" and Polonius in "Hamlet."

Orson Welles figures in the play as a prime minister who leads a conspiracy to bring about Paul's abdication and death and his son Alexander's succession. He achieves the effect of vigorous and cunning old age by a makeup that suggests a death's head. Michael MacLiammoir, who recently acted a fine Hamlet for this festival, appears as the young crown prince who is too scrupulous and gentle to lend himself to plots against the father whom he dreads and hates. Louise Prussing contributes a graceful and appealing study of the tsar's admirable mistress.

Concerts Hold Interest of Fair Throngs

Give Reception Tonight for Guest Conductor.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE may be more pleasant ways of spending an evening than listening to a symphony concert, either by the Chicago or the Detroit orchestra, down at the Fair, but the hundreds who find enjoyment these warm summer evenings in this way haven't discovered anything that is more pleasant.

The amazing part is that it isn't just the music lovers who frequent Orchestra hall in the winter who enjoy the outdoor music, and we will wager a bet that many men who never before were willing to accompany their wives to concerts in the winter will be more than willing to do so next winter as a result of the hours they have spent on the Swift Bridge or in the Ford Gardens this summer. Perhaps we would lose the bet, however, for it may be that it is the environment and the lack of formality that make these summer symphony concerts so enjoyable to every one.

The audiences are changing ones: some sit through the entire program, but others drop in for just a few numbers and then continue their sightseeing, but there always are newcomers ready and anxious to seize the seats of the departing ones.

Reception at Fair After Concert.

The arrival of Ossip Gabrilowitsch as guest conductor of the Detroit orchestra in the Ford Gardens will be celebrated tonight with an informal reception in the executive lounge of the Ford building immediately following the concert. Executives of both the Ford and the Swift companies will be among those present. Charles H. Swift will be there without his charming wife, however, for she sailed last Saturday on the Bremen for a visit to her father in Poland. Sir Hamilton Harty of London, for whom Mr. Swift entertained at luncheon yesterday at the yards, will be a guest also, and so will Mr. and Mrs. Eric DeLamarter, the Henry Hadleys, and President and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes.

Sir Hamilton will be here for two weeks as guest conductor of the Chicago orchestra, alternating with Mr. DeLamarter. Dr. Gabrilowitsch is to lead the Detroit orchestra, of which he is the regular winter conductor, tonight, tomorrow and Sunday.

Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago orchestra, and Mrs. Stock are expected to arrive in Chicago early next week after their annual trip abroad. They landed in New York yesterday.

A leisurely trip over the continent took them to Paris and to Bad Gastien, Austria, among other places. Mr. Stock will take over the baton of the Chicago orchestra for several concerts before the end of the season on the Swift Bridge.

Ellen Wacker to Be Debutante.

Another name to add to the list of those who definitly are to be debutantes this coming season: Ellen Wacker. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker of Lake Forest and finished last June at Dobbs Ferry. She is an attractive young lady and is having a delightful summer, dividing her time between Lake Forest and Lake Geneva, where she often visits her aunt, Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman. She is there now.

No date has been set for her debut, but her mother has about decided not to present Ellen until later in the winter, for there are to be so many early autumn teas on the north shore. The Wackers plan to have a pied à terre in town this winter, for with a debutante in the family it is very difficult to have to go to Lake Forest every night.

The art colony at Saugatuck is planning a fête and ball for next Thursday evening which is certain to be an interesting and jolly event. The various art schools and the resident artists are taking part and there will be life classes with professional models, costume numbers and so on. Paintings by some of the artists in the colony will be given as prizes.

The Alfred P. Shaws, who have a cottage on the dunes at Saugatuck overlooking Lake Kalamazoo, will have guests for the affair and so will Mrs. John W. Norton and Miss Nancy Norton and Thomas E. Tallmadge, who have cottages near the Shaws'.

The results of the time and effort—and money—spent on the lovely gardens around Lake Delavan will be exhibited today at a flower show to

Select Festival Entries on South Side.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

Dr. George U. Mason cried for joy last night when the judges announced that his daughter, Sara Corinne Mason, had won first place in the soprano south side vocal contest of the Chicagoland Music Festival. The contests were held in the Chicago Woman's club theater, 72 East 11th street.

Miss Mason, 22 years old, who lives at 8409 Drexel avenue, had worked all day at the notions counter at Marshall Field's before coming to the contest in which nearly 100 sopranos took part. It wasn't the first tears that Dr. Mason had shed over his daughter's voice. Miss Mason, who won first place in the 1933 north side TRIBUNE vocal contest, said that her father always cries when she sings and that it always inspires her. The winner made a charming picture as she sang "Ritorna Vincitor," from "Aida," by Verdi.

Miss Mason was born in Decatur, Ill., and her ambition is to sing Wagnerian rôles. She is a soloist at the St. James Methodist Episcopal church.

Two Negro sopranos were adjudged by Hanna Butler, Helen Fouts Cahoon, and Samuel R. Burkholder second and third place winners, both mothers of two children. The second ranking soprano was Mrs. Clara M. Bolton, 28 years old, 6522 Rhodes avenue. At the suggestion of J. Wesley Jones, one of the two Negro conductors in THE TRIBUNE'S festival to be held Saturday night, Aug. 18, in Soldiers' field, she sang "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child," by Burleigh.

Third place went to Mrs. Rose Page Welch, 30 years old, 3402½ Giles avenue. Her husband, who works at the stockyards, sang second tenor in the Deep River Male quartet which won first place in the first Chicagoland Music Festival contest in 1930. Mrs. Welch works out one day each week to pay for her music lessons. She sings in the Disciples of Christ choir, which is directed by her husband. She sang "In the Times of Roses," by Reichardt.

First place in the baritone division went to John O. Corbin, 33 years old, a house painter, who because of the heat, took off his coat, opened his collar, and sang "Requiem," by Homer. He lives at 8103 Ingleside avenue.

Mexican born, Antonio Lopez Chavez, 30 years old, auditor of the Pullman company, who has a son, Mark Anthony, 6 years old, received second place rating. First he sang "That's Why Darkies Were Born," but on recall by the judges he gave the second part of the Prologue from "I Pagliacci."

Third place went to Glenn H. Wagner, 23 years old, a shipping clerk for Johnson & Johnson. He lives at 6423 Harper avenue.

These winners, together with 13 other Cook county sectional winners, will compete next Thursday night at 7 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel in the Chicago finals. Following the contests last night, Carl Craven, choral director, rehersed the Festival Hallelujah Chorus and members of the Choral Directors' guild in numbers which they will sing at the festival in Soldiers' field.

The deadline for entry of soloists not from Cook county will be this evening at 6 p. m. Entries must be in the festival headquarters, room 2218, Tribune Tower, by that time. No phone call entries are accepted.

THE other night in the greasing station under the viaduct at the 23d street parking lot at the Fair a car pulled into a space and the attendant asked the driver what service he needed. The man at the wheel said he didn't want any service.

"Sorry, the rule is that you can't park without service," said the attendant.

"But I have the two sons of the President with me," said the man at the wheel.

This didn't impress the parking man enough to break the rule apparently. So James Roosevelt, sitting in the back with his brother Elliott, bought his friend a change of oil so they could park.

YOUNGER generation note. A woman visiting in the west got an autograph from Shirley Temple, the child cinema star, and sent it back to an 8 year old Geneva, Ill., child. She was appreciative of the thoughtfulness of her mother's friend, but added wistfully:

"I'd rather it had been Jean Harlow's."

A LITTLE chronicle could be kept, apparently, of the doings of the Grant park habitués. There is, first, the woman who has been making her home in Grant park for the last ten years. That's the way the man who writes in about it phrases it, and we give it to you straight. He says that last Friday morning at 11 o'clock she took a bath at the fountain, taking off her underclothing—she had on two sets. After washing one set and hanging it on the keep-off-the-grass chains to dry, she took off her stockings and washed them. Then she lay down for a nap while her clothing dried. This takes place about twice a month, according to our informant.

THEN there is the man who spends a good half of each day feeding the pigeons peanuts. Now he knows the individual pigeons, apparently, for he calls them by name. One is Heine, another Blackie, and Gus and Brownie are on his list of favorites.

THE manner in which the childish mind reacts to macabre things has been commented on before, and we offer the letter of an 8 year old in Cleveland to her aunt in Chicago:

"Dear Aunt Helen: I hope you will come to Cleveland this summer. My father and mother was 30 years old today. I hope you are all right. I wish I could go to the World's Fair. I would like to see the man cut in half. (A Hall of Science medical exhibit.) Goodby, Aunt Helen.

STORY of a statue. Buckminster Fuller, the young inventor who left town yesterday, told a diverting tale that concerns Isamu Noguchi, the young sculptor who has exhibited his work in Chicago several times in recent years. A well known young New York woman has a very beautifully modeled head, and Noguchi wanted to model her. Work was begun on it, and then the sculptor decided to do a whole figure, and finally persuaded her to pose, undraped. One day Mr. Fuller came into the studio just before Noguchi was about to remove the cloths draped about the damp clay.

"The figure is so beautiful draped just like that, I think you ought to do it that way instead of nude," he suggested. Noguchi was struck with the idea, so he did the figure draped. Then he decided that the figure was so lovely it would be more effective headless, so it then was decapitated. And it now is considered one of his best pieces. However, it must have been a little disconcerting to the young woman who was proud of her beautifully modeled head and who finally was persuaded to pose in the nude.

New Fall Suits Should Make Fashion History

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The first of the fall suits have been unpacked. Some of the daring new conceptions made by suit designers with imagination stress the newest and trickiest of thin woolen fabrics and compellingly different contrasts in colors and materials.

For instance, there is a black and white and gray number that ought to make fashion history. The longish coat is of black crossed with silvery gray stripes about an inch apart, assembled in geometric formation cunningly cut to make one slender. The long-sleeved dress is dull black, with a gorgeous twisted ribbon neckline that ends in a splashing great bow outside the coat. This rolled neck collar is of silvery gray and jade green velvet ribbon.

Another is of dull crêpe thin wool almost transparent. It is trimmed with large gunmetal ball buttons and topped with a gay, swinging short coat that buttons high and round at the neckline, with braided buttons that match the silk-braided side pockets.

Still another features a delectable shade of gray-green sheer wool with an invisible square check design. This boasts a shiny black satin shirt blouse, with long, tight sleeves that extend below the green coat sleeves. This coat is likewise high as to neckline and short as to waist length, with the skirt just a simple sheath in wrap-around style.

All of the early models are made with the dress and detachable jacket idea. Most practical buys, as you can wear them now as they are, later with a fur scarf, and still later under your winter coat. They are most obliging fill-ins for a wilted summer wardrobe.

Fashion photograph.—The winter's swagger coat in fur, a stunning, tightly curled broadtail model made with the fur bow tied at the high neckline. New sleeves with low fullness are featured. From a Chicago shop.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Things herbal always have a strong fascination for us; the very word has a subtle suggestion that seems to fit in with beauty building.

If you have a dry, drab skin do look into the merits of the herbal cleansing cream a great cosmetic house brought out some time ago. It's a grand cleanser—it's rich enough to do double duty as a nourisher, too—and it's faintly stimulating. When used on some skins there's a very slight tingling sensation, at which some women take fright. As a matter of fact this tingling is something to rejoice over instead, since it's evidence of the fact that the circulation is being waked up a bit.

The herbal cleanser, if used faithfully, is a very simple corrective home treatment for the complexion that lacks life. Aside from its utilitarian virtues in keeping the skin beautifully clean there is the point that it stimulates and thus does more than a surface job in restoring or maintaining normalcy.

The cream has a mate in the form of an herbal skin toning lotion to be used after the cleansing to remove the last vestiges of cream and to snap the relaxed pores back to normal. Using the two together day in and day out will simplify life in general for the woman with average dry skin.

Interestingly enough the two can be used for a pickup treatment that is not to be scoffed at. When there is no time in the evening for a complicated session with jar and bottles or a heavenly salon interlude a thorough cleansing with the cream and a brisk slapping or patting with cotton saturated in the herbal skin toning lotion will make the obviously weary skin look pretty and peppy. Its owner can proceed unafraid to her date with a new and intriguing gentleman.

You can see these two herbal helps to skin beauty in shops all over town.

ASK ADULTS HOW YOUR CHILD SHALL ADDRESS THEM

Some Prefer Titles Such as Aunt and Uncle.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I don't like," said an aunt of many young nieces and nephews, "to have by brothers' and sisters' children just call me by my first name. It makes me seem just like their mothers' and fathers' friends. I think I should seem different to them—as I really am. I really would like to have them call me Aunt Madge—not Madge.

"On the other hand," she continued, "I don't care to be 'Aunt' to all the children of my friends indiscriminately—especially when they top me by an inch or so."

With the prevalent vogue of children calling not only their uncles and their aunts but also their parents by their first names, here is an angle which mothers and fathers might consider.

Some children accidentally fall into the way of calling their mother Sally or their father Bob; others do it because their parents think it sounds cute or companionable and definitly prefer it. Others, however, think "mother" and "father" sound more dignified, or they like the feeling of the relationship that is given by "mommy" and "daddy." That's entirely a matter of what you like if you're the parent.

But when it comes to what your children shall call their uncles and aunts and your grownup friends, that is a little different. A friend of mine who has two children asked me once, when we were all countrying together in an old farmhouse: "The children seem to have taken to calling you by your first name. Do you mind it? Just say so if you do." As it happened, I liked it; but I think her asking me was a good way to handle it. Some people have definite preferences, and it's a simple solution—and perhaps a nice courtesy—to ask them how they would like to have their relatives' or their friends' children address them.

We have full lists of boys' names and girls' names, with meanings. As the lists are long, it is necessary to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for each one.

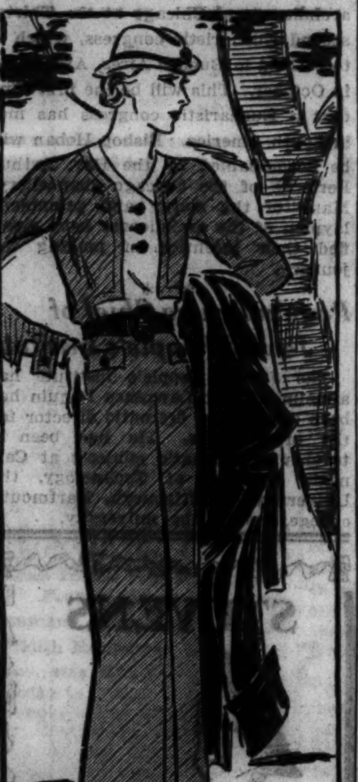
Patou's Frock Can Be Worn Without a Coat This Fall



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — A perennial fashion that blooms in September every year is the street dress that can be worn without a coat. Lots of these frocks budded in the dressmakers' salon in the midseason. One of the best is sketched. It is from Jean Patou, who makes it of a smooth reddish brown woolen with fine, green, penline stripes. Whoever the dressmaker is who makes a street dress to wear this fall, he or she chooses smooth, firm woolen and generally a woolen that looks like men's suiting material. The coarse, loosely woven wools which have been so much worn in the past are replaced by these sturdier materials which hold their shape, and every woman is going to be pleased with the change.

The Patou model has a blouse which pretends to be a bolero jacket in front, opened thus to show a vestee of white piqué, which is closed on three green lether buttons. The sleeves are cut out in rectangles at the backs above the wrists to show the deep white piqué cuffs underneath and they fasten on green lether buttons below the cut-out.

The plain skirt has an inverted box plait set in the center front and pockets with flaps that button on green buttons. The belt is of green calfskin.

THREAT TO SUE WON'T BRING MAN TO ALTAR

Girl Who Tried Court Tells of Her Failure.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

We've often wondered about the kind of girl who'd institute a breach of promise suit. Just what in her makeup inspires the unsavory action? A love of money? Revenge? A threat to force marriage, or what?

Paula throws some light on the subject in her communication.

"At first he had so much faith and trust in me, he wanted me to marry him. Then the desire began to weaken. I got jealous and disgusted, became irritable and went to a lawyer to sue for breach of promise, hoping that would scare him to death, and make him keep his promise. But things didn't turn out that way. As I wasn't trying to get money from him, I dropped the suit, hoping to remain his friend. He was glad to settle the lawyer's fees, but he will not speak to me any more. My threatened suit only lost him completely to me. I love him and I feel sure that he still loves me, only that suit makes him angry. I've written him letters of regret and sorrow. He won't answer. What can I do to get him back?"

Maybe, therefore, in our hearty distaste for breach-of-promise-suit-ers we've sometimes misjudged the motive. Jealousy being such a common affliction, we cannot condemn its motive in a suit of the kind under discussion as we might other motives, such as "making him pay till it hurts" or doing it out of pure revenge with the intention of publicly exploiting the man's perfidy. While jealousy is listed among the ten worst vices, if a woman is that violently in love with a man as to act on the dictates of the green-eyed devil, at least we can better understand the species that sometimes sues.

A foolhardy game, however! You can't bludgeon a man into marriage. Not by the now unpopular breach of promise suit method. The men don't fall for it any more. Neither does the judge nor the jury. Popular opinion is "agin" it, which gives the men strength to resist.

If you could win that boy back, Paula, after you've made him settle the lawyer's fees, it would be the triumph of "love over all." But we doubt it.

FREE OF ALIMONY CELL BUT LEAVES A JUDGE PUZZLED

Superior Judge John C. Lewe was unable yesterday to determine the marital status of Joseph L. Sylvan, a radio manufacturer, but upon the latter's agreement to pay $4,860 to his first wife, Edith, and their five children, the judge released Sylvan from alimony row at the county jail. Sylvan had been in jail eight days after he had refused to pay accumulated alimony and support money awarded by the courts to Mrs. Sylvan.

The puzzle over Sylvan's staus came to light when he revealed in court that according to Cook county laws he has two wives. He explained that Mrs. Edith Sylvan had filed a separate maintenance suit against him three years ago in the Cook county courts and had then obtained an injunction to restrain him from getting a divorce at Reno, Nev. Subsequently, he continued, he got a divorce in Mexico and has remarried.

A hearing on Mrs. Edith Sylvan's separate maintenance suit is scheduled for Oct. 13, and the trial judge at that time must determine whether Sylvan is a bigamist or whether his Mexican divorce is valid.

HUSBAND OF FORMER MRS. ASTOR TAKES A TEST FOR SCREEN

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Guided about Hollywood by Adela Rogers St. John Hyland, the writer, Enzo Fiermonte, husband of Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor Dick Fiermonte, today took a screen test at Fox movie studio, stopped with the film crowd for a bite of lunch, and then left his suite at the Hollywood Athletic club for a 40 mile drive and a bit of tennis with Mrs. Hyland at her Malibou beach cottage.

Discussing the status of his marriage with the wealthy New York society woman, the handsome curly haired Italian ex-pugilist said: "I don't know where Mrs. Fiermonte is, and I am not interested. If she wants a divorce she can get it and she won't have to go all the way to Paris to get it either. I am willing she should get it here."

Fiermonte also said that if his wife did not apply for her freedom shortly "I might do so myself."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 9.—By Sept. 1 the Dionne quintuplets will have a hospital all their own—a hospital costing $5,000, upon which work was commenced today 100 yards from the Dionne home. It will be a complete baby hospital in miniature. The government is coöperating in the extension of electricity service and in building a road, and the royal Canadian mounted police may provide a guard.

Dr. Alan R. Dafoe, who is in charge of the quantuplets, chose a country site for the institution in preference to a town site in Callander. A germ from the smoke and dirt ridden town air, Dr. Dafoe said, might end the lives of any one of the quintuplets. He regards the pure, clear air of the timbered area as giving advantage over any settled district.

It costs more than $150 a week, Dr. Dafoe estimates, to maintain the celebrated infants, who are now wards of the province.

PLAN COURT WAR ON SERUM TESTS WITH 12 ORPHANS

The National Anti-Vivisection society, with headquarters at 37 South Wabash avenue, announced yesterday that the board of directors had voted to make a test case of the proposal of New York doctors to use twelve orphan children as subjects for experimentation with a new infantile paralysis serum.

Clarence E. Richard, managing director, said the society is prepared to appeal the case to the highest court in the event the lower courts grant the experimenters permission to carry out their tests. After vaccinating themselves with the serum in July, the New York physicians announced a plan to ask the courts for permission to use the orphans for further tests.

HOUSEWIFE FINDS FIVE BARGAINS IN FRESH PRODUCE

Certain Meats Also Are Quite Reasonable.

Chicagoland larders may be stocked this week-end with a variety of foods shipped here by growers from all sections of the United States. Many bargains are available in fresh fruits and vegetables and certain meats and staples.

Peaches that grew in southern Illinois, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, and Washington are being unpacked today and tomorrow. Tomatoes to be selected are homegrown, or were produced in Michigan, Indiana, or in California. Cucumbers are from New York, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, or New Jersey.

At meat counters, especially, however, there are rewards for careful shopping. Nearly all smoked and processed meats, with boiled ham, smoked ham, and choice bacon the outstanding examples, are higher in price.

Choices in Meats.

In contrast thrifty purchases are to be selected from veal and lamb, especially from the shoulder cuts. Good beef is available at reasonable prices if the shopper does not demand the choice cuts. Some of the fresh pork, such as the butts and the shoulder cuts, also are bargains in many butcher shops today and tomorrow.

Butter and eggs are beginning to reflect hot weather on midwest farms. Nearly all retailers have advanced the price of butter from 1 to 2 cents a pound since last week-end, and the scarcity of choice fresh eggs has increased the price several cents a dozen in the last few days.

The generous supplies of a variety of fresh fruits and vegetables, however, have held down prices and have made favorites of such summer delicacies as grapes, cantaloupes, fresh green beans, lemons, red beets, and radishes.

The Italian prune plums, known better to most consumers as blue plums, are arriving in large sizes and in great quantity.

Bananas and Oranges Up.

Bananas and oranges are somewhat higher in price this week-end. Storms in Central America have reduced this summer's harvest of bananas. Marketing agreements of orange grove operators have resulted in holding back shipments of the citrus fruit after many growers claimed that the low prices last winter and early this spring were not sufficient to give them the cost of harvesting and freight charges.

Three vegetables are still comparatively high in price, but at least two of them are due for sharp reductions within a few days, if yesterday's wholesale prices are followed by retail changes.

Head lettuce is more plentiful this week-end and the wholesale price has dropped 2 to 3 cents a head, although nearly all stores are still charging the high price of two and three weeks ago.

Cabbage and onions remain high in price and are about double what the consumer paid for them early this spring when they were "out of season" locally.

Nearby states are beginning the harvest of the early cabbage crop and wholesale prices have been reduced this week.

Canned goods and staples indicate few changes since a week ago. Bargains are still available in many foods, including canned beans and canned pork and beans, sea foods, vegetables, and fruits.

DRIVER FOR LATE MRS. M'CORMICK ON HUNGER STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, Aug. 9.—Louis Emile Ammann, once a chauffeur for the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick of Chicago, was taken to a Monaco hospital today in a weakened condition from a hunger strike which he began on Aug. 1. Physicians said they were considering forcible feeding for Ammann. Tonight he sipped some milk, but said he still intends to starve himself to death.

Ammann, who is a Swiss, aged 50, said he was hunger-striking to attract attention to his claim that he was held unjustly in a psychopathic hospital in Chicago after he left the employ of Mrs. McCormick. Ammann worked for Mrs. McCormick during her stay in Switzerland from 1915 to 1920. When she returned to the United States Ammann followed her and claimed that Mrs. McCormick exercised a hypnotic influence over him. In July, 1923, Ammann went voluntarily to the psychopathic hospital and submitted to an examination.

He told Dr. Francis J. Gerty, then superintendent of the hospital, that Mrs. McCormick's weird influence followed him all over the world and destroyed his finer sensibilities. Dr. Gerty ruled Ammann insane, but the verdict was reversed in a jury trial four weeks later and the chauffeur was released.

THERE'S ART IN BREWING ICED TEA CORRECTLY

One Fact to Remember, Never Boil!

"The Pickle Parade," a booklet of recipes and directions for pickling, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress, for 2 cents. By mail, 3 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

The crimes committed in the name of iced tea harrow the soul of the knowing tea sipper. If the outcome is not weakly, anemic, and watery it is gallishly bitter. If it is not muggy with sediment it is mysteriously musty in flavor.

And the pity is that all this sorrow is needless. It's quite as easy to make good tea as bad. It simply calls for a bit of attention lent to a few important facts. And when one dreams over the few really glorious glasses of tinkling amber tea which she has sipped on rare and delightful occasions it seems a positive sacrilege to draw anything forth from tea but the best there is in it.

Obviously to make tantalizing iced tea one must be an artist in the making of hot tea. Reams have been written on the subject, on the pots in which it must be born, the water that must be used, the way it must be chilled. These points are controversial and the decision must be your own. However, from years of experimenting have come a few conclusions quite generally accepted.

Greatest looms the commandment that tea must be steeped, never boiled. Boiling or even simmering immediately develops an acrid quality sleeping in tea and ruins the beverage. Fresh boiling water is essential. If you are fastidious you will prefer bottled spring water or that which has been carefully filtered, for to a certain degree the sediment and disinfectants in most city water give a cloudiness and "off" flavor to coffee and tea.

Although there is argument on this point, too, most connoisseurs demand that their tea be steeped in earthenware or china teapots. It is logical to assume that tea made in fireproof glassware will be just as pleasant. One-half to one teaspoon of tea for each cup of boiling water is the accepted measure for hot tea. Tea which is to be poured hot over cracked ice should be twice the strength of tea to be drunk hot. One teaspoon per cup of boiling water is usually called for.

Freshly drawn water, boiled hard, is the first requirement. Water which has stood or which has been boiled for a long time loses its life or oxygen and is flat and insipid in taste. And unless this water is brought to a speedy, hard boil just before it is poured over the tea it will not be able to extract the pleasant, stimulating tea property—theine. Three to four minutes—with five at the outside—should be allowed for steeping. Long steeping destroys the delicate flavor because it, like boiling, draws out too much of the tannic acid.

Scores of teas sit on the grocer's shelves. Some which make good hot tea become cloudy and are disappointing when chilled. Among the black teas English Breakfast (China Congou) is excellent for icing. Formosa Oolong is delicious in its group.

While a fair ice tea may come forth by steeping tea, cooling it outside the refrigerator, and then serving it with ice, the better way by far is to pour the boiling tea over full glasses of ice, letting it chill in that way.

Better tea also seems to turn up when we scald the pot well before spooning in the tea. When several cups of tea are to be made the old story of "so much per cup and one teaspoon for the pot" still holds. No scientific reason perhaps, but experience shows it to be a good rule to follow.

To give a new nip and tingle to either iced or hot tea some clever cooks vary the version by placing a little grated orange rind in the pot before the tea is made. Or guests will smile contentedly if on the side of each frosty glass perks a sprig of fresh mint.

Unless you are wise to the tastes of your friends avoid sugaring the tea before serving. If they have English inclinations serve sugar and milk (not cream) as "also rans." Otherwise finely granulated sugar and a small glass plate of orange and lemon sections will fill the bill. And as you love your own comfort cut said sections so that they may be neatly squeezed with three fingers of one hand. The round slice cut through to the center and draped over the glass edge should be declared a penitentiary offense.

BAGGAGE OF TWO OPERA SINGERS HELD FOR TAXES

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Claims for taxes resulted today in judicial embargos being placed upon the baggage and personal effects of two noted opera singers, Lily Pons and Tito Schipa.

A representative of the latter said the embargo was lifted after a settlement was made. Miss Pons, however, declared she "owed nothing to anybody." She said she had paid a 3 per cent basic tax to the government, which now was claiming a surplus tax. She engaged an attorney to iron the matter out.

The action was taken on petition of the income tax department, which said Miss Pons owed 16,595 pesos [$4,600] and Schipa 3,583 pesos [$1,000]. The orders held the property in the hotel apartments of the singers.

Miss Pons had planned to leave tomorrow night for Rio de Janiero on the ship on which her fiancé, Dr. Frederick von Der Boecke, is surgeon, immediately after a farewell concert. Tonight she declared she would board the ship "trunks or no trunks."

HERE ARE WAYS TO CAN FRUITS; TOMATOES, TOO

Hot Pack Is Called Good Method.

Just as some methods of cookery preserve the vitamins and minerals of fresh fruits and vegetables while others destroy them, so do some methods of canning save while others waste these important food constituents, says Ruth W. Heath of Purdue university.

In canning, hot pack your vegetables and most of your fruits and fill up the container with some of the liquid in which they were pre-cooked, she suggests. Then when serving the canned food, serve juice and all. This saves calcium, one of the bone making minerals, and iron, a blood builder, as these two minerals are soluble in water.

Speed Secures Vitamins.

To save the vitamins, can fruits and vegetables as soon as possible after they are gathered. Short, quick cooking at the boiling point, or just below, means less loss of vitamin B. Use the hot pack method and work fast. The short pre-cooking before the foods are put in the containers drives the air out of the tissues of the fruit or vegetable. This saves food values because canning with air present has a bad effect on the vitamins, especially vitamin C. Tomatoes, however, the best of all vegetables for vitamin C, do not lose much of their vitamin C when either cooked or canned. Their acidity protects the vitamin C content.

Easy to Can Fruit, Too.

Fruits and tomatoes are easily canned because they may be safely processed either in a boiling water bath or in the oven. For corn, peas, beans, in fact all vegetables except tomatoes, a pressure cooker is recommended for processing.

20,000 EXPECTED AT MELON FETE IN MISSISSIPPI

The fourth annual watermelon carnival of Water Valley, Miss., will be celebrated Aug. 16, when the town will be decorated with melons of from 50 to 90 pounds in recognition of the shipments of melons principally to Chicago this year.

Although commercial melon growing is comparatively new, growers this year sent 210 carlots to market.

RAISE BLUEBERRIES OF GREAT SIZE BY CULTIVATING THEM

Cultivated blueberries, some of which measure three-quarters of an inch in diameter, are now being raised in some states. About 16,000 bushels of the berries will be marketed from New Jersey alone this year.

The blueberries are packed in quart baskets protected by cellophane, and are so large, firm, sweet, and dry on the surface that they can be eaten in the fingers like cherries. Some prefer to eat them in a dish with sugar and cream.

It seems unnecessary to cook these berries in any way, but if blueberry pie, cake, or muffins are desired they can be so used.

Brighter Hued Cakes May Follow Egg Experiments

Sponge cakes may some day blossom out in orange-yellow instead of pale yellow shades!

Experiments are being made at the Georgia experiment station to study the color of egg yolks produced by feeding hens pimiento pepper. The use of dried pepper permits the careful regulation of the quantity fed so that uniformly colored eggs will result. To what extent these eggs may be utilized for their color and for any added vitamin value is still under-investigation.

BORED? NO! IT'S THE PICTURE, SAY GALLERY CROWDS

If visitors at the art exhibit of A Century of Progress in the Chicago Art institute are observed in the act of yawning, it is not from boredom, but due to the psychological effect of a certain painting, Degas' "Women Ironing," hung in gallery 27 in the south wing.

Since the opening of the exhibit, guards say, the Degas painting has exerted an influence of drowsiness upon many who gaze upon it. The picture, done in delicate gray blues and gray browns with splashes of brilliant yellow, is one of the French impressionist's most famous works and many ask to see it. One of the two women is bent over her ironing, but the other, weary from her labor, is giving way to her desire to yawn.

"It gets to be almost funny," a guard explained, "how the people start yawning, too, as they turn away."

Cecil De Mille Starts Lecture Tour of U. S.

Will Acquaint Public with Film Problems.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Cecil B. De Mille set out this morning for a lecture tour of the key cities which, without a word said about the clean pictures campaign, is stated to be for the purpose of "better acquainting the American public with the problems faced by the motion picture industry."

The producer, who prepared his speeches on a two weeks' yacht trip since completing his "Cleopatra," will take along a secretary, Miss Emil Berry; a publicity man, Jack Cooper; and an exploitation man, Bill Pine, and will give his talks in thirteen or more cities, in outdoor parks, from pulpits in churches, and in public auditoriums.

De Mille's brother producers were highly pleased to have him go out on his "missionary" trip. The director-producer who has turned out so many highly spectacular film stories, many of them with a religious motif, has a great knack of anticipating what the public likes to hear about, or to see, and they expect him to add more popularity to a presentation of the industry's own view of censorship and other problems than anybody else could.

De Mille's plane, piloted by aviator Paul Mantz, was grounded by an Arizona thunderstorm near Grand canyon this afternoon, according to a long distance call to his studio here. The party will take off again tomorrow morning in order to keep the first engagement in the Denver outdoor university tomorrow night.

Shirley Temple's mother devised a way to stop the overkindly and overinterested fellow vacationers at Lake Tahoe. So many of them wanted to take the 5 year old star's photograph that Mama Temple bought Shirley her own little camera and coached Shirley to say to every inquirer: "Now you stand in the sun while I take your picture first." Mama Temple said, "A good many of them got the idea, too."

Hobart Bosworth, who, as far as I know, is the oldest movie actor in point of Hollywood seniority, and June Lang, Fox's newest contract player, are together in the singing picture, "Music in the Air," which has Gloria Swanson and Douglass Montgomery as its headliners. Bosworth is credited with playing in the first movie ever filmed in California, "The Sultan's Power," produced on the roof of a Chinese laundry near Echo park, Los Angeles, in 1909. That was almost five years before the Lasky-De Mille opus, "The Squaw Man," and longer than that before Henry B. Walthall and D. W. Griffith in "Birth of a Nation." June Lang, who has just been rechristened, made her previous film start as June Vlazek.

Herbert Marshall, who is not working on the Fox lot, although Gloria Swanson is, was the first person shaved in the Fox studio barber shop yesterday morning. Marshall had just driven Miss Swanson to the studio. After his shave he got himself made up and hurried to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, where he is playing with Garbo in "The Painted Veil." He was back on the Fox lot, 8 miles from M-G-M, in makeup at lunch time, to escort Gloria to the studio café.

A group of autograph collectors who keep stations outside the Paramount studio gates told this inquirer today that some of the stars are beginning to play jokes on the name collectors. "They've got their automobiles wired so that when you jump on the running board or lean against the automobile door, you get an electric shock," one girl said. The stars who have adopted this protective device they named as Katharine Hepburn, Marlene Dietrich and Mae West. Further inquiry was directed to Mae, who said, "Aw, I don't have my machine wired, I shock them personally."

Aline MacMahon is to play a nurse who solves baffling mysteries in a Warner Brothers series of detective thrillers of a new kind. First will be "The Patient in Room 18," followed by "While the Patient Sleeps." The stories are by Mignon G. Eberhardt, writer of "The White Cockatoo," also bought by Warner's. . . . The first siren part played by Madge Evans, who used to be a child star, is in "What Every Woman Knows," in which her wiles trap young members of parliament. The rôle is that of Lady Sybil.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 9.—Frank Capra, directing "Broadway Bill," gives Warner Baxter instructions before he plays a scene. Capra walks over to Baxter and says, "Try to make out you aren't an actor and just say your lines." This is the Capra method of direction and perhaps that is why actors turn in great performances for him. He gets them to stop acting.

The stand-in for Ida Lupino in "Ready for Love" wears specially built shoes, which cost $25, so she'll be as tall as Miss Lupino. This seems very foolish, for the stand-in could stand on some board and be just as tall—or they could hire a girl the right height in the first place.

It's funny to hear the number of directors who speak with accents telling the players how to read lines in good English; some of the players have a difficult time understanding. There is Marion Gering, directing "Ready for Love," who has a cute accent and who bets on fighters according to the corner they sit in. There's Mike Curtiz, who did "British Agent," and who has a heavy accent and gets his words jammed when he gets excited, and he's generally excited. There's William Dieterle, directing "The Firebird," who gets his English all mixed and says the oddest things, some of which sound off-color. There's Erich Pommer, now directing "Music in the Air," who often doesn't know what to say and shouts his direction to his assistant, who tells the company in English what Pommer wants.

On to the set of "Enter, Madame," where script calls for the glamorous Elissa Landi to be sitting in a gondola with the handsome Cary Grant. He will be speaking his love dialog to her as the gondola glides down the Venetian canal with a full moon hanging in the sky.

The set is dark and gloomy. There is a dull looking gondola up on a platform and behind it there is a motion picture screen. Cary Grant is in one corner discussing the dialog with Director Elliot Nugent. Miss Landi is sitting in a chair.

Mr. Grant and Miss Landi get on the platform and climb into the dull looking gondola. A picture is flashed on the screen behind the gondola. The gondola is made to bob up and down like a seesaw. When you see this on the screen Cary Grant and Elissa Landi will be gliding down a pretty stream with a yellow moon hanging in the sky.

Rouben Mamoulian has just taken the last take of "We Love Again." The picture is finished and every one is happy. Anna Sten drops her mask, stops looking sad and exotic, and rushes off the set smiling and shouting.

She is going out tonight. She is going to celebrate.

James Cagney and Allen Jenkins are playing two truck drivers in "Perfect Week-End." Jenkins has a prop black eye and Cagney has a prop bandaged fist. Jenkins is always getting into fights and Cagney is socking him out of them.

In this particular scene in an office Jenkins and Cagney have just listened to a phone call and they need the address. It was a dial phone and Cagney took down the number of ticks made when the man dialed the number. He deciphers these ticks into the correct phone number and then calls information to get the address of that phone number. It's a good trick even if you can do it only in the movies. The things they do as real and expect you to believe.

Her Husband's Fiancee

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Cecily Marshall returns after a year's absence to the home in Bellchester, England, where she had lived with her husband, David Marshall, the city's leading merchant prince. Cecily had been a shopgirl at Marshall's. Beautiful Audrey Lowe, who had wanted David herself, and her cousin, Reggie Davies, had contrived to break up Cecily's marriage. David believed Cecily unfaithful and won a divorce from her and the custody of their small child, Rose Ann. The child grieves for her mother. Fearing for her health, Nanna, her nurse, secretly wires Cecily. When David, who is about to marry Audrey, discovers Cecily's presence he orders her and Nanna from the house. Rose Ann develops brain fever and David is forced to send for Cecily. Rose Ann improves. Cecily rejects David's proposal that they remarry for Rose Ann's sake. She takes rooms in Bellchester, with Nanna, and determines to prove her innocence. She sees Rose Ann daily. Audrey has been blackmailed by Mrs. Partridge, the wife of the deceased innkeeper she had bribed to swear that Cecily and Reggie had shared the same room a night they were marooned due to motor trouble. David tries unsuccessfully to break his engagement to Audrey. Audrey, to get Mrs. Partridge to leave Bellchester, gives her a valuable brooch, which was a present from David. Cecily searches for Mrs. Partridge and learns that she has gone to London. Audrey and her mother invite David for dinner.

INSTALMENT XXIII.

HALF-HEARTED WEDDING PLANS.

Audrey arranged the flowers with a sort of vicious competence. She felt that she hated her mother, but tonight she needed her. Whether David liked it or not, they had got to come to some decision about their wedding date and her mother must take the lead in that matter.

"Audrey—I think I smell something burning."

Audrey, half-dressed, rushed in a panic to the kitchenette. It was only the chicken, getting done and a little too well done before its time. She put a piece of brown paper over it and turned down the gas.

"If only I was married and settled in at Maple Grange," she muttered.

Gertrude, who was arranging the dining room table, came in for a few strong words as Audrey hurried back to her bedroom.

But weren't they making an awful fuss about nothing? David didn't care what he ate.

Perhaps he did not care a great deal what he ate, but drink was another matter and David drew the line at corked wine. Mrs. Lowe had practised her economy on beverage, a cheap Graves, and after David had taken one sip he set down his glass and left it there.

As a dinner, however, it was not altogether a failure. One had fared considerably better, but one had also fared worse. As a social function, however, it lacked the necessary element of good temper.

David Marshall somehow did not rise to the occasion, while Mrs. Lowe flew a little too high.

It was now late in November, and Audrey's mother said she thought the marriage should take place well before Christmas. Already David had had several important concessions granted to him. Audrey was now willing to give up the display of a church wedding. They were all in agreement about that, since Cecily was making herself so conspicuous in Bellchester.

They would be married at a registrar's office, or by special license, perhaps, at Maple Grange. Only the family, that is to say, Audrey's family, except Reggie. David's sisters were too far away to attend and his mother had flatly refused to come.

David said: "Then will you be content to have only a nominal honeymoon, Audrey?"

"Nominal? What does that mean exactly? I thought we were going to Paris."

"We couldn't see much of Paris in a week-end."

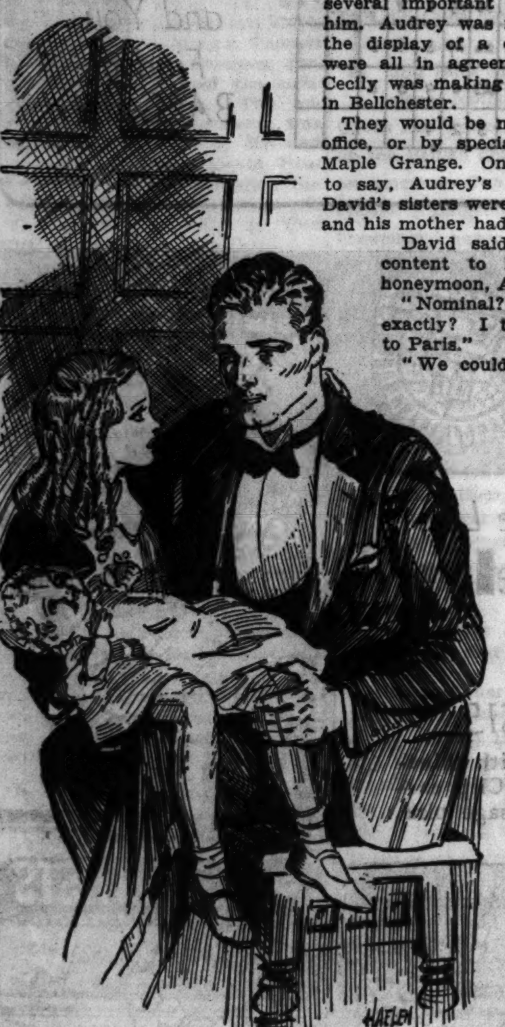
Audrey stared at him. "I should think not!" she exclaimed.

"Well, you know that just before Christmas is a busy time at Marshall's."

Audrey and her mother exchanged glances.

"I could get away from a Friday until Monday, perhaps," David added.

If he possibly could he wanted to postpone these nuptials, but it would be unkind to Audrey to say so outright. He had offended her quite enough as it was, in one way and another. Did he want to get out of the marriage, altogether? Curious that he had asked himself that question quite a number of times lately. The answer, however, had always been quite strongly in the negative. He would marry Audrey in spite of everything, if only to get even with Cecily and prove to her that nothing she had done or could do was going to make a complete wreck of his life.



Rose Ann hoped that when they went to the seaside it would be convenient to leave Miss Lowe at home and bring mummy instead.

"I don't mind, David," Audrey said in a flurried tone. "I will do whatever you say."

She was in a desperate mood now, when she was ready to give up everything except David.

"It would be more convenient after Christmas," he said.

"What about the January sales?" Mrs. Lowe asked with a touch of irony. Yes, he, himself, had forgotten the January sales just for the moment.

Audrey clapped her hands with a glad little cry.

"David, darling, I've got it. There's to be an extra day's holiday this year, anyway. We could be married on Christmas eve, and that would allow us plenty of time for our honeymoon, even if you have to be back in Bellchester early in January."

"That's a splendid idea," said Mrs. Lowe.

"What about Rose Ann?" David said uncertainly. "Christmas means such a lot to a child."

Audrey bit her lip and looked up at the ceiling. If he was not careful her brimming eyes would overflow.

"Well, what about her?" Mrs. Lowe wanted to know. "In any case it will be awkward for you—with Cecily hanging about. She can go to her mother while Audrey and you are away."

David thought of last Christmas and what a season of horror it had been. Rose Ann had been so sure that her mother was going to be returned to her for a Christmas present and all she had got was a larger tree and considerably more toys than had ever appeared before.

"Perhaps you are right," he said reluctantly.

Rose Ann would be happy with her mother. The Christmas tree would be at Mrs. Leach's this year and the undeserving Cecily could have it all her own way.

A fiery jealousy surged through David which he mistook for righteous resentment. Cecily was stealing his child. He never saw Rose Ann these days but what she was full of her mother and the amusing times they had at Mrs. Leach's. Only tonight she had told him that she hoped when they went to the seaside next summer he would find it convenient to leave Miss Lowe at home and bring mummy with them, instead.

If only Rose Ann were a little younger or considerably older. Her questions, which she usually had to answer for herself, were altogether too embarrassing. David wondered if she talked in the same strain to Cecily. But of course Rose Ann wasn't as fond of him as she was of Cecily. That was becoming plainer and plainer every day. Yes, Cecily was stealing his child. She had got in the thin edge of the wedge and was now bending all her strength to widen the gap.

"You're not very sociable tonight," Audrey said. "I'm sorry about the wine. And I don't think there's anything else in the house we can offer you but some cooking sherry."

David did not like the implication that his sociability depended upon that sort of stimulus.

"I'm quite happy," he told her.

Mrs. Lowe now had to apologize for the coffee which was weak and luke warm. The whole meal had been one long string of apologies. Thank heaven his own house was not subject to such mismanagement. Cecily had chosen and trained her servants well. There had never been a change under her régime, except for a housemaid who left them to get married.

But already, even before she was the mistress of Maple Grange, Audrey was trying to upset things. First about Nanna, and lately with Mason who had somehow contrived to offend her. How long would it be, David wondered, before the whole lot walked out? He felt their disapproval of himself—even Mason's, and David was devoted to Mason who, like Nanna, was a relic from his mother's establishment.

But would true love let a staf of servants stand in the way?

"Then it's really settled?" Mrs. Lowe said in a business-like tone. "We may count on that?"

She was speaking to David and it cost him a bit of an effort to recall that she was referring to his wedding day.

"O, yes—yes," he assured her.

Audrey gave him a tremulous smile. "It's too wonderful, David, to think that next month this time we'll be married."

Mrs. Lowe said: "I think I'll leave you two love birds together. I've got some important letters to write and a lot of planning to do, and I might as well begin at once."

Potter Palmers Leave for Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, who have been in the city for several weeks at the Palmer house, left yesterday for their summer home at Bar Harbor, Me., having delayed their departure so that they could make the acquaintance of their fourth grandchild, the son of the younger Potter Palmers.

The baby, who is to bear the distinguished name of Potter Palmer IV., was born Wednesday at the Passavant hospital and yesterday both grandmothers reported that "mother and child are doing splendidly." Mrs. A. West Movius of Boston, the new infant's maternal grandmother, has been with her son-in-law and daughter and little sixteen month old granddaughter Rose for several weeks and will remain a bit longer before she returns to her summer home at Squantum, Mass.

Miss Pauline Palmer, who has been here with her parents, left with them yesterday. She is undecided about whether she will go abroad next winter, but she is decided about not making a debut until the following season.

The former Bertha Palmer and her husband, Oakleigh L. Thorne, are leaving next week for a vacation in the east. Millbrook, N. Y., where they lived for a time after their marriage and where Mr. Thorne's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne, have a residence, is their destination. They are delaying their departure until after tomorrow so that they can eat ice cream and birthday cake with their little son, Oakleigh Thorne III., who will be two years old on that day. They also have a wee daughter, Bertha, who is a little over two months old.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings left last night for northern Wisconsin, where they will be at a house party until Monday.

Alden B. Swifts Return Next Week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden B. Swift and Miss Lydia Swift are expected to arrive at home the middle of next week from a trip abroad. Mrs. Swift's mother, Mrs. William C. Niblack, who is staying in the Swift apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive with Miss Narcissa and Nathan Swift during the absence of the others of the family, will move into a new apartment at 1400 Lake Shore drive next Wednesday.

Mrs. Edward F. Swift is arriving at home today from a North Cape cruise. Her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, and their daughter, Miss Annie May Henry, who accompanied her, will not return for another fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Fargo Jr. are awaiting word from Mrs. Charles H. Fargo as to when she will arrive for a visit in Lake Forest. The Ed Fargos have just returned from a visit with the Charles C. Searles of Lake Forest at their summer place near Whitehall, Mich. There will be much entertaining for Mrs. Charles Fargo when she arrives, for she has many friends here. Since the tragic death of her husband in an airplane accident several years ago she and her two little sons have been living in Boston with her family.

McArthurs Return From Mackinac.

Back from a month's stay on Mackinac Island, the Selim McArthurs are looking forward to another trip northward in September since they decided to rent their cottage for the month of August. The younger daughter of the family, Betty, is in camp on Washington Island, Wis., for the summer, and Joan McArthur is spending her vacation visiting school friends. Both girls are students at the Francis Parker school.

The Lawrence Smiths and their son, Lawrence Jr., are leaving a week from today for the cooler locale of the Huron Mountain club, where they will visit the Kent Chandlers. Anita Smith will join her family as soon as camp lets out at the end of August and return with them to Lake Forest after Labor day.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis McGaw Howard are leaving tonight to spend two weeks in a cottage at the Wausaukee club in northern Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp, Miss Pauline Seipp, and Edwin Jr. will arrive at home in Barrington tomorrow from a six weeks' North Cape cruise.

The Wesley M. Dixons of Lake Forest, who sailed on the same ship, are not coming home for another two weeks.

Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell and her two grandsons, David and Robert S. Hotz Jr., who have been cruising in the Mediterranean all summer, will arrive at home the latter part of this month. Mr. and Mrs. Hotz are not planning a trip for this summer, for being at home minus their two active boys is change enough for them to do for a vacation. The former Lila Hotz and her husband, Henry R. Luce of New York, will come west to see Mrs. Haskell soon after she returns.

The Henry A. Gardner family circle will be completed very shortly with the arrival of Mr. Gardner and Miss Mary Louise Gardner in Hyannisport, Mass., where Mrs. Gardner and the two boys have been for some time. Mr. Gardner left town Wednesday morning for the east and Miss Gardner is leaving Sunday morning to spend three weeks with her family.

Designer Presents Smooth Fabrics on Tall, Slim Lines

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Augusta Bernard presents a divinely tall slim line accentuated by smooth matte fabrics, broadcloth or crêpe, in plain or black or darkest shades of green, midnight blue, prune or grape. These are in striking contrast with the fantastic fabrics prevalent elsewhere. Sleeves are cut in one with the shoulders or bodice, but are closely fitted.

Tight tunics, basques, or jackets vary without breaking this line, which reaches its extreme in a princess evening gown that is seemingly all in one bias piece and looks as if the wearer had been poured into it. This model bursts into high crossed drapery, greatly accentuating the bosom and joining the back between the shoulder blades. Similar bosom draperies are noted for afternoon also.

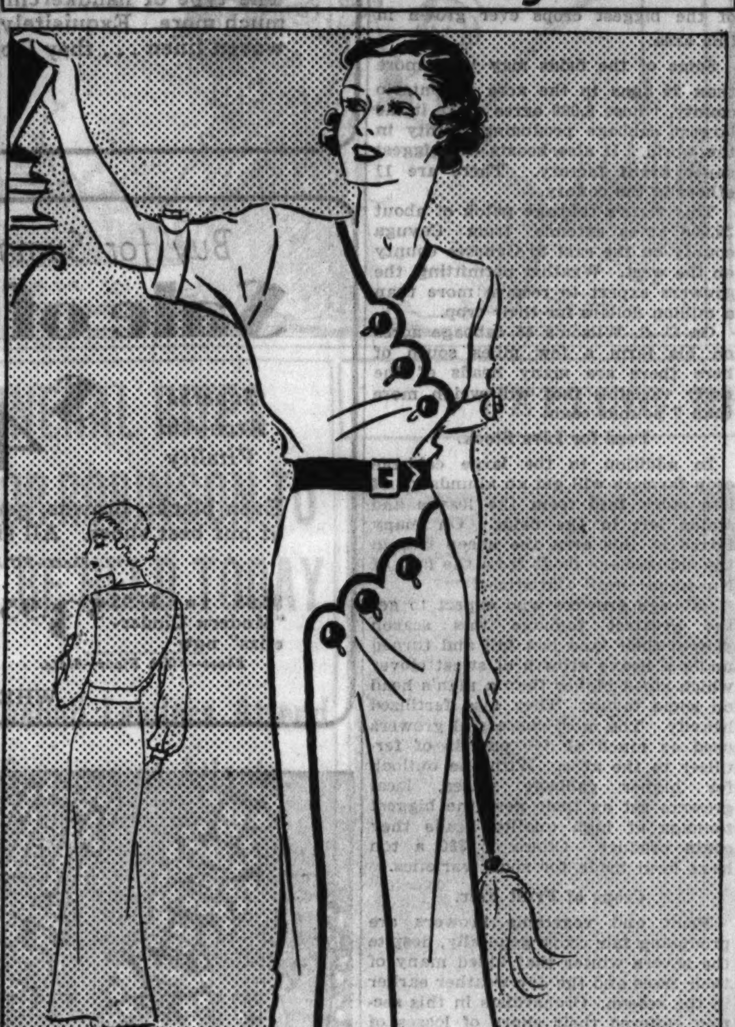
Hostesses at Fair.

Mrs. Walter Evans, Mrs. Grace McDonald, and Mrs. G. H. Challen will act as hostesses today in the lounge of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs in the Hall of Social Science at the Fair. They are members of the Ninth district.

Chic for the Morning Hours



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a darling dress for the morning hours and it's easy to slip into. It's a model that will adapt itself to the figure which is a little above normal weight, as well as to the youthful silhouette. The bias lines and the wrapped effect of the skirt have slimming effects. Plain light blue cotton broadcloth with bright blue binding and matching buttons made the original dress.

The pattern, No. 3203, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure.

The Priscilla.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Our quilt pattern for today, "The Priscilla," hails from New England, where it landed from England with the early colonists. Its popularity throughout the east never has diminished, although that fact is understood, since the design is so attractive and the pattern so simple to piece. In the middle west it has joined the ranks of well known favorites.

Simple Sachets Serve to Scent Up the Boudoir

They Are Inexpensive Aid to Delicacy.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Talk about the cosmetic luxuries you could have, if you could have 'em. But with the children's shoes wearing out faster and faster, and spinach going up in price, one can somehow manage a weak smile and a "No, I'm just looking" for the girl behind the counter.

Foraging around the other day, "just-looking-thank-you," the woman to my right at the counter said: "I'll take this!" A hundred dollar bottle of perfume! I picked up a small container, with a miniature paint brush as companion piece. Eighteen dollars, the container read, the paint brush thrown in. "For your clothes closet, Modom! Just paint the woodwork round. The scent will last six, eight months. The odor is exquisite as well as lasting."

Don't bother going red over the luxuries. You don't have to buy them and think of the paint brush workers. They eat when folks favor their wares. Also do the flower pickers and the perfume factory employés. I don't know enough about economics to know whether they eat better for catering to luxury products. Anyway, they eat! And lovely ladies must be still lovelier ladies.

Also, one can get such heavenly substitutes in simple sachets, and inexpensive. I have never known nor seen quite so varied an assortment of this kind of thing as the market affords this year. Slip a little between your small square pads of cotton, tuck it in a drawer corner, on a closet shelf, on a hanger, and you are armed to meet the most discriminating olfactory sense.

I think it nicer to use these small ready made cotton pads, because you can throw them away and in a jiffy replace them with a fresh supply of sachet from the jar or bottle in which it comes. Naturally, when you go in for the delicate, elusive odor of the pleasant sachet, you must be careful not to drown its appeal in a mess of other odors, as from your cream, say, from your atomizer, from your powder.

Sally's Guests Enjoy Film in Cool Theater

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I know 100 boys and girls who didn't mind the heat yesterday!

All the youngsters who came to my movie party at United Artists theater didn't know a thing about the sticky, warm weather. It was deliciously cool and comfortable when we were ushered into the theater, and we enjoyed the show so much that I don't think any of us wanted to leave.

We had one section of the house to ourselves—and maybe that was just as well, because we all had individual boxes of candy, and unwrapping and enjoying it was really a rather noisy process. But we didn't disturb any one and just enjoyed everything as loudly as we pleased.

Wasn't "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" a lot of fun, though? I'll bet none of us guessed the mystery either! I know I couldn't. We got a big kick out of blinky old Charlie Butterworth, but Ronald Colman really held our rapt attention—he was so clever and daring—and he certainly did good work in rescuing pretty Loretta Young from that mean old villain, Warner Oland, didn't he?

Then an interesting newsreel—and very good travelog—and then—our pal—Mickey Mouse! We just laughed and laughed at the wild story he made up to tell all the little mice—and if they weren't cute, all dressed up in tiny dresses and hats!

All in all it was a happy party, and we are grateful to the people who made it possible.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

REBIDDING OVER A FORCING TAKE-OUT AFTER HAVING ORIGINALLY BID A NO TRUMP WITH A CONCEALED LONG SUIT.

Yesterday I explained how the concealed suit, if not shaded as to tops, should be bid immediately over the take-out, even if you have to bid four in it because it is of lower rank than the take-out suit.

When Opening Bidder Has Only One Ace.

3. In the example hand there were two aces, and in my discussion of the subject I assumed that the original bidder held two aces. Let us examine the situation when he has only one ace:

Sp. K Q x Di. K Q x
Hts. K J Cl. A K Q x x

This is about the weakest hand on which to open with a no trump on one ace. The time factor is not for you when you may have to force out three aces and give the enemy three chances to plug at your weak spot. With either of the above queens changed to a jack I would bid a club and hope that I might get to no trumps by way of a one-over-one in hearts from my partner, or some other bidding which would locate an ace or two in his hand. However, with the hand as given I approve a no trump opening bid. Partner bids three hearts. That still only places one ace in his hand. I would now bid three no trumps, an immediate sign-off. I would not bid four clubs. If he now bids four no trumps this by convention shows two aces. I would now bid six no trumps, as a slam is certain.

We have an ace to lose, but that is all. Either I can chuck my losers on his hearts or he can chuck his on my clubs. Partner should read this bidding clearly. You are despondent until he shows two aces. Then you skyrocket to slam. You are, therefore, solid, in conjunction with his bid, except for the missing ace. If he held also that ace he could bid seven, since you plunged to six expecting to lose it. If partner has no second ace to show, sign off as soon as you can after game has been bid.

The lowest contract in no trumps at which he will let you play the hand is your best spot. By invariably reverting to no trumps, if he rebids hearts after failing to show a second ace, you will be telling him to sign off. Even at five no trumps the hand must be safe. With only one ace in his hand your partner would be without any excuse for taking you any further, or even as far, in view of your repeated sign-offs.

With Three Aces in Opener's Hand.

4. With three aces and an unshaded concealed suit the slam is hardly in doubt if your partner can make a jump take-out. Now all four aces are located and each of you has a presumably solid suit of five or more cards to play out. If the suits break this counts up to twelve tricks. The outside values justifying the jump take-out account for at least another trick. Thus a grand slam is in doubt only if your suits do not break. Therefore, you must direct your bidding to finding out whether any trick must be lost in either of your long suits. The time factor is completely under control; your concern now is whether you may be upset by a guarded queen or jack. Your first bid over the forcing take-out is a jump take-out in your concealed suit. The fact that you immediately bid a suit tells your partner that it is A K Q x x or A K x x x x. The fact that you jump the bid includes the information that you have three aces. With three aces and no suit to show you would bid four no trumps over three hearts, would you not? By bidding, say, four spades over three hearts, or five clubs over three of any other suit, you definitly announce both an unshaded concealed long suit and three aces.

Responder's Immediate Duty.

Responder must now step on the platform. He must tell you [a] whether his suit is solidified by the ace or king and a small card, which is the weakest support that you will provide; [b] whether he has a holding that will solidify your suit; Q x x [in case you have six to A K], or J x x, or x x x x. Tomorrow we will make up some example hands and discuss how they should be bid.

500,000 FACE STARVATION IN CHINA'S DROUTH

Have Little Food or Water; Heat Up to 120°.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Half a million Chinese men, women, and children, peasants of central Anhwei province, were reported today by Chinese official sources to be facing starvation as the result of the most severe drouth in central China in more than half a century.

Information reaching the national government from the afflicted province, which appears to be the most severely stricken among those comprising the heart of the nation, stated that these 500,000 persons are virtually without food and water.

These helpless sufferers, while apparently more imminently facing death than those in other areas, constitute but a relatively small proportion of the literally millions of persons throughout China afflicted in varying degrees.

Temperature 115 to 120 Degrees.

The Anhwei authorities have appealed to the central government at Nanking for aid, but indications were that Nanking would be unable to provide speedy succor, if any at all.

Drouth and heat have combined this summer to wreak the heaviest toll in life and suffering inflicted upon China within memory. Temperatures over a great portion of the country have reached such inhuman levels as 115 to 120 degrees Fahrenheit for weeks at a time, day and night. Expected rains failed to materialize.

Hunan province reported blazing temperatures and no rain since June. Many deaths have occurred. Other provinces besides Hunan and Anhwei seriously affected include Hupeh, Honan, Shensi, and Shantung. Locusts in many areas have added to the economic loss and banditry was reported increasing as the sufferers resorted to that means as a final effort to maintain life.

Typhoon Hits South.

While this type of suffering was prevalent in the central provinces delayed dispatches from Foochow stated that a typhoon swept North Fukien during the past week, flooding many villages, drowning a large number of persons and destroying crops.

Near Foochow a cloudburst occurred causing a 50 foot wall of water to rush down the Ingtai river, sweeping villages before it. How many lives were lost was impossible to say.

FLOODS SWEEP FOUR TO DEATH WEST OF DENVER

Denver, Colo., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Lashed into fury by a cloudburst, streams in the mountains west of Denver swept at least four persons to death today. Eighteen persons were reported missing.

The dead included John Husband of Denver, a woman believed to be his wife, an unidentified 12 year old boy, and an unidentified man.

Husband was swept away by a wall of water that roared down the canyon between Idledale and Starbuck. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shields and their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Belle Frew, fled from Husband's motor car as they heard the roar of the torrents.

They were taken to a nearby summer residence where they said a car containing five persons had driven up behind Husband's stalled machine and tried to push his car to start it. Searchers were unable to find this auto and the five were counted among the missing in checkups tonight.

Another early report still being checked was that a party of four campers, who had been vacationing near Morrison, could not be located after the storm.

The disaster today was not believed to have caused widespread property damage, although numerous bridges were washed out and there was some damage to the new $325,000 Bear creek canyon highway.

FRANCE EXPELS POLES WHO HELD FRENCH IN MINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 9.—The government of Premier Gaston Doumergue today ordered the most wholesale expulsion of foreigners from France known since the immediate post-war days when German residents in Alsace-Lorraine were sent back to Germany by the thousands.

Expelled are 80 Polish miners from the region to the north, who are accused of being principals in the almost tragic comedy of Tuesday, when 164 Poles held 14 French co-workers prisoners at the bottom of a mine pit for 37 hours in protest against expulsion from French territory of two of their compatriots. The Poles not expelled were discharged by the mine.

More trouble is brewing in the same region, where a latent state of international war inside of France exists. The Poles were imported from Silesia in the post-war years, owing to a scarcity of French man power. They are being attacked by young Frenchmen just grown up and out of jobs who are jealous of the favorable living conditions given foreigners. The Poles have responded by going communist.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

It's a Turkey Laugh!

Aug. 9, 1934.

THE turkeys on the auxiliary farm certainly fooled Rawlings yesterday morning. In fact, if turkeys knew how to laugh out loud they would have enjoyed the joke that they pulled on him when he was in the woods yesterday.

Rawlings saddled up Pieface, the horse, for the usual early morning inspection trip through the woods and around the pond to see that the mature turkeys and their poults were all right. On this trip he also visited the live traps. Inasmuch as Rawlings always takes some corn out to the turkeys they never fail to come to him on the run, thus giving him a chance to count them.

Yesterday he could find no turkeys. Since stray dogs have at times got into the woods and killed some of the birds, Rawlings was worried. He tied Pieface to an oak and started to search the fields and woods on foot. From time to time he'd call to the missing birds. But he didn't spy a single turk. By this time Rawlings was considerably upset because he couldn't figure what had happened to the turkeys, nor did he know then just where he should look for them.

Then came the surprise. When he hurried back to Pieface there were at least 50 turkeys gathered around the horse. Pieface was completely surrounded by this lot of peeping birds, every one of them clamoring for Rawlings and that handout which they always get in the morning. Rawlings felt so good at seeing his pets that he gave them a double ration of corn!

The test plots on the experimental farm are a real show these days. Anybody interested in crops, both standard as well as rare or unusual varieties, can find plenty to study in these test plots. Of course, some of the things planted have not been able to come through the drouth and intense heat with flying colors. For example, the kaffir and sorghum corn varieties [feterita, milo maize, and orange cane] are not standing with their heads up. There is a sort of mildew on the stalks and leaves. Possibly this growth is keeping the chinch bugs away. Anyway, it is noticeable that few bugs are attacking these varieties.

◆

The millets, next door neighbors of kaffir corn, also are losing their fight against the drouth and chinch bugs, although three of the five varieties in the test plots are still putting up a grand battle against the bugs. The white wonder, German and Hungarian millets, are the ones that continue to hold their own even though the drouth and the bugs have given them some awful wallops. However, the many varieties of corn that can be studied in the test plots continue to command attention. Here a farmer can make a detailed study of the growth and qualities of all the old favorite varieties by comparing them with many varieties new or uncommon in this area. The all-important point to be noted in comparisons of the various corns in the test plots is this: Nearly all of the hybrid varieties show a marked superiority over the other types.

◆

The grackles have picked the farm for one of their fall conventions. Yesterday scores of these birds, which along with the blackbirds, starlings, purple martins, and swallows assemble in flocks for a fall "party," swept into the spruce trees north of Thurow's garden. The overflow crowd occupied the elm trees near by. And what a racket they made as they talked over plans for their southern trip this fall!

500,000 POLES IN U. S. REFUSE TO JOIN IN ALLIANCE

Tell Warsaw They Are Now Americans.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Aug. 9.—Forty-six American delegates, representing 32 Polish organizations in the United States with upward of 500,000 members, today informed the Polish government that they no longer considered themselves Poles, but Americans, and refused to join the government's projected society, the World Alliance of Poles Living Abroad.

The refusal of the Americans to participate at an impressively staged ceremony to be held tomorrow in Wawal castle, at Cracow, if they are obliged to sign the statutes of the society was made this evening at the closing session of the congress of Poles living abroad. The incident occurred in the hall of the Polish senate before a number of members of the Polish cabinet.

Chicagoan Announces Stand.

When Frank Swietlik of the Polish American alliance of Chicago, who is head of the American delegation, informed the congress of the position of his delegation, Poles from European countries and from South America applauded. The government ministers sat silent.

Explaining his stand to THE TRIBUNE correspondent, Swietlik said:

"While we are proud of the country of our forefathers, we consider ourselves first and foremost as Americans. We feel that we can best help Poland by being better American citizens. We admire Polish culture and Poland's brave fight for liberty, and by helping to promote cultural relations we believe that we are helping to enrich our own great nation, the United States.

"I explained to the congress that the sons and daughters of Poland living in America are active American citizens, that we came to Poland to see the country of our forefathers, and are returning to our native land filled with admiration at the great progress Poland is making despite the trying conditions."

What Poland Proposes.

The proposals of the Polish government, which were accepted without question by delegates from 15 other countries, seek to prevent assimilation of these groups abroad through compelling the use of the Polish language at all gatherings of Poles abroad, by increasing the number of Polish schools, and other measures.

Although the delegates received quantities of propaganda advocating that Poles living abroad should bank their savings in Poland, the government carefully avoided the question of remittances from immigrants, which in recent years has been a large source of income for Poland. Influential members of the American group, however, said that in conversations with Polish officials they had emphasized that Poland's prestige in the United States has fallen considerably since Warsaw repudiated the war debt. The Americans said the Polish officials received these remarks coolly.

Tomorrow's imposing ceremony, in the rooms occupied by Poland's former kings at the castle in Cracow, has been knocked into a cocked hat by the unexpected stand of the American delegates. The government has hastily changed the program, and the signing of what was to have been a world Polish constitution has been canceled.

FINDS WOMEN OF RUSSIA HATLESS; WORK NIGHT, DAY

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, Democratic national committeewoman for the Virgin Islands, was back from Russia today with definite ideas about communism.

"After five days in Russia, I wish all the discontented people in the United States could go there," she declared at the Hotel Plaza where she rested with her daughter, Mrs. Peter Porter.

"In Russia all the women work terribly hard," she declared. "You've no idea. They work night and day and they sleep in the street cars and they have no hats. They have a lot of children and they want a lot of children. But life there is terrible.

"They have a class of people they call the peasant class. We have no class like that here. I think it would be a good idea if all the discontented people here went over there, and once in you can't get out.

"The hotels for foreigners are very good. The Hotel Metropole in Leningrad is a splendid hotel with good service. They take good care of the Americans because they want them to say nice things. It makes you feel badly to see people who haven't anything to live for.

"The only thing they want is children and they don't seem to care how they get them. They tell me all kinds of immorality goes on there."

CABBAGE CROP SETTING MARK FOR NEW YORK

Good Weather Helps to Boost Production.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Geneva, N. Y., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The world's greatest cabbage patch, located here within a few miles of the shore of Lake Ontario, happens to be in one of the most favored spots on the weatherman's map this season. Growers are planning to harvest one of the biggest crops ever grown in this area.

Some of the fields may yield more than 25 tons to the acre in Ontario county, whose 6,000 acres make it the largest cabbage producing county in the world. It also boasts the biggest sauer kraut factory. There are 11 others in the county.

This state's cabbage patch of about 25,000 acres extends from Cayuga county on the east to Genesee county on the west. Weather permitting, the growers expect to receive more than a million dollars for their crop.

On C. S. Wilson's 46 cabbage acres on his farm a few miles south of here there are many heads of the early varieties that will weigh more than 7 pounds each.

Feed for Live Stock.

In addition to the large cabbage crop farmers will get an abundance of live stock feed from the leaves and stalks left in the fields. On many farms in this area the sheep live in the old cabbage fields from the first of November until Christmas.

Cabbage growers who expect to get the greatest tonnage this season plowed their land last fall and turned under a heavy growth of sweet clover which stood higher than a man's head on some farms. They also fertilized heavily. The most successful growers used as much as 700 pounds of fertilizer to the acre. With the outlook for higher cabbage prices, local growers set as their goal the biggest tonnage of high quality heads they could produce. Offers of $20 a ton have been made for some varieties.

Crops of Fruit Fair.

Fruit and vegetable growers are producing fair crops generally, despite the severe winter that killed many of their trees and the dry weather earlier in the season. Orchardists in this section suffered their share of losses of trees from low temperatures last winter. It is roughly estimated that a million apple trees were winter killed in New York. A few miles west of here thermometers went as low as 50 degrees below zero last winter, killing trees that had stood in old orchards for many years.

Most of apple trees that survived the extremely low temperatures last winter are heavily loaded with fruit in the Geneva area. Baldwins, the growers' old standby, have been generally killed in this region. But McIntosh and Gravenstein apples withstood the winter fairly well. In some orchards the McIntoshes are so heavily loaded with fruit the limbs touch the ground; the trees resemble weeping willows.

SIMMONS WEDS; ON HONEYMOON IN WISCONSIN

Chicago Girl Bride of Sox Star.

AL SIMMONS.

Al Simmons, White Sox slugger and one of the leading outfielders of the American league, and Dores Lynn Reader, 19 years old, of 1063 North Shore avenue were married Monday at the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle, 55th street and Kimbark avenue, it was learned last night. Msgr. Thomas V. Shannon performed the ceremony. The announcement was made by Mr. and Mrs. David Reader, parents of the bride. The engagement of the couple was announced exclusively in THE TRIBUNE on Aug. 1.

The couple is honeymooning at Lauderdale, Wis. Simmons told THE TRIBUNE by telephone last night that he will return to Chicago and the White Sox lineup tomorrow.

His Name is Szymanski.

In obtaining the license Simmons gave his name as Aloysius Harry Szymanski, with which he was christened in Milwaukee 32 years ago, and his address as the Chicago Beach hotel, where most of the Sox players stop when the team is at home.

Simmons suffered an injury to a finger on his right hand in a game in St. Louis last week and decided to turn his enforced vacation into a honeymoon instead of waiting until the baseball season ended, as he had planned.

Harry Grabiner, vice president and official spokesman for the White Sox, and Simmons' teammates expressed surprise. Grabiner said last night that he knew nothing of Simmons' plans other than that Al had told him he would be married at the close of the playing season.

Met on West Coast.

The bride, an attractive brunette, met Simmons last spring while the Sox were training at Pasadena, Cal. Upon the team's return to Chicago the couple was seen together about town on many occasions and friends of both predicted marriage would be the outcome.

The former Miss Reader attended school in Milwaukee, Simmons' home town.

SOX MEET BROWNS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The portion of the White Sox brigade not embarrassed by injuries will get together again this afternoon and endeavor to put on a show with the St. Louis Browns, who will remain until a double-header is concluded Sunday afternoon. The double bill also will conclude the Sox at home affairs for the time being. They open in the east next Tuesday and will not reappear at Comiskey park until early in September.

Les Tietje, the only young pitching staf member who gives indication of being worth while, will be used against the Browns this afternoon. The right handed Iowan gave the Brownies quite an exhibition of skill more than a week ago at St. Louis but fell apart after six brilliant innings and was nosed out, despite a seven run lead. He has rested since then. Dick Coffman, whom the Sox keep in the league, probably will start for Roger Hornsby's gang.

Haas, Hayes About Ready.

Possibly for this afternoon and certainly for tomorrow, according to dugout information, Manager Jim Dykes will be able to relieve some of his amateur talent from active duty. Mule Haas thinks he has definitly whipped his charley horse and will return to the outfield. Jack Hayes, owner of a recently broken right thumb, will go back to second, replacing Bob Boken.

Dykes will continue at first because he has little choice in the matter. His only alternative would be to give the first sacker's glove to Haas and tell him to do the best he could.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE Cubs have nicknames for one another not generally known outside the club. . . . Woody English is "Mouse," Jim Weaver is "Junior" and Babe Herman is "Daniel Boone." . . . Johnny Blood, professional football's vagabond half back, has been sold to Pittsburgh by the Green Bay Packers. . . . Mrs. T. O. M. Sopwith, who will serve as timer on the British challenger, Endeavour, will be the first woman ever to sail in an America's Cup race. . . . Muscletone is the early betting favorite in the $40,000 Hambletonian trotting stake. . . . Col. Jake Ruppert, millionaire brewer and owner of the New York Yankees, celebrated what he claimed was his 42d birthday last week. . . . Record books prove it was his 67th. . . . The colonel's explanation is that repeal took 25 years off his life. . . . Barney Ross, who was sued for failure to go through with a match in Dallas against Tony Herrera prior to his title fight with McLarnin, has settled the case for $1,260. . . .

One of the all time pitching achievements of the major leagues was by Eddie Rommel of the Athletics in the days when the New York Yankees really were a great team. . . . A couple of Philadelphia's pitchers had been hammered in the first inning and after ten runs had scored and the bases still were loaded Connie Mack turned to Rommel and said: "For land's sake, Eddie, go in there and try to get the side out." . . . Rommel, without taking time to warm up, ran from the dugout to the mound and fanned Ruth, Gehrig and Meusel. . . . The Schmeling-Neusel fight, scheduled for Aug. 26, in Berlin, probably is the most unusual match in ring history. . . . Adolph Hitler ordered the men to meet. . . . Hoss racing levels off a lot of things. . . . Tom McHale, an out and out Republican, sat in the same box with Mayor Kelly at Hawthorne the other day. . . . Henry Greenberg, Detroit first baseman, uses the largest glove in baseball. . . .

George Sauer, Nebraska full back, who will play with the College All-Americans against the Bears Aug. 31, played at tackle in his first year of football at Lincoln High school. . . . Bernie Masterson, Nebraska quarter back, who has been invited as a back field reserve with the all stars, was a teammate of Sauer, both in high school and college. . . . They played 47 games together and never were defeated on a Lincoln gridiron. . . . And they do say this Sauer looks sweet. . . . Bookmakers probably are glad that Charley Dressen, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has quit betting on horse races. . . . His wagers have made more than one bookie wince. . . . Dressen says he doesn't even glance at a form chart any more. . . . Eastern baseball writers are calling Detroit's infield the best since Connie Mack's $100,000 combination of 1914. . . . Wonder if they ever heard of Gandil, Collins, Risberg, and Weaver, who used to hang out around 35th street and Shields avenue. . . .

Lon Mann, Purdue trainer, is one of the oldest in the game. . . . He started with A. A. Stagg at Chicago in 1897 and with the exception of 1906 when he was with Charles A. Comiskey's hitless wonders he has been in the collegiate field continuously. . . . He went to Purdue in 1924 from Penn State. . . . Bunny Oakes, football coach at Montana, is taking in A Century of Progress Exposition. . . . Steve Donoghue, England's most widely known jocky, says he will not quit riding until he has won another Derby. . . . He soon will celebrate his 50th birthday. . . . Brooklyn has just about decided to pay the $37,500 and one player promised the San Francisco Mission club if Pitcher Johnny Babich made good. . . . The New York Giants football team will train for three weeks at Pompton Lakes, N. J., where Carnera prepared for Baer. . . .

Stimulus, which once raced for Marshall Field III. of Chicago, has sired more winners this year than any thoroughbred stallion in America. . . . One of the reasons why the National Hocky league has not announced its schedule is that Pittsburgh cannot decide whether or not it wants the franchise granted it at the recent league meeting. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Tom Gibbons knocked out Jack Bloomfield in the third round at London. . . . Miriam Burns and Edith Cummings were the finalists in the Women's Western golf tournament. . . . The Sox and Cubs each split double headers. . . . Rogers Hornsby and Babe Ruth were leading their respective leagues in batting. . . . Bennie Leonard started training for his bout with Mickey Walker in New York.

Cubs Rained Out; Warneke to Face Cardinals Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 9.—Lon Warneke tomorrow afternoon will go after his 17th victory of the year when he faces the Cardinals in the first of a four game series. If Lon wins he'll be only one triumph under his 1933 total and five under the total with which he led the National league in 1932.

Big Jim Weaver was to have pitched the final in Pittsburgh today, but when the affair was rained out Manager Grimm decided not to make a carry over of the big boy. It is the theory that Weaver is a better rester than Lon, who has to work every fourth day to keep on edge. Weaver will team with Guy Bush in Sunday's double header.

10-5 Edge on Pirates, Cards.

The Cubs arrived here ahead of time, having escaped the scheduled getaway game in Pittsburgh. They left town with a season ratio of ten victories to five defeats against the Pirates, the same ratio which prevails in the year's competition with the Cardinals. A cloudburst broke in Pittsburgh early this morning and at 10:25 o'clock the Cubs were on a train headed west.

The Cubs were not sorry at missing the scheduled farewell, for it was recalled that the Chicagoans have lost their last six road getaways, and you know how superstitious ball players are. They lost the final game of nine straight series, at home and abroad, up until the recent brief home stand when they won the Cardinals' farewell and also the Reds'.

Pennant Hopes Soar.

It is a matter of common comment that the 1934 Cubs do not possess the spark that characterized the 1932 pennant winners. Though the present outfit unquestionably is short of luster, the lads off stage do rear up with optimistic hopes about winning the pennant. They are all churned up about their prospects in the coming invasion of the eastern teams, and they also express the belief that the Pirates and Cards will join them in slapping down the league leading Giants, who tonight top them by a margin of three games.

Gabby Hartnett, one of the two main invalids with the team, will not play tomorrow or Saturday, but expects to get in one of the games Sunday. Bob O'Farrell and Tubby Phelps have been carrying on well enough, however, and Gabby is being urged to take his time about getting back into harness.

Billy Herman Is O K.

Bill Jurges, the other first line invalid, is getting stronger every day, but is not likely to break into the lineup until the team gets back home.

Billy Herman, knocked out of yesterday's double header by a pitched ball in the third inning of the first game, will be back on the job in tomorrow afternoon's contest. Chuck Klein, the charley horse fellow, will not join the team here.

Rios Gets Ten Round Decision Over Dundee

Leiperville, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Tommy Rios, Wilmington, Del., tonight was awarded a ten round verdict over Vince Dundee, world middleweight champion, Newark, N. J. The title was not at stake.

FUNERAL RITES FOR ROBINSON TO BE HELD TODAY

Baseball Leaders Attend Services at Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP)—After requiem high mass here tomorrow the body of Wilbert Robinson, whom the baseball world knew as Uncle Robbie, will be borne back to Baltimore, scene of his early triumphs, for burial.

The mass will be said at 9:30 a. m. at Sacred Heart cathedral. At noon the funeral cortège will entrain for Baltimore, where the nationally known baseball character is to be buried in the Bonnie Brae cemetery Saturday.

Beginning with last night, when Robinson died of a cerebral hemorrhage, messages of sympathy and condolence have poured into the hotel where the Robinsons made their home.

Baseball Leaders Attend.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, telegraphed his sympathy to Mrs. Robinson and planned to attend the funeral, along with other baseball notables.

Many of the Southern association club leaders planned to attend the services for the man who, after a career in the big leagues, came out of retirement to help build up the Atlanta Baseball club as its president.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Harry L. Robinson of Baltimore, and a daughter, Mrs. Frank H. Gunther of Spring Lake, N. J.

MARQUARD IS SAD.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Rube Marquard, the famous old southpaw of two decades ago, could not help feeling blue as he punched out mutuel tickets at the Narragansett park race track this afternoon.

"Old Robbie treated me as if he were my father, not a manager," said Marquard. "I spent some of the happiest days of my life with Robbie in New York and Brooklyn. He was coach of the Giants when I joined them in 1907, and he taught me the proper way to pitch to a batter."

Rube recalled an incident in the fall of 1915. The late John McGraw had sold Marquard to the Dodgers, under Robinson, believing the Rube was at the end of his string.

Robbie purposely kept Marquard on the bench for a number of days and announced to the newspapers that Rube wasn't feeling well. He then saved his southpaw until the Giants made their next visit to Brooklyn. That day Robbie ordered Marquard to warm up under the grandstand and not to appear on the field until the umpires called "play ball."

Marquard carried out his orders, trotted on the field at the prescribed time, and shut out the Giants 1 to 0 in ten innings.

LANDIS EN ROUTE.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, left here tonight for Atlanta to attend the funeral of Wilbert Robinson. He saw the Minneapolis-Louisville game here.

THINK OF YOUR FUTURE!

What will you say when you're aged and gray
And your grandchildren draw up their chairs
To ask of the fight on that glorious night
When the College Stars clashed with the Bears?
Can you talk by the hour of how Schwammel and Sauer
Did battle with Musso and Sisk,
Or mumble with shame that you passed up the game?
A dollar will save you the risk.

Yes, sir, or Madam, for $1 plus the 10 cent tax, you may see the 1933 College All-Americans play the Chicago Bears the night of Aug. 31. You may order by mail from the Football Ticket Manager, Chicago Tribune, or in person at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street; Tribune Tower or Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.

If Bears Have an Edge, Halas Can't See It

BY WILFRID SMITH.

George Halas, coach of the Chicago Bears professional football team, fired the first shot yesterday in the skirmish between the professionals and the collegians preliminary to the all-star battle on the night of Aug. 31 at Soldiers' field. Halas was unable to restrain his ire at some of the allegations concerning the handicap of the collegiate players and popped off with resounding detonation.

"How can any one figure that the college players will be at a disadvantage because they haven's played together and the Bears did play as a team last fall? And then add that the game must be played under the college football rules? Obviously, any slight advantage the Bears might have because of familiarity with last year's plays is wiped out entirely if the college forward pass rule is used in the game at Soldiers' field.

May Have to Start Over.

"Our attack last year was built around the short forward pass thrown from any point behind the line of scrimmage, and if we must pass only from a point 5 yards back, the Bears will have a lot of work ahead learning new plays. It won't be a case of reviewing last year's plays. We will be at a disadvantage which we may not be able to overcome.

"More than this," Halas continued, "the all-star lineup is the pick of the 1933 players. Some of these boys expect to play professional football. Certainly they are the best of last year's college material. I'd like to have that squad for the coming season in the National league. I don't know why they couldn't win a championship.

Can't See Edge for Bears.

"The all-star squad will outnumber the Bears' squad. It will equal the Name three coaches in the order of your preferences. Three points will be counted for first place, two for second, and one for third. The contest will close tonight at midnight. Send your selections to the All-Star Football Editor, Chicago Tribune.

CROWLEY LEADS ON FINAL LAP OF CLOSE RACE

Announce Winner on Monday.

New Players

FRED CRAWFORD of Duke university, almost a unanimous choice for tackle on All American selections last fall, yesterday accepted an invitation to join the College All-Stars. Four other tackles, Krause of Notre Dame, Schwammel of Oregon State, Mehringer of Kansas and Rosequist of Ohio State, also are on the squad. Ralph Graham, Kansas State half back, also wired his acceptance yesterday. The squad that will report Wednesday morning consists of 33 players.

BY ARCH WARD.

Candidates for the position of football's first All-American coach are heading down the stretch. The finish line will be reached at midnight tonight and as soon thereafter as a staf of 20 young women can complete the count the name of the winner in the greatest voting contest sport has known will be announced.

It now appears that the final tabulations in the nation-wide balloting to pick a leader for the team of 1933 All-Americans who will battle the Bears at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31 will total nearly 400,000. It will be impossible to have an accurate check before Sunday afternoon. The winner will be announced Monday morning.

More than 35,000 votes were mailed or brought into THE TRIBUNE yesterday. This does not include thousands from newspapers coöperating with this department from Boston to Los Angeles. It is certain that at least 50,000 will be received today, and thousands more will arrive tomorrow. No votes postmarked after midnight tonight will be counted.

Pour In for Crowley.

Heading the list as the 43 candidates reach the final day of the contest is Jimmy Crowley of Fordham, who owes much of his popularity to his reputation as left half back with the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame. Votes poured in for Crowley from New York, Chicago, Green Bay, Escanaba, Mich.; Iron Mountain, Mich.; Ishpeming, Mich., and scores of smaller cities in Illinois and Pennsylvania. His vote for the day exceeded 8,000.

Crowley has a lead of almost 7,000 points over Dick Hanley of Northwestern, who has passed Noble Kizer of Purdue for second place. Kizer was out in front for the previous 48 hours. Then come Robert Zuppke of Illinois, Harry Kipke of Michigan, and Slip Madigan of St. Mary's in that order. All six are still in the running.

Alumni clubs and individual workers are toiling energetically to put over their favorites with a last minute drive. Friends of Zuppke in Rockford, Peoria, Bloomington, Springfield, Decatur, Danville, Champaign, and Macomb say, "We ain't heard nothin' yet." They expect to add thousands to the Illinois leader's figure. Purdue clubs have promised at least 20,000 votes for Kizer from Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, and Chicago. Ottawa, Ill., which has made Madigan's cause a matter of civic pride, expects to increase his total by several thousand. Ottawa claims to be the first city to have opened a voting booth.

Young Hanley Aid.

Jim Luther, a 12 year old boy in Jefferson, Ia., sent in more than 400 votes for Hanley. Explaining the vote the young Iowan said:

"This is not a very big town and I have worked all day getting these names. Some of them are graduates of Northwestern. I always am for Northwestern, and I hope they have a whirlwind of a team this fall. I am going to Northwestern when I am ready for college and I hope Dick Hanley is still coach when I am there. I have a 'Vote for Dick Hanley' booth in my dad's office. I hope the college boys win the game. If I don't get to see it I'll be listening in on the radio."

Hanley received more than 2,000 votes in Evanston yesterday. It will not be surprising if he makes the strongest finish of any of the candidates.

Requests from 20 States.

Ticket sales indicate that the biggest crowd Soldiers' field has had since the Notre Dame-Southern California game of 1929 will be in attendance. The rivalry between the collegians and professionals, the glamor of the spectacle and the cheapest ticket prices Chicago has had for a major football attraction have combined to attract the fans. While most of the orders are from Chicagoland, applications have been received from more than twenty states.

Little, Dawson to Play in California Tourney Today

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Lawson Little, British amateur golf champion, Johnny Dawson, Chicago, and Benny Coltrin, defending champion, head the list of golfers who will tee off here tomorrow in the first 36 hole round of the annual Northern California golf tournament. The second group will play the 36 hole qualifying round Saturday, after which the first 50 scorers will qualify for the final 36 holes Sunday.

FAVORITES WIN IN BOYS', JUNIOR NET TOURNEYS

John Shostrom Loses at Culver.

Culver, Ind., Aug. 9.—(AP)—A heavy bombardment in the singles and doubles of the national junior and boys' tennis tournaments on the Culver Military academy courts today saw 51 matches fought out as the field worked to catch up on play washed out by rain earlier in the week.

Two rounds of junior singles brought the field up to the quarter-finals, and two rounds of boys' singles cut the field to four.

The top seeded juniors emerged successfully, although Ramsey Potts, Memphis, rated second, was forced to come from behind to defeat Ralph Burns, Indianapolis, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, in the fourth round. JEWELRY, given a hustling ride, went around KWAMUDI on the turn and, drawing out, won under light pressure. PATCHEYE, away slowly and much the best, raced around the entire field and, wearing down TRAGGAT in final eighth, won under strong urging. TRAGGAT had speed from the start, held the lead for a short distance in stretch and weakened badly near end. BALANCER, forced to outside for room, closed with a rush.

SKIRL, also slow to get going, closed strong, wearing down ALLENS in closing strides.

Time, :25, :48 4-5, 1:12 4-5, 1:38, 1:44 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Blessed Event, $10.72 straight, $7.00 place, $4.68 show; Frank Ormont, $7.58 place, $4.30 show; Fanfern, $2.84 show. Winner trained by A. G. Tarn. Went to post at 4:55.

BLESSED EVENT, improved and close up after first three-eighths, came around the leaders with a rush in stretch and was ridden out. FRANK ORMONT, forced to early pace under steady restraint, responded to mild pressure and, although failing to withstand winner, gradually disposed of FANFERN in final eighth. FANFERN had good speed, saved ground throughout and gave way very slowly in the drive.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

ROWDY BOY, beginning sluggishly and far back for three-quarters, gained rapidly thereafter and was up in closing strides. CAPT. DANGER, a strong factor after half a mile, came around KING PIN on stretch turn and, after drawing out, weakened, yet barely failed to last. KING PIN bore over soon after the start, had his speed, but weakened after reaching stretch. AMSCRAY dropped far out of it.

BLACK NOSE, much the best and under steady restraint until reaching last three-eighths, came around SNAPLOCK gradually and drew out. SNAPLOCK cut out a good pace, could not withstand the winner, but outstayed EDITH A. Latter, slow to begin and forced to lose much ground, closed resolutely.

BLESSED EVENT DECIDES TO WIN ONE FOR CHANGE

Last on Saturday, He Runs at Near-Record Speed.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Blessed Event, from the Corsicana stable of Texas, holds the world's record for a mile and a furlong and in spots is a mighty racehorse. He was a marvelous performer in the Shoreland purse at Hawthorne yesterday, which he won by a length and a half.

Yet for consistency not many good things can be said about Blessed Event, which Col. Edward R. Bradley sold down the river last winter. Last Saturday the son of Happy Argo-Soul Mate had finished far back in the John C. Schank Memorial handicap. He was beaten by eight lengths by Frank Ormont, which trailed him home in second place yesterday in the Shoreland.

Tenth One Day, First Next.

Blessed Event was tenth in the ten horse Schank Memorial, but he ran like a different horse in the Shoreland. It may be that Blessed Event likes to depend on his stable companions to do the work and is a bit lazy now and then. It was his running mate, Bien Fait, which won the Schank Memorial. However, that hardly excuses Blessed Event's dull effort, and it hardly can account for his sudden improvement in the Shoreland.

Once he sailed into the lead in this mile and a sixteenth battle, when he conquered the early pacemaker, Fanfern, at the head of the stretch, Blessed Event never left the result in doubt. He stepped right on home in his long, even stride.

Nears Track Record.

Blessed Event clicked off the furlongs at about the same clip all the way around and wound up by running the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44 2-5. He carried 115 pounds and was ridden by Jocky Charley Landolt. The mark was four fifths of a second slower than the track record held by Plucky Play, and was one of the outstanding performances of the season at Hawthorne. This was the second race Blessed Event has won since he was breaking world's records in Florida last winter.

Fanfern and Chartres were both heavily backed in the Shoreland. As a result Blessed Event paid $10.72, $7.00 and $4.68. Frank Ormont was at $7.58 to place, and Fanfern paid $2.84 to show.

Finish Noses Apart.

Two thrilling finishes preceded the running of the feature race.

The eight 2 year olds which met in the 5½ furlongs fourth race staged one of the most lively battles of the year. My Blonde, Kissinbug, and Stay raced the final furlong only noses apart and that was the way they were placed, although persons to the left of the line howled long and loud and other persons to the right of the line protested in even more raucous tones.

Another small turmoil followed when Jocky Balaski, who had ridden My Blonde, was called into the stewards' stand to explain why he permitted his mount to rough up Lovesick, which had been in a contending position all the way down the stretch. The original placing was allowed to stand. Jocky Balaski was suspended for five days for his rough house tactics.

My Blonde paid $12.12 in the betting after running the 5½ furlongs in 1:07.

Fails to Stop Pancoast.

Balaski tried a little more strong arm work again in the six furlong fifth race while aboard Miss Melody. He let her swerve to the outside in a spectacular stretch duel with the favorite, Pancoast. The veteran Charley Corbett was in the saddle on Pancoast and Miss Melody's late move failed to impede the favorite. He got up to win by a nose. Siskin was third, but well back of the two leaders. Pancoast rewarded his backers at $4.78.

WILLIAMS, WOOD, SHIELDS RETURN FROM ENGLAND

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Disappointed they didn't win, but satisfied they gained a lot of experience for next year's campaign, America's Davis cup tennis singles players, Sidney B. Wood Jr. and Frank X. Shields, and the team captain, R. Norris [Dick] Williams, returned from England today.

"England was the better team," said Williams, discussing the 4 to 1 defeat, "but they're not so much better that we can't win three matches out of five from them, probably next year.

"The chief contributing factor to our failure was that Wood and Shields were not up to form on the first days of either the series with Australia or England. It was just unfortunate, because a turn in the fortunes on the first day in the challenge round against England might have made a great difference."

ANTHONY NAMED LINE COACH AT WEST VIRGINIA

Morgantown, W. Va., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Frank Anthony, former University of Southern California tackle, today was named line coach of the West Virginia university football team by head coach Charles C. Tallman.

The choice is yet to be approved by the board of governors, but affirmative action is considered certain since the board has granted Tallman's other requests and has indicated it will give him a free hand in completing the staf.

Anthony, who comes highly recommended by Howard Jones, Southern California coach, played regularly for the Trojans in 1928, '29 and '30. He assisted Jones with spring practice in '31 and has since coached California prep school elevens.

Lukats Is a Funny Fellow, but Bears May Not Think So

Notre Dame, Ind., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Nick Lukats, the wit and principal entertainer of Notre Dame's football teams of the last few years, is a light hearted, jovial young man off the football field. On the gridiron he transforms himself into a tricky, powerful half back who never accepts defeat even in the face of insurmountable odds.

These latter characteristics are the ones the Chicago Bears will encounter on Aug. 31 when Lukats lines up with the college all-stars in their battle with the professional football champions at Soldiers' field.

It was Lukats who, when all seemed lost, started the one man rally in the last quarter that sent the Army reeling to a 13 to 12 defeat and gave Notre Dame admirers of 1933 reason to forget five earlier defeats.

Handsome Six Footer.

Of Hungarian extraction, he is 6 feet tall, weighs 185 pounds, has classic features, dark skin, deep brown eyes, and black slightly curly hair. His spontaneous laugh and ceaseless flow of wit cheered many sullen, tired teammates on train rides back to South Bend last fall. On one occasion, with a pack of early editions of the Sunday papers, which carried glaring headlines and pictures of the great upset, he passed through the cars, shook each of his mates, and said, "Come on, men, read all about it." He soon had them in high spirits with his dramatic interpretation of the stories.

In the Army game, when the Cadets had a 12 to 0 lead, he kept telling them, "Don't get cocky now, just because you're ahead. You relax now and we'll knock hell out of you." Despite his warnings, Army did relax and Notre Dame did knock hell out of them.

Born in Cleveland.

Nick was born May 1, 1911, in Cleveland. His family moved to Gary when he was a youngster and he attended Froebel High school of Gary, starring in football, tennis, track, basketball, and baseball. He was the seventh ranking boy tennis player in the country while in high school, and it was in tennis that he undoubtedly developed the footwork that was to make him one of the greatest running backs in the game.

Lukats made a lasting impression of the late Knute Rockne as a freshman in 1929. Marchie Schwartz was the left half back in 1930, so Lukats was on the bench the first eight games of that year. He saw action first against Army at Soldiers' field when he ran wild in the first quarter of the 7 to 6 Notre Dame victory.

He also caused Southern California a few unpleasant moments. He carried the ball into scoring territory and then tore through a hole for 11 yards and a touchdown, the fourth of the day, and the one which made the final score 27 to 0 for the Irish.

Leg Broken in 1931.

In 1931 Lukats was shifted to full back, but he received a broken leg in the first scrimmage and was lost for the season. Since he did not have any actual game competition, Lukats was eligible for the 1932 and 1933 seasons.

George Melinkovich had the full back post under control in 1932, so Lukats moved back to left half back. Little Mike Koken got the call by reason of his seniority and his experience in 1931, although Lukats dominated the scrimmages. Lukats' power and weaving trickery were such an aid to the shock troop back field that they were used in every game. Against Navy and Army, the shock troops made four of the five touchdowns, defeating Navy, 12 to 0, and Army, 21 to 0. Lukats was called the hardest driving back on the field against Army—but then he had moved by then to Perth Amboy, N. J., and he was playing his best for the home folks.

Finishes Law Course.

Last season was Lukats' greatest, although Notre Dame lost five games, won three and tied Kansas. It was Lukats who ran off tackle for 54 yards to score against Indiana and lead Notre Dame to a 12 to 2 victory. His work against Army will be remembered a long time by Notre Dame supporters.

Lukats was graduated last February from the college of law. His hobbies include drawing, music, and traveling. He is a singer and comedian with more than a campus-wide reputation. After serving as master of ceremonies at the 1933 Monogram club show, he was asked by Hollywood scouts to take a screen test. This was slated to take place after the East-West game on New Year's day. It was Lukats' lot to have a couple of teeth kicked out, so the screen test was postponed.

Bears in weight, in speed, in passing and in kicking. Pardonner, a drop kicker, and Schwammel, a place kicker, can score as certainly as Jack Manders of the Bears. I saw Schwammel place kick 48 yards last fall. Manders' best place kick was 40 yards against the Giants in the title game.

"Again I'd like to know how the critics figure that the college boys will be outclassed.

"The question of which is better, a pro team or a college team, has raged intermittently for several years," Halas continued. "This game goes beyond the argument. The Bears will meet the best college players of the country, from which a team can be formed which would whip any college team. It remains to be seen, of course, whether these boys can whip last year's professional champions, and while I don't think they will, the Bears should not be favored in the guessing.

Better Game with Pro Rules.

"The Bears would have a better chance to defeat the college players if the pro forward pass rule is used. We also would like to see the pro rule used because we know it will produce a better game for the thousands who will attend.

"The National league pioneered the change in the forward pass. We found that it made scoring easier and that the public appreciated the opportunity to see more action. The colleges also have tinkered with the forward pass and have made some changes in the rules for this year. In any event, the public should be considered, for no matter how brilliant the play between the 20 yard lines, a scoreless tie will be disappointing."

Pros Report Wednesday.

The professional players, 21 of them members of last year's team, and recruits for the coming campaign will assembly in Chicago next Wednesday, according to Halas. Practice will start on Thursday morning, and for the first week double daily drills will be held at the new Lane Technical High school athletic field, 2500 Addison street. The second week the Bears will practice at Northwestern university and will work out in the evening under the arc lights.

Halas will be assisted by Laurie Walquist, his assistant coach last year. As soon as the college coach is named Halas expects to take up the discussion of the rules under which the all-star game will be played. In the meantime he gradually is steaming up, so that it's quite likely he'd trade a 1934 league championship for a victory over the collegiate eleven.

Athletics Buy Outfielder Moses from Galveston

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 9.—[Special].—Wallace Moses, outfielder for the Galveston club of the Texas league, has been sold outright to the Philadelphia Athletics. The amount of cash paid was not disclosed by Galveston officials. Moses will report to the Athletics at the end of the Texas league season.

McLarnin Trains on Beach for Battle with Ross

CRECENT BEACH, B. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—A long run every morning in the loose sands of this beach resort, 25 miles from Vancouver, is the big item in the training grind of Jimmy McLarnin as he works out daily for his return match in Madison Square garden, New York, next month with Barney Ross, walterweight champion.

HAWTHORNE TO HONOR CORRIGAN, TRACK BUILDER

Tomorrow's Handicap Is Named for Him.

Ed Corrigan's name will appear again on a Hawthorne program tomorrow afternoon when the day's feature race will be dedicated to the memory of the builder of the track.

The Corrigan handicap is a race at a mile and a sixteenth and is worth $2,000. Among the probable starters are Navanod, Cotton Club, Frank Ormont, Bien Fait, Clarify, Blessed Event, New Deal, Howard, Jesting, Late Date, Gallant Mac, Ebony Lady, Advising Anna and Dusky Devil.

Ike Weil, the bailif-turfman from Chicago yesterday lost his good colt Brother Lou to George Keeton on a claim of $1,200. Brother Lou had finished second in the first race. "He did pretty well by me," said Weil, "for he cost me only $110 as a yearling."

* * *

Willa T. with the Wild Irishman, Dublin Taylor, in the saddle, was the tenth straight favorite to lose the first race at Hawthorne. Jewelry, the second choice in the betting from T. C. Worden's stable, was a handy winner.

* * *

Albert Sabath, president of the Hawthorne association purchased the 3 year old Impel from the Audley farm stable yesterday, and he will run in the Chicagoan's silks in the seventh race this afternoon.

* * *

Jocky Dublin Taylor's return to the saddle after a five day suspension for rough riding brought only gloom to his army of backers. He finished second once, was third on three occasions, and was out of the money in his other three engagements. Smart horsemen believe the Irish kid has still a chance to become the sensation of the Hawthorne season.

SCHUMACHER AND GIANTS WIN FROM DODGERS, 16 TO 5

Koenecke Drives Out Two Home Runs.

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Giants, who appear to reserve their best hitting for Hal Schumacher's mound appearances, drove out 15 hits to score a 16 to 5 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers today. The victory increased the Giants' National league lead over the Cubs to three games.

In the first two innings the Giants batted around twice against Ray Benge and Owen Carroll to score seven runs. Schumacher held the losers to six hits and struck out seven. Len Koenecke was the only Dodger who could do much with Hal's delivery, smashing out two home runs and a single. Score:

Tigers Defeat Browns, 13-3; Gain on Yanks

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Manager Mickey Cochrane personally led the Tigers to their ninth consecutive victory and their third over the St. Louis Browns today as the Detroit club registered a 13 to 2 victory. It was the second time in two days that Cochrane's bat was the major factor in a Tiger triumph, and it put his club three full games ahead of the second place Yankees, as rain prevented the New York-Washington game. Yesterday Cochrane accounted for the winning run in the tenth. Today he drove home five runs with four singles. Score:

YEARLINGS BRING DOUBLE '33 PRICE AT N. Y. SALES

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Forty-six yearlings passed under the hammer at Saratoga's annual sales tonight and brought $50,050, an average of $1,088, nearly double the opening night's average last year.

Yearlings were consigned from the Belair Stud, Swingalong Stud, Inc., Beaumont Farm, Brownell, Leslie and L. B. Combs, Hon. Westmoreland Davis, R. H. Anderson, and Keeneland Stud. Better class stock was offered, although there was no individual standout offering. The Belair lot of an even dozen brought $13,200, averaging $1,100.

Top price of $2,600 was paid for two yearlings. Townsend W. Martin of Westbury, L. I., paid that sum for an upstanding brown son of Broadway Jones-Bellefair, consigned by the Swingalong Stud, Inc. Mrs. F. C. Mars of Chicago, owner of Milky Way farm, took a dark bay colt by Imp. Bulldog-Bridgeen, from the same consignment and for the same price. Bulldog was a racer of note in France.

A bay colt already named Torch Man, by Toro-Imp. Flambette, offered by the Belair Stud, was bid in by Mrs. T. J. Lewis for $2,500. Torch Man is half-brother to the stake winners Flambino and Flaming.

Jones Battles Haas Today in Western Junior Golf Final

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Eighteen years ago a 14 year old Atlanta kid by the name of Bobby Jones came up to the National Open and caused a great todo by going to the last eight before they set him down. Yesterday another Bobby Jones, this time from Detroit and 18, arrived in the last twosome of the 21st annual Western Junior tournament at the Hinsdale Golf club, playing golf which smacked more than once of that other Jones.

He will need more than the happy coincidence of his name and a lot of the Jones brand of golf today in the 36 hole final, for he will meet another 18 year old who has an advantage on him in tournament trouping. His opponent will be the lanky Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans, who recently lambasted the whole field in the Southern Amateur, always a very hard party to survive.

Haas Defeats Thomsen.

Haas, a sophomore at Louisiana university, won his way to the semi-final yesterday with a 4 and 3 victory over Willie Thomsen of Racine, Wis., and then came back in the afternoon to eliminate Keith Johnson of Bloomington, Ill., 2 and 1, playing the last hole out for a full medal card of 71, par at Hinsdale. The 6 foot 1 inch southerner has had a far easier road than Jones in reaching the final. He tied for the qualifying medal with three others and then won his first two matches by 3 and 1, and 6 and 5.

Jones, on the other hand, has had anything but a free ride through the tournament. In his first match he was 3 down to Winfield Day, Chicago district champion, with three holes to go, but squared the match by winning all three of them and then took the match with a birdie on the third extra hole. In the second round he had to get another finishing birdie to eliminate Ken Heileman of Chicago, 2 and 1. Yesterday morning he went to the 17th green again before he won from Paul Jamieson of St. Louis, 2 and 1, and in the afternoon's semi-final was forced to the 18th before he won, 1 up, from Elton Hill of the University of Illinois, one of the co-medalists.

Decide Medal Tie Today.

Norman Freer, president of the Western Golf association, announced yesterday that possession of the tournament's qualifying medal will be decided by an 18 hole playoff tomorrow among Haas, Johnson, Hill and Ralph Ackerman of Chicago, all of whom matched par of 71 to lead the original starting field of 225 in the medal play round on Tuesday.

Both Jones and Hill were over par on the first hole, Jones taking 3 to get on and Hill finding a trap. The latter won the third, where Jones was short, but it was all square after the sixth, where Elton was trapped. Bobby took the long seventh by dropping a 20 foot putt for a birdie, but pulled his drive at the eighth to lose that. He had another chance at the ninth, but a one foot putt wobbled away and he had to take a half.

Jones lost the twelfth hole, taking a journey among the trees, and 3 putted the fourteenth to go 2 down. Hill helped him by 3 putting the fifteenth and Bobby followed this up on the next green, where his drive was 4 feet from the flag, for a deuce, and the match was even again. Both were on the eighteenth in 2, but Hill's first putt overran the cup by 2 feet and he missed coming back, while Jones got down in 2 for his par 4.

This Was Real Golf.

The Haas-Johnson first nine produced some of the best golf of the tournament, both going out in par 35 to be even at the turn. Johnson took the first hole with a par 4, when Haas was short reaching the green. The Illinois golfer was 2 up after the second, sinking a 10 footer for a birdie.

Haas birdied the third by sending his second two feet from the cup, and took the seventh with an eight footer for another birdie. Johnson was short at the 10th and 12th to lose both. He was three down after the 14th, which Haas birdied with another 8 foot putt. Keith got one back with a par at the 15th, where Fred was trapped, but two halved holes at the 16th and 17th ended it. Haas played out the 18th for a medal card of par 71.

Everett Wins Over Barry in 10 Round Bout

Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, avenged a defeat by Donald [Red] Barry last night when he gained a ten round decision over the Washington, D. C., boxer in the windup bout at Shewbridge field. Barry won the first bout last winter in Miami, Fla.

Jimmy Cummings suffered his first setback in the professional ranks, losing to Wilbur Stokes, Orlando, Fla., in a six round match. In another six rounder Eddie Stiegel won from Pete Petroskey, Muskegon, Mich., welterweight. In a pair of four round bouts Billy Treest whipped Owen Miller and Frank Schultz and Willie Dudlack fought a draw.

Puggy Weinert, Brighton Park welterweight who gave Billy Celebron his hardest fight Tuesday, and Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., yesterday were signed to meet in the eight round windup at Western stadium next Tuesday. Bob La Monte and Angelo Garlow, 147 pound rivals, will clash in one of three encounters at five rounds.

Bud Ginter, Chicago featherweight, has been matched with Jimmy Richards for four rounds on the card headed by Joe Louis and Jack Kranz at Marigold Gardens Monday. Joey Bozak or Freddy Gravelle will oppose Mike [Little Pal] Primitch in another 126 pound bout at five rounds. A four round engagement will bring into action Young Jack Blackburn and Joe Mendoza, 165 pounders. Mickey Beal will face Frank Mirabal in a bantamweight semi-final at six rounds. The show will open with a wrestling match between Zack Malkov and Walter Roxy.

Tony Herrera, Texas 140 pound boxer, may face Lou Ambers on the Tony Canzoneri-Harry Dublinsky program at New York, Aug. 22. . . . It is reported that Tommy Corbett and Battling Gizzy, slated to battle at Sparta stadium Aug. 13, instead will meet at Mills stadium Aug. 22. . . . Jackie Sharkey, who lost a disputed decision to Patsy Severo at Cleveland Tuesday, is in Cincinnati where he will box Tiger Walker Wednesday in place of Frank Sansone.

Benny Duke, Grand Rapids, Mich., junior welterweight, and Eddie Chinski, Chicago, were paired late yesterday for a five round battle at Western stadium. . . . In addition a four rounder was arranged between Davey White and Johnny Gould.

Find Hitchcock Has Concussion from Polo Fall

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—An injury diagnosed today as a "slight concussion," the result of a heavy fall from his pony yesterday in a polo match, will keep Tommy Hitchcock out of action for at least two weeks. His doctor predicted recovery, however, for the 10 goal internationalist in time to permit his participation in the East-West series starting Sept. 15 at Meadow Brook.

Although Hitchcock was fortunate, in his doctor's opinion, to escape more serious injury and a possible fracture of the skull, it was decided to take every precaution in his present treatment, inasmuch as this is the second concussion he has suffered from a fall within a year. He was knocked out during the last East-West series at Chicago, as a result of which he played no further polo during the 1933 season. He was saved from more serious consequences yesterday because the special helmet he now wears absorbed most of the shock when his head bumped the ground.

Hitchcock is unlikely to play in any of the remaining test matches to decide the East's lineup. About five more are scheduled, including the fourth contest Sunday at Sands Point, but the selection committee headed by Devereux Milburn probably will consider Hitchcock a fixture at No. 3, his regular position.

Vote for Hanley? No, Sah, Ah Ain't Signin' Nothin'!

The matter of collecting votes for the coach of the All-Star football team has its humorous side.

Al Kawal, captain-elect of Northwestern university's football team, who has been working in the Hanley voting booth at Evanston, relates several anecdotes.

The Wildcat captain buttonholed a Negro youth and asked him to affix his name to a Hanley ballot. The lad replied:

"No, sah; not me. The last time I signed a papah like that they took everything ah, owned."

It required considerable explanation to convince the chap that he wasn't going to lose anything by signing.

A gray haired lady declined to vote by answering:

"I am sorry, but, you see, I am not registered in Evanston."

City Finalists Qualified for Daily Fee Golf

Officials of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association yesterday decided to allow the finalists in the city championship meet, now being played at Jackson park, to qualify automatically for the association's third annual tournament, which opens tomorrow at Techny Fields, Evergreen, Golfmoor and Harlem. A field of 1,000 is expected to participate.

This ruling was made because the playing of the finals for the city championship today and tomorrow will prevent finalists from actually participating in the qualifying rounds of the tournament.

It also was decided that Bill Jordan, winner of the Daily Fee association's tournament last year, and Red Damen, the winner in 1932, will be allowed to enter the match play elimination rounds at Mission Hills Sunday without having participated in the qualifying rounds of medal play.

As a result of the two rulings, only seven at each of the qualifying courses will be selected for the elimination rounds. The addition of the four automatically qualified players will make the match play starting field consist of 32 players.

The qualifying rounds at the four named courses will start at any time between 7 o'clock in the morning and 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon tomorrow, and entries will be received up to the latter hour.

Edward Anderson, 3456 Grace street, and Bernard Jacobs, 3141 Palmer square, yesterday made holes in one at the Mid-City course. Anderson registered his ace on the 130 yard sixth and Jacobs scored on the 155 yard eleventh.

Secretary Joe G. Davis of the Chicago District Golf association announces that the one day handicap event originally scheduled for Aug. 11, and later for Aug. 16, at the Knollwood club, has been definitly set for Sept. 6.

Drive Against Watersnake Is Urged in East

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen in the United States receive all kinds of advice about their sport every year and are asked to join in a number of campaigns for this or that, but Pennsylvania anglers are being urged to conduct one of the strangest campaigns ever to come to our attention. O. M. Deibler, commissioner of fisheries of Pennsylvania is telling every fisherman to swat the watersnakes because it is believed that this reptile is an active enemy of game fish.

We have seen short articles in the Pennsylvania Angler concerning the depredations of the water snake [commonly called water moccasin in many localities] at more or less regular intervals. All of these articles have called attention to the fact that watersnakes are capable of catching and killing fish.

Extent of Damage Unknown.

In one of the most recent attacks against watersnakes, Mr. Deibler says:

"One of the most commendable features in the drive for better fishing here in Pennsylvania has been the wholehearted coöperation of our sportsmen, Boy Scouts, and others in thinning down the number of watersnakes. . . . But the snake killing campaign is now only well under way. This month and September should mark extensive destruction of these reptiles along our fishing waters. Under present conditions it will mean the saving of thousands of fish for fishermen. . . . Not only is the watersnake destructive to forage fishes such as the minnow, but its toll on bass spawn, young bass, and other game fish as well as food fish represents a direct loss to anglers of the commonwealth.

The conservation department urges regular drives along streams inhabited by watersnakes. In fact, the department points out that shooting watersnakes with a .22 rifle is ideal practice for the shooter and perhaps the most effective method by which the reptiles may be thinned.

Would Save Thousands of Fish.

What we would like to know is how many fish and what kinds of fish are eaten by a watersnake on an average stream. Statistics from a scientist who has studied this question seem to be lacking. Even Pennsylvania admits that the number of fish eaten by a snake during a season "is not definitely known."

Possibly Pennsylvania would have known about the appetite of the watersnake long before this if it had a fact finding organization comparable to the Fisheries institute of Michigan, an organization headed by Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, or a Natural History Survey such as we have here in Illinois. We hold no brief for watersnakes. However, it stands to reason that anyone who fishes would like to know just how serious is the watersnake menace.

June Beebe Is Out of State Golf Tourney

June Beebe of Olympia Fields was beaten, 2 and 1, by Dorothy Foster of Springfield in the quarter-finals of the state golf tournament at the Evanston Country club yesterday. Miss Beebe, in sharp contrast to her previous match, was unable to sink her putts, while Miss Foster was putting very well. Miss Foster won the fourth hole when Miss Beebe three putted and increased her lead to 2 up.

The next three holes were halved, Miss Beebe missing a putt of 15 inches at the eighth. Miss Foster was one up at the turn, Miss Beebe having won the ninth with a birdie. Miss Foster went two up at the tenth and won the twelfth also when June again three putted. Miss Foster went dormie four when Miss Beebe failed to get her second putt down on the fourteenth. Miss Beebe then rallied to win the fifteenth with a birdie and the sixteenth with a par, but her putt on the seventeenth to continue the match failed to drop and Miss Foster, the last of the downstate entries, advanced to the semi-finals.

Miss Nelson Wins.

Rena Nelson, the new city champion, defeated Ellamae Williams, River Forest, two up, in a closely contested match. Miss Nelson won the first two, the first with a birdie and the second with a par, sinking long putts on each of the holes. Miss Williams cut Rena's lead on the fourth when the latter failed to get down in regulation figures. The next four holes were halved, but Miss Nelson won the ninth to turn two up.

Miss Williams won the tenth with a par, but Miss Nelson won the twelfth and thirteenth to go three up. Miss Williams cut this lead with pars on the fourteenth and sixteenth for wins. Leaving the eighteenth, Miss Nelson was one up and a birdie four on the final hole gave her the match.

Mrs. Reinhardt Advances.

Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt, Northmoor, won over Jean Armstrong, Indian Hill, two up, after being four up at the turn. Miss Armstrong at this point won three holes in a row, the tenth with a birdie three, the eleventh with a par five, and the twelfth with a birdie two. The match was squared when Miss Armstrong won the fifteenth, but a birdie four on the sixteenth again gave Mrs. Reinhardt the lead. A par four on the seventeenth by Mrs. Reinhardt gave her the match and today she meets Miss Nelson.

In the other match Mrs. Lillian Zech, Tam o' Shanter, eliminated Hilda Livengood, Flossmoor, 3 and 2. Miss Livengood lost the second hole, but won the fifth with a par to go even. Mrs. Zech won the sixth, but Hilda banged in a birdie three on the eighth hole to square the match.

On the in nine Miss Livengood won the tenth with a four to Mrs. Zech's seven, but Mrs. Zech won the thirteenth when Hilda ran into a seven. Mrs. Zech then took the next three holes to win the match and today will play Miss Foster. Today's pairings:

Rena Nelson vs. Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt.
Mrs. Lillian Zech vs. Dorothy Foster.

Walter Crowdus, defending champion, yesterday survived two rounds in the 30th Chicago Amateur golf tournament at Jackson park and entered the 36 hole semi-finals which will be played this morning. Two former titleholders were eliminated, Doug MacKay losing to Eddie Joyce, 2 and 1, and Pete Miller dropping his match to Sonny Manarchy of Rockford, 1 up, 20 holes.

In the semi-finals this morning, Joyce will meet Hank Foley, veteran public parks golfer, and Crowdus will oppose Harold Mathisen, runner-up in the Midwest public parks tournament.

All quarter-final matches with the exception of Mathisen's were won on the 17th or 18th greens. Mathisen disposed of the golfing professor, Rockton A. Bowker, 7 and 6. Bowker was 4 down at the turn, and lost the next three holes to end the match on the 12th green.

Manarchy, after defeating Miller, lost to Joyce in the afternoon, 2 and 1. Joyce had a lead of 2 up at the turn and maintained the advantage to defeat the Rockford youngster.

Foley advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Al Long in the morning, 3 and 1, and winning from D. A. Lawrie, 2 up, in the quarter-finals. Foley, in his afternoon match, was two up at the turn, and led 5 up at the 13th hole. Lawrie came back and won the next four holes to cut the lead down to one, but Foley won the 18th hole to end the match.

Crowdus won his morning match from Chuck Berry, 3 and 1, and scored a 2 to 1 victory over Hyman Judelson in the afternoon round.

In the first flight finals which will be over the 36 hole route this morning and afternoon, James Williamson will meet Lee Moore. LOTT, STOEFEN WIN IN LONGWOOD TENNIS DOUBLES

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The appearance of the world's greatest doubles team, George Lott and Lester Stoefen, the combination that gave the United States its only point in the final Davis cup play against the British, featured today's Longwood bowl tennis play.

Lott and Stoefen met a pair of hard battling veterans, Henry Guild, president of the Longwood club, and Dr. G. C. Caner, whom they defeated, 6-4, 6-2. The victory placed the winners in the semi-finals against Jack Tidball, Hollywood, Cal., and Eddie Jacobs, Baltimore, who beat Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, Tenn., and John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, Tex., 7-9, 6-3, 6-0.

Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, beat Lindley Tiers and Amos Enos, 6-1, 6-3. Berkeley Bell, New York, and Eugene McCauliffe, Yonkers, N. Y., eliminated William Van Allen, Newport, and Arnold Jones, Providence, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Because the women were eager to get to Forest Hills, site of next week's national tournament, play in both singles and doubles was reduced to the point where finals can be held tomorrow.

Sarah Palfrey, Brookline, gained the last round by defeating Mrs. Marjorie Morrill-Painter, Dedham, 6-1, 6-4. Jane Sharp, Los Angeles, kept pace by beating Marjorie Sachs, Cambridge, 6-2, 6-1.

The women's doubles semi-finals witnessed the defeat of Miss Sharp and Norma Taubele, New York, by Helen Fulton, Chicago, and Catherine Wolf, Cincinnati, 6-3, 7-5. Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, and Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, gained a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Mrs. Mary Greef Harris, Kansas City, and Dr. Esther Bartosh, Los Angeles, in the other match.

YACHTS RESUME SERIES TO PICK CUP BOAT TODAY

New London, Conn., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The three candidates for the right to defend the America's cup, Weetamoe, Rainbow and Yankee, anchored in New London harbor tonight preparatory to resuming competition tomorrow.

The harbor was jammed with craft of all types and sizes attending the New York Yacht club rendezvous on the eve of the club's annual cruise. Yankee was first in, but the boats did not race from Newport.

Yankee's professional skipper, Capt. Gus Olsen, was back aboard for the first time since he suffered a broken leg during the concluding race of the last trial series. The leg is in a plaster cast but he is able to get about on his good one with a bit of help.

Diegel Wins in Rochester Golf Tourney

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Leo Diegel, Philadelphia, shot 66 on the second round today to win first money in the Rochester centennial-Walter Hagen testimonial golf tourney. Never rising above par in his four rounds, Diegel defeated Ky Laffoon, Denver, with a 72 hole total of 276, eight below par for the tricky East course.

Laffoon, who also kept his score at par or below for the match, ended with 278. Needing a 67 to tie Diegel, the Denver pro made a valiant try, carding a par 35 on the way out and coming in one under par for 69.

The Boys Smash Par.

The competition was the toughest ever seen here, par yielding 19 times in the final round to the stroking of the large field of nationally known amateurs and professionals gathered to pay tribute to Hagen, a local boy who made good. The course record of 66 was tied three times in the final round.

Diegel and Herman Barron, New York, gave the gallery of 1,000 their money's worth by sinking their last putts for 66 each. Too late to do more than tie for third and fourth money with Willie MacFarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y., Harry Cooper, Chicago, also clipped off 66, giving him 282.

Laffoon Surprises Crowd.

His right eye almost closed by a bee sting suffered during yesterday's round, Laffoon surprised the crowd by his accuracy on the greens.

George Von Elm, Detroit, could not keep up the pace set by Diegel and Laffoon and turned in 72 for 283, and a tie for fifth and sixth money with Jimmy Hines, Green River, N. Y., pro. Hines was above par only once in his four rounds and ended with 69.

Tied at 285 for seventh and eighth were Barron and Art Hulbert, Toronto. Andy Kay, another Canadian pro from Toronto, took ninth money with 286.

Toronto Amateur Scores 292.

Gossoon and Aquila Win in Yacht Races

George Getz's Eagle class sloop, Aquila, sailed by Clare Udell, won the first round of three days' racing for the Nutting cup at the Chicago Yacht club yesterday. Udell, who has the sloop under a season charter, had his brother, Bus, and Ken Ray as crew.

Aquila is defending the Nutting cup, presented by Sir John Nutting, Irish baronet and friend of the late Sir Thomas Lipton, to the Chicago Yacht club. It is symbolic of the Eagle class championship.

Wins By a Mile.

The victor led by more than a mile at the end of the race yesterday. The course had been shortened, because of lack of wind, to a six nautical mile triangle. Only puffs of air reached the sails of the windjammers. Aquila was timed in 3 hours 9 minutes 52 seconds. Clarence P. Clark's Falcon finished second, followed by Dr George Davis in his Orn.

The class R sloops doubled up on the Eagle boat course. Racing under the same poor weather conditions, Mal Vail and Sterling Morton's Gossoon II. captured its first event toward winning the Sir Thomas Lipton cup. The trophy is being defended by E. E. Sheridan's Ariel.

Gossoon II. Beats Ariel.

Gossoon II. sailed over a 12 nautical mile course yesterday afternoon in 5 hours 6 minutes 2 seconds. Ariel was second. The second and third races to decide the winners of the two cups will be run today and tomorrow at 2:15 o'clock.

CHICAGOAN TAKES 792 POUND TUNA AFTER 62 HOURS

LIVERPOOL, N. S., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Zane Grey's record tuna catch went overboard today when Thomas Howell, Chicago financier, arrived in port with a 792 pounder which he caught after a 62 hour struggle. It hauled his 33-ton yacht 200 miles.

The giant fish put up such a fight that nearly every one aboard was exhausted. Several times Capt. Johnson, the skipper, stood ready to cut the line for safety as the monster and craft wallowed through rough seas.

Zane Grey, the novelist, pulled in a 780 pounder off here a few years ago. Howell's beats that by 12 pounds.

Just off Mersey Point the fish snapped at the bait. That was 11:30 a. m. Monday. It gave up the struggle at 1:38 a. m. today and was pulled aboard.

A very fine, 36-thread tuna line, 550 yards long, was used. It was attached to a 26-ounce hickory rod. The yacht, Thalia, is a motor vessel of steel construction, equipped with two 600 horse power Diesel engines and manned by a crew of twenty. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Howell and their son, Thomas Jr.

Underprivileged Families Appeal for Vacation.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Requests for vacations at Camp Algonquin have been pouring in from needy families who feel that their troubles, at least their mental ones, would fade if they could have two whole weeks away from the hot crowded city. A typical appeal is the following from a father in behalf of his wife and children. He wrote:

"Would you please register their names at Camp Algonquin? They have never gone on a vacation in all their lives. We have three children, two girls 10 and 8, and a boy 5."

Lonely Little Boy.

A 13 year old boy is another hoping for a vacation at Camp Algonquin. He is at home alone most of the time. His mother and sister are trying to earn enough to feed the family and his brother is in a civilian conservation corps camp in Oregon. His father, he wrote, deserted the family several years ago.

"It is lonely here alone," he added. "Couldn't you find a place for a boy in the camp?"

Only one gift to help provide free vacations at the camp was received from TRIBUNE readers yesterday. It was $5 from Joseph Vail and gives the fund a grand total of $6,043.26.

Benefit to Babies.

THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund, which is a boon to tiny babies and the sick in this hot weather, received the following gifts:

FIND MISSING BOY DROWNED OFF DIVERSEY

George Georgoff, 14 years old, 1663 Throop street, was drowned yesterday afternoon off the north end of Diversey beach. No one witnessed the drowning. The boy's mother, who had accompanied him to the beach, asked a search be made after he had been missing half an hour. His body was recovered by life guards. Efforts to revive him were made by an inhalator squad.

Robert Soderquist, 16 years old, 7647 St. Lawrence avenue, died last night at his home of injuries suffered June 20 when he struck his head while diving into Cedar lake in northern Indiana. He was paralyzed in the accident and had been treated at Billings Memorial hospital. His death took place a few hours after he had been taken from the hospital.

REDS CHALLENGE CHRIST, WORLD BAPTISTS TOLD

Would Wreck Church, Claims Dr. Dodd.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(AP)—One of the most direct challenges to Christianity is being made by communism, Dr. M. E. Dodd, president of the Southern Baptist convention, said in an address today to the world Baptist congress here.

Communism and Christianity march in opposite directions and churches must provide a substitute for communism or succumb to it, Mr. Dodd said.

"There are many voices crying above the confusion claiming to have a remedy for the sick world," the American churchman asserted. "Some of these voices are nationalism, bolshevism, industrialism and Socialism. But their appeals are geographical, racial and class. They are therefore inadequate to meet the problems of the world. No remedy is adequate which does not have a universal application.

Seeks World Dominion.

"But there is one other voice, communism, which does claim universal implications. It claims to transcend all boundry lines. Communism asks for nothing less than world dominion, even the dethronement of God and the overthrow of all existing order.

"Communism therefore stands as the one supreme challenge to christianity. The giant stalks in the valley hurling defiance at Israel's God.

"To personify the situation: There are two Jews who challenge the world's attention and ask the world to follow them. One of them is Karl Marx, communist, and the other is Jesus, the Christ.

"Communism is motivated by selfish ends, Christianity by benevolent purpose. Communism says: 'What is thine is mine. I will take it.' Christianity says: 'What is mine is thine. You may have it as you need it.'

Chicagoan Vice President.

"Communism starts and ends with temporarities; Christianity deals with the eternals."

Dr. Dodd said that Christianity accomplished all the good that communism claims for itself and then "takes up just where communism ends—at the spiritual interests of man."

The Rev. Dr. G. W. Truett of Texas was elected president of the congress. Vice presidents elected included the Rev. A. W. Beaven, president of the Colgate Rochester seminary at Rochester, N. Y., and Dr. L. K. Williams of Chicago. J. H. Rushbrooke was reelected secretary general.

$60,000 ESTATE LEFT BY WOMAN WHO DIED EATING POISON SCRAPS

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—With $60,0000 carefully hoarded in savings banks, Lillian Rosenfelt, 60 year old eccentric, lived in two cluttered basement rooms she obtained rent free most of the time by pleading poverty and made her meals from scraps taken from dumb-waiters and restaurant tables.

The size of her estate was revealed today in an accounting filed by her sister, Delia Rosenfelt, her sole survivor.

Lillian Rosenfelt died mysteriously July 26, 1933, indirectly from her passion for hoarding money. Unless necessary, she would not pay for food. That day she grabbed from a table in a restaurant two rolls. One was half eaten.

It contained poison, inserted by Henry Jellinek, 50, who committed suicide. Two hours later Miss Rosenfelt died. In a bag she clutched was the second roll.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Ossip Gabrilowitsch, regular conductor of the Detroit Symphony orchestra, is to begin tonight a three day appearance at the Ford Gardens with the orchestra, relieving Victor Kolar, summer conductor. When the concert goes on the air at 8:15 o'clock over WJJD-CBS, there will be a legion of listeners, not because Mr. Gabrilowitsch is the son-in-law of the late Mark Twain, but because his name is recognized everywhere in the civilized world as that of a distinguished musician. There was a time when it was different.

Some years ago Gabrilowitsch was giving a piano recital in a western town. A small audience was expected but the news about his Twain connection leaked out and every male who had ever read Tom Sawyer or whitewashed a fence rushed to the recital. When Gabrilowitsch arrived he was astonished to find the hall packed, mostly with men. About half way through the program he got a clew as to this masculine turnout. He heard one man whisper to another: "He may be Mark's son-in-law but he sure can play!"

When Anson Weeks leaves the Trianon and W-G-N at the end of the month he will replace Guy Lombardo's orchestra at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York and on NBC. The Lombardos will go to Toronto, Canada, to play six days at the fair, for which they will get $12,000. Then they go a-touring and vacationing. . . . Carlos Molina, the rhumba maestro, will be back on the air over WBBM-CBS from the Hotel Stevens, Saturday, Aug. 18, after playing this week at the Palace theater.

Jeanie Lang, the Giggle-O girl of radio, will arrive from New York tomorrow morning to reherse with Buddy Rogers for their new CBS musical romance series, which is to open at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. Jeanie is cast as the daughter of a fine old family whose fortune has crumbled. She opens the old mansion to dining and dancing in order to finance a sister's education. She engages Buddy's orchestra to provide the music and then romance starts. The show will go on the air from the ballroom of the Medinah club of Chicago.

The Rev. Father Charles Coughlin, crusading radio priest, will be heard again over his own network this fall. KYW concluded yesterday negotiations to carry his addresses from 3 to 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoons, beginning Oct. 28. . . . Duke Ellington's orchestra will broadcast the "Hall of Fame" show from local NBC studios Aug. 19. . . . Freeman Cosden's [Amos] "fishing" luck continues. He cabled his office that he landed a 160 pound seal and is now spending a few days hunting bears.

Ed Wynn will ride his horse to Milwaukee on Aug. 22 to be made an honorary member of the International Association of Fire Chiefs at their annual convention there. . . . Phillips Lord [Seth Parker] and NBC are reported to have settled their quarrel over Lord's jungle picture making activities. Lord was back on the air last night from his schooner anchored near Panama. He now plans to push on through the canal and continue his world cruise.

EVERGREEN PARK CHILD KILLED BY AUTO OF DOCTOR

Eugene Henin, 10 years old, of Evergreen Park, died yesterday in the Little Company of Mary hospital of injuries received when he was run over by an automobile at 95th street and California avenue. The driver of the car, Dr. J. S. Femedas, 1129 Watt avenue, was notified to attend the inquest.

Loretta Bradley, 8 years old, 2652 Orchard street, was struck and fatally injured last night before her home by an automobile driven by William Mersh, 6418 Newgard avenue. She died at the Children's Memorial hospital.

Another child, Eleanor Field, 7 years old, 843 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, was in the Oak Park hospital last night after she had been critically injured by a truck driven by William Panter, 2511 Washington boulevard, in front of 827 Madison street, Oak Park. Panter was released on $1,000 real estate bond.

An unidentified man about 45 years old was fatally injured late last night when he was struck at 54th and Halsted streets by an automobile driven by Robert Kuenle, 1945 West 59th street. He died at the German Deaconess hospital.

The deaths of the two children and the man yesterday brought the 1934 trafic toll for Cook county to 724.

George S. Tiffany, Former Cotton Broker, Dies at 56

Dark Harbor, Me., Aug. 9.—(AP)—George Shepley Tiffany, 56, former St. Louis cotton broker and prominent member of the exclusive Dark Harbor summer colony for 40 years, died today from a cerebral hemorrhage after an illness of three weeks. Tiffany was a former resident of Portland, going to St. Louis after his marriage. Following his retirement, he established his residence two years ago at Syosett, N. Y. He was a member of the St. Louis Cotton exchange and a graduate of Harvard university in the class of 1899.

KILLING OF BOY AT SHAM BATTLE LAID TO 'CRANK'

Three Other Persons Shot in Darkness.

Burwell, Neb., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—An investigation by civil and United States army authorities in the killing of a boy and wounding of three spectators last night during a sham battle between army cavalrymen at the Burwell rodeo, today centered on a search for a "crank" who is believed to have emptied a .38 caliber revolver in the direction of the grandstand while the lights were out.

It had first been supposed that the real bullets which whistled through the grandstand had been mistakenly fired by the cavalrymen instead of blank cartridges. Officers of the army unit, however, said their ammunition had been double checked and they were positive all shells fired by the troopers were blanks. Today the spent bullets were found and revealed as lead missiles, unlike ammunition used by the army.

County authorities expressed the belief they had been fired by some one who had a grudge against either the rodeo, one of the largest in the state, or the United States army. The mortally wounded boy, Billy Snyder, 7, and the other victims were not known to have been shot until the sham battle was over and the lights turned on.

U. S. TO COLLECT TAXES ON LIQUOR IN DRY STATES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The government is going to collect taxes on all liquor sold in dry states, and the states may do as they please about arresting the taxpayers.

This, in effect, was disclosed today by Secretary Morgenthau as he dusted off for use an eight year old law providing for the imposition of a $1,000 federal excise tax on anybody engaging in the liquor business in violation of state laws.

The tax collection records of the alcohol tax unit will be open to inspection, he pointed out, and should be a big help to local and state authorities that want to use them.

PRICES IN ALL MARKETS SOAR ON SILVER EDICT

New Tinkering with Currency Feared.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Fears of further inflation yesterday seized all markets following President Roosevelt's silver announcement. Stocks, commodities, and speculative bonds rose sharply and the American dollar took a nose dive in foreign exchange transactions.

The actual degree of inflation involved in the nationalization of silver announcement was regarded as unimportant. What stirred the financial community was disclosure of the fact that the administration at Washington was still facing definitly toward inflation. The President's speech at Green Bay was interpreted as an additional indication that the optimists who have been anticipating a move to the right by the administration have been wrong.

Results of Action.

The direct results of the President's move in nationalizing silver are expected to be approximately as follows:

1. The addition of approximately 322 million dollars of new silver dollars and silver certificates to the 5 billions, 373 millions of currency already in circulation. This is based on recent estimates placing the available silver in the nation at 250,000,000 ounces. The treasury can buy this silver at 50.01 cents per ounce, roughly 125 million dollars. Then it can arbitrarily revalue it for its own purposes at $1.2929 per ounce and issue $1.2929 worth of silver dollars or silver certificates against each 50 cent ounce of silver that it takes in.

2. Pressure of idle money on the banks [credit inflation] will become more intense because the total bank deposits of the nation will probably be increased by the amount of the increase in circulation of silver dollars and silver certificates. Bank reserves have already reached the excessive figure of 4 billion, 59 million dollars. The addition of 322 millions would raise them to about 4 billion, 381 millions.

Ends Trade on Exchange.

3. It will end all further business in silver trading on the metal exchange in New York, terminating speculation so far as the public in this country is concerned, the treasury buying and selling the metal like gold at prices fixed by itself, and with imports and exports controlled by licenses issuing from the treasury.

4. Speculators will reap a profit. The treasury will take over from them at 50.01 cents an ounce metal that they acquired at prices much lower. As recently as Aug. 3 silver was selling at only 46.40 cents an ounce, and previously it was much lower. Fifty per cent of such speculative profits will probably have to be paid over to the government as taxes under recently enacted legislation. Even so, the silver holder gets a big break. When gold was nationalized the holder of gold had to accept the statutory price of $20.67 an ounce, paid in devalued 59 cent dollars.

Will Get Same Price.

5. There will be no immediate effect on the silver mining industry. Mine operators will continue to receive 64½ cents an ounce for newly mined metal, the price set by the President last December 21, when he authorized the treasury to buy from mine operators at this price in order to subsidize them. Industries using the metal will continue to get silver under license, although probably at higher prices.

6. The treasury's purchase of silver will not cost it money. In fact, it will make a substantial profit. After paying 50.01 cents for an ounce of silver it can turn around and issue $1.2929 worth of new money against that same ounce. Presumably the seigniorage of 79.28 cents per ounce will be "profit," similar to the "profit" made by the treasury when it expropriated the federal reserve bank's gold and "revalued" it.

It is by no means certain that the amount of silver outstanding in the United States for the treasury to buy is 250,000,000 ounces. Nobody knows how much there is. Guesses have varied from 100,000,000 to 300,000,000. Senator Thomas estimated that the government would take over 200,000,000 ounces.

May Buy Abroad.

There is nothing in yesterday's presidential proclamation, however, to prevent the treasury from buying silver abroad. In fact, if the terms of the recent law authorizing a 75-25 ratio of gold and silver as the national monetary base are carried out, the treasury would have to buy nearly 2 billion dollars worth of silver abroad in addition to what it buys in this country.

"Smart" traders are believed to have made a killing in the silver market during the last few days. Rising silver prices and weakness of the dollar in foreign exchange have been pretty good indications that the administration's impending silver nationalization move was not entirely a secret.

The "nationalization" of silver

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—A scramble to sell dollars and to cover foreign exchange requirements was precipitated today by the unexpected announcement of the nationalization of silver. In the heaviest dealings since last fall the dollar fell to 99.38 per cent of its new parity as the French franc rose 5⅛ to 6.67½ cents, the highest price in months.

Near these levels gold exports are possible. Leading banks made immediate inquiries at the federal reserve bank in preparation for gold exports, but no licenses were formally applied for, it is understood. The gold export point is officially calculated at slightly above 6.69 cents and it is expected that licenses will not be issued for gold exports unless that figure is reached.

Pound Rises to $5.09¼.

The rush of orders to sell dollars came principally from commercial firms which had delayed in covering their requirements of foreign exchange during the last week in the hope that the dollar would rally. Such firms bid actively for sterling, running the pound up to $5.09¼, the highest price since May.

Dutch guilders went to the highest price since April 23 at 68.55 cents and closed at 68.50 cents, up 57 points; belgas rose to 23.83 cents, the best price since Nov. 16 last, and closed at 23.81 cents, up 20 points; Swiss francs reached 33.15 cents, the best price since last fall.

Canadian Dollar Strong.

The Canadian dollar sold at a premium of 2 11-16 cents and closed more than ½ cent higher on the day. German marks and Scandanavian currencies also closed higher.

The New York Federal Reserve bank's statement showed imports of $3,765,100 from England, $2,144,400 from Colombia, $1,920,100 from India, $1,673,900 from Canada and $70,700 from Ecuador. There was a loss of $2,215,100 through net increase of gold held under earmark for foreign account. No exports were reported.

RFC WILL LEND $10,000,000 TO AID HIDE INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—The federal government is about to go into the hides and lether business in a big way. The Reconstruction Finance corporation, it was announced today, is preparing to advance $10,000,000 to the Commodity Credit corporation for the carrying and handling of hides taken from cattle slaughtered in connection with the federal cattle purchase program.

Members of the hide industry have protested vigorously against the flood of marketable hides which followed inauguration of the government cattle buying program. After a number of conferences on the problem, it was agreed that the tanners would work out an agreement with the Commodity Credit corporation under which the hide dealers and processors would buy hides from the government whenever supply conditions would permit.

The RFC, Chairman Jesse Jones announced today, is prepared to advance up to ten million dollars for the carrying of hides. In this way, officials believe, the lether can be kept off the market until conditions permit it to be sold. The RFC, he explained, will finance the CCC hide buying program and the Commodity Credit corporation will carry them for the account of the Federal Surplus Relief administration.

FRANCE'S WHEAT PRICE FIXING SCHEME FAILS

PARIS, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The acknowledged breakdown of the French government's wheat price fixing scheme, with millers openly ignoring the law, today brought Premier Gaston Doumergue back from a vacation to call a special cabinet session for tomorrow.

The cabinet probably will devise some sort of subsidy for exporting wheat on a wholesale basis and may scrap portions of the scheme under which the price of the 1934 crop had been set at $1.95 a bushel.

The government's export subsidies are exhausted, eliminating all possibility of buying for export, and the market still is flooded, due to an estimated holdover of 75,000,000 bushels.

Flour millers have been defying the law, buying at prices determined by supply and demand and threatening to close their mills. The government has been conducting an inquiry, but it may be dropped if the situation is adjusted.

BANK CLEARINGS FOR WEEK 4.8 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Bank clearings in the principal cities of the United States amounted to $4,086,264,000 during the week ended Aug. 8, an increase of 4.8 per cent over the $3,899,389,000 in the corresponding week a year ago, according to Dun & Bradstreet.

Clearings at New York City amounted to $2,591,614,000, a decrease of 2.1 per cent from the $2,646,743,000 cleared in the same week a year ago.

The agency reported that the current week's clearings were higher than in the corresponding period last year for the first time since June 20.

NEW HOLC BOND ISSUE IS ONLY PARTIALLY SOLD

Suitable Bids Short by $22,888,900.

The treasury department failed by $22,888,900 to receive acceptable tenders in its public offering of $150,000,000 of Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds, according to an announcement made in Washington yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. The difference was largely made up through the purchase by the treasury of $22,000,000 of the bonds to be absorbed by its investment funds.

Offering of the bonds was made in three series of $50,000,000 each, maturing in two, three, and four years. Acceptable tenders practically covered the two year maturity, the deficiencies being in the longer term offerings. The interest rates on the three offerings—C, D, and E—are 1½, 1¾, and 2 per cent, respectively.

Statement by Morgenthau.

Secretary Morgenthau's statement follows, in part:

"Tenders aggregating $233,126,600 were received for the three series, of which tenders amounting to $127,111,100 were accepted. In accordance with the right reserved to reject any tenders, all those below 99 for the three and four year bonds were rejected as being unsatisfactory in price with the result that allotments for these two series were below the amounts offered. In addition to accepted bids the treasury will purchase for the benefit of its investment funds $8,000,000 of the three year and $14,000,000 of the four year bonds."

Reasons for the failure of the bonds to go over were ascribed in the financial district yesterday to a number of causes. It was stated that the bonds were something of an innovation, no one having seen short term government serial bonds. Some purchasers were kept away on this account.

Other Reasons Given.

Another reason given was that the offering followed too closely that of the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation's $100,000,000 of bonds which was made on July 23. It was stated that the market has not had sufficient time to digest this offering. Further, it was explained that the market is in a ticklish position, in a large measure due to inflation possibilities.

"The market cannot be expected to improve in this respect," one authority asserted, "until the President makes some definite statement of his monetary policy. There must be a commitment to sound money if the market is to improve."

Another reason for the failure, it was stated, was the fact the treasury officials did not test the market. In addition, many of the banks, unable to make up their minds, decided to sit back and let the market get a price. Then the bonds themselves carried certain exceptions with respect to tax exemption not held by treasury obligations, which made them less attractive.

One dealer said that a substantial amount of the two year bonds were moved yesterday at sizable premiums over what was paid for them.

Details of Tenders.

Tenders were received totaling $124,462,500 for the series C bonds, maturing Aug. 15, 1936, of which $49,736,000 was accepted at prices ranging from 101.590 down to 100.411. The average price is 100.677 and based on this the yield to maturity is about 1.15 per cent.

A total of $48,177,000 was applied for in connection with the series D bonds, maturing in 1937, of which $41,843,000 was accepted at prices ranging from 101.130 down to 99. The average price was 99.931, and based on this the yield to maturity is about 1.77 per cent.

Applications for the E bonds, maturing in 1938, totaled $60,487,100, of which $35,532,100 was accepted at prices ranging from 101.035 down to 99. The average price was 99.962, and based on this the yield to maturity is about 2.01 per cent.

FCA Adds 62 Counties to Its Drouth Relief List

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The list of secondary drouth counties in which the Farm Credit administration will make crop and feed loans to farmers and stockmen was increased today by the addition of 62 counties in Arkansas, Idaho, Michigan, Montana and Texas. The loans, advanced from the $40,000,000 crop loan appropriation, may be used for purchasing live stock feed, for general purposes, for summer fallowing, or for a combination of these uses.

Cities Will Get $575,331 on Fuel Tax Collections

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The finance department today announced that Illinois municipalities will get $575,331 as their share of the July motor fuel tax collections. Chicago will receive $309,005. Counties and municipalities which formerly got one-third each of the gas tax had their share cut to two-ninths by the special session school relief law.

Federal Bonds Crash, Then Rally Sharply

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—The market for United States government bonds was thrown into wild confusion on the news of the silver nationalization proclamation.

In the heaviest trading since Dec. 30, 1920, federal issues opened lower, declined further in the forenoon, broke badly on the silver announcement, then recovered sharply in the later trading on support attributed to government agencies. The close was uneven.

Most Active Since 1922.

Total transactions in government bonds on the exchange reached $21,619,500, with an indicated turnover in government issues in the over the counter and listed markets of close to $250,000,000. The heavy dealings in government bonds brought the trading total for the listed bond market, including corporation and foreign loans, to $29,910,200, the heaviest since April 12, 1922.

Domestic corporation bonds were irregularly lower on the day with the major declines for the active issues amounting to a point or two. The more speculative issues were the weakest, as a rule. Industrial bonds held up a bit stronger than did railroad and public utility issues.

Foreign Loans Improve.

Foreign loans showed some improvement. A number of German issues moved up a point or more, the government 7s advancing a point and the 5½s half a point. Italian issues were easier while French and British government loans pointed higher. A burst of strength in Argentine government issues with gains of 1 to 3 points for most of the issues featured dealings in Latin American loans.

On the Curb exchange domestic bonds were irregularly lower in moderately active trading. Foreign loans, in light dealings, were steady.

FARM BUREAUS WISH TO HANDLE TVA FERTILIZER

The American Farm Bureau federation, meeting yesterday at the Hotel Sherman, adopted a resolution asking permission of the government to participate in the distribution to farmers of fertilizer to be manufactured at Muscle Shoals starting Oct. 1. Dr. A. E. Morgan, member of the Tennessee Valley authority in charge of fertilizer production, told the meeting that the fertilizer is to be distributed to farmers to aid in replacing top soil ruined by dust storms.

Dr. Morgan said that alarm over the denuded soil in cotton and wheat sections of the country had caused the government to experiment in an attempt to produce cheap fertilizer at Muscle Shoals. Fertilizer produced there is necessary in addition to the 7,000,000 tons normally used in the United States, Dr. Morgan said.

President Edward A. O'Neal told the meeting that "parity," pre-war balance of prices long demanded by farmers, is near. He said that drouth and crop control together probably "will raise prices to parity before very long."

ARCHITECT ASKS BANKRUPTCY; HAS $486,911 IN DEBTS

Edward George McClellan, an architect, 6430 South Greenwood avenue, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court, listing liabilities of $486,911 and nominal assets of only $378. Of the liabilities, the petition said, $265,924 is secured by real estate collateral.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was also filed against the Mrs. Stevens Candy company, operator of several candy stores in Chicago. According to the petition filed on behalf of three creditors, the liabilities of the concern are in excess of $70,000 and the assets are about $10,000.

The Rowantrees Hotel company, owners of a hotel at 500 Englewood avenue, filed a voluntary petition under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy law. Liabilities are scheduled in the petition at approximately $100,000 and the asstes are the undetermined value of the hotel.

New York Curb Exchange Seat Is Sold for $18,500

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a membership on the New York Curb exchange for $18,500, a decline of $4,500 from the previous sale arranged on Wednesday at $23,000.

COMMODITIES RISE TO NEW HIGHS FOR YEAR OR LONGER

New high quotations for the year were established again yesterday in principal foodstuffs and other commodities. The markets have been advancing to successive new high quotations for the year for several days. The inflation scare coupled with the known shortages in the leading crops contributed to the advance.

Among the commodities reaching new high prices for the year or longer were butter and eggs, cotton, all principal grains and hogs. The following table shows yesterday's closing prices, the previous day's quotations and the low prices for the year:

The Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad declared a dividend of $7 on the prior lien stock for the period from May 1, 1928, to April 30, 1929. The dividend is payable Aug. 18. The previous dividend was a $7 payment on Sept. 27, 1933.

Katz Drug company declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common in addition to the regular quarterly $1.62½ on the preferred. In the previous quarter 50 cents a share was paid on the common.

Franklin Simon & Co. omitted the $1.75 a share quarterly due at this time on its 7 per cent preferred stock.

Indiana Hydro Electric Power corporation declared a dividend of 87½ cents a share on account of accumulations on the 7 per cent preferred. After this distribution accumulations will be $5.25 a share.

Reliance International corporation declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on account of accumulations on its no par value $3 preferred stock. After this distribution accumulations will be $4.75 a share.

Mohawk Carpet Mills, Inc., declared a dividend of 25 cents. This is the first dividend since March 31, 1930, when a quarterly payment of 75 cents was made.

CITY WILL START WRECKING UNFIT DWELLINGS SOON

Demolition of unfit dwellings by the city will start shortly, it was announced yesterday. Two buildings have been given ten day notices which expire today and unless the owners repair them condemnation proceedings will be started.

Meanwhile the city wide campaign to remove unsafe and insanitary buildings inaugurated by the Metropolitan Housing council in coöperation with various local civic bodies, has reached a total of ninety-three under contract for demolition. Forty-one already have been torn down, according to Roscoe J. Barrett, assistant secretary of the state housing board, which yesterday accepted bids for the wrecking of fifteen buildings by that body.

The two buildings which have been given ten day notices by the city are the four story structure at 2943-45 South Wabash avenue, owned by Lillian E. Kashek, and the four story building at 2916-20 South State street, owned by John J. Leight.

Cut Rates on Live Stock to Meet Trucks

The transportation committee of the Chicago Live Stock exchange announced yesterday that railroads are planning a reduction in freight rates on live stock hauled into Chicago which will mean a saving of between $1,250,000 and $1,500,000 the first year that the new tarifs are in effect.

The reduced rate on live stock is scheduled for Sept. 1 and will range from 1 cent to as high as 7½ cents per hundred pounds on cattle and small stock, double deck, with reductions up to 10 cents in some instances on small stock in single deck. Farmers shipping to the Chicago market from distances up to 475 miles from here will benefit by the tarifs carrying these reduced rates.

The saving per carload on shipments will range from $2.20 to a high of $16.50 for the minimum car, which is 22,000 pounds, and correspondingly greater reductions where cars are loaded in excess of the minimum.

Roads to Vie with Trucks.

Railroads have suffered greatly since hauling of live stock by trucks became so popular in recent years, and this reduction in freight rates is regarded as the first real step the railroads have taken to recapture the deep inroads into their business in the chief producing areas tributary to the Chicago market. The greatest reductions are in the sections where competition of trucks is keenest. Farmers in western Illinois and eastern Iowa who do most of their hauling by truck are offered the greatest saving by the railroads' bid for business.

These reduced rates are to be applicable from all state and interstate points within 475 miles of the Chicago market, except that they will not apply from points in Illinois located on the Santa Fe railroad and south thereof, Chicago to Peoria, Ill., and points south of the Illinois river, Peoria to Grafto.., Ill.

Santa Fe Ponders Action.

The question of whether or not reductions will be made from points in Illinois on the Santa Fe railroad and south of the Illinois river is still under consideration. There are difficulties in this section regarding the new rates, since to obtain reductions from these points involves acquiescence by the eastern lines, which seem opposed to making any reductions.

The new rates will not involve the present rule permitting the 10,000 pound minimum at the hog rate from points within 260 miles of Chicago.

PULLMAN NETS $228,680 DURING JUNE QUARTER

Pullman, Inc., and subsidiaries yesterday reported that net income for the quarter ended June 30 amounted to $228,680, compared with a deficit of $860,487 in the corresponding period of last year.

Earnings from all sources, after deductions for operating expenses and reserve for federal income taxes, totaled $3,240,735, against $2,147,927 during the June quarter of last year. Charges and allowance for depreciation were $3,012,055, compared with $3,008,415 a year ago.

Pullman company, sleeping car affiliate of Pullman, Inc., reported net earnings after taxes of $14,652 for June, compared with $318,982 for June, 1933. For the first six months net loss after taxes amounted to $172,322, compared with a loss of $1,715,678 for the first half of last year.

Inflation Talk Causes Brisk Stock Rally

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—Speculative Wall street read the silver nationalization order as another venture in monetary inflation and a signal for a further all-around markup in prices.

The effect on the stock market was the sharpest rally in weeks on a buying wave that ran up a total of 1,420,000 shares, or considerably more than double that of yesterday. Gains ran as high as 5 points, with the silver metal shares setting the pace. The movement reached its greatest momentum in the final hour of trading when the ticker was distanced for several minutes in the rush to convert shrinking dollars into equities.

Leaders of Rally.

Among the more impressive performers on the rally were Allied Chemical, with a gain of 3¾; American Smelting, up 3¼; United States Smelting, 4¾; International Silver, 3; American Sugar, 3; American Can, 2⅜; Spiegel May Stern, 5⅛; Ingersoll Rand, 3¼; Case Threshing Machine, 2; Sears Roebuck and Union Pacific, 2 each, and Atchison, 2¼ points.

The movement was late in getting under way. At first the speculative community didn't know exactly what to make of the order. Prices generally were idling around below yesterday's closing levels when the order came out and they held almost motionless around that level for a half hour or so while the politico-economic sharks of the market tried to puzzle the probable meaning of it all.

When they finally decided that the thing meant inflation, buying orders began to dribble into the market, increasing gradually in size and volume as the session wore on and more and more converts took their stand, until the late afternoon when the movement began hitting on "all four," in the phrase of beneficiaries.

Whole List Advances.

The beginning of the last hour found the whole list moving forward on a broad front, even the rails, which have been a drag on the market for months, and the utilities, which have been out of favor lately on talk of further government regulation and possibly government ownership, joining in heartily. Atchison rose more than 4 points from its low of the day, and New York Central, Lackawanna and others registered substantial improvements.

In the motors, General Motors was a strong spot, scoring a net gain of nearly two points after early weakness, and United States Steel crossed 35 after dropping below 32 in the forenoon.

Even the oils perked up, although the showing of this group on the whole was no great shakes. Alcohols and foods improved with the rest.

RAILROAD RATE PARLEY ADJOURNS UNTIL AUGUST 16

The conference of the American Railway association's committee of freight trafic officials at the Drake hotel was adjourned yesterday until Aug. 16. In the meantime freight officials will meet with costal shipping and inland waterway interests and with executives of the Canadian railroads in an endeavor to come to an agreement regarding rates.

Faced with the necessity of having to raise an amount variously estimated at $300,000,000 to $360,000,000 on an annual basis to meet increased operating costs, the freight executives have been attempting to decide what commodities will stand higher rates without being driven to the competitive services.

In the forthcoming conferences, railroad executives will meet next week in New York with representatives of costal shipping lines, in Chicago with representatives of inland waterways and Canadian roads, and in San Francisco with Pacific coast shipping interests.

GRAINS CLIMB FOR FIFTH DAY IN HEAVY TRADE

Silver Action Helps Boom Market.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The grain market advanced for the fifth consecutive day yesterday and completely surprised the majority of professional traders who for several days have been braced for a reaction. The presidential proclamation nationalizing silver was interpreted as a further significant step in the direction of inflation and brought a tremendous volume of trading of both professional and public origin into the market.

Wheat closed 1¼ cents a bushel higher and corn advanced 3⅜ cents, with oats, rye, and barley sharing the strength, and each closing with material gains. The buying lifted all grain futures to new high levels for the season. September wheat closed at $1.10⅝ a bushel or 22½ cents above the price prevailing just a month ago. September corn finished the day at 79⅝ cents a bushel as compared with the price a month ago of 57 cents.

Trading Volume Increases.

The volume of trading in all grains was the biggest witnessed in some time. The scene on the trading floor, particularly in the corn pit, resembled the bull markets of other years. The inflation scare contained in the administration's silver action was credited with bringing out a big share of the buying. Traders recalled that it was just a year ago that an earlier inflation threat sent the price of grains skyrocketing and carried wheat to $1.26 a bushel.

Other news dovetailed with the inflationary developments provided a basis for the higher prices. Crop news from this country and Canada was almost pessimistic and the government forecast, which will be made today, is expected to confirm the reports of destruction and damage which have been pouring in for several days.

Revises Corn Crop Estimate.

R. O. Cromwell, Lamson Brothers & Co., yesterday revised his estimate on the Iowa corn corp to 229,000,000 bushels, or 46,000,000 bushels less than he estimated ten days ago. The reports of the private crop authorities on Aug. 1 indicated a corn crop of 1,658,000,000 bushels.

The government's report is expected to pare this figure around 150,000,000 bushels. In some quarters it is believed that the estimate will be even more drastically curtailed. The figures on the wheat crop are not expected to show a material change, although many believe that the final yield of winter wheat will be bigger than was predicted earlier.

Small Speculators Increase.

Although public participation in the grain markets has been somewhat disappointing to brokers considering the crop outlook, there is evidence that the small speculators are coming in in increasing numbers. The majority of professional traders have been following a cautious policy all week and a normal reaction on the heels of the long advance in prices was not unexpected. The market, however, has absorbed heavy profit taking and each day has closed higher, indicating that the market is no longer the purely professional affair that it had been for so many weeks.

Interest in the subsidiary grains has widened steadily. After lagging for several days oats futures yesterday displayed conspicuous strength and finished from 2¼ to 2⅞ cents higher. Rye closed from ½ cent to 1⅜ cents higher and barley climbed to 2¼ to 2⅛ cents.

KENNEDY ADOPTS CAUTIOUS POLICY ON MARKET RULE

Fears Precipitate Action Will Hurt Securities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Aware of the present nervous condition of the stock market, Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the Federal Securities Exchange commission has adopted a policy of extreme caution in extending the arm of government control about the nation's stock exchanges, it became apparent today.

Fearful that precipitate imposition of rigid restrictions and regulations will have a serious effect on security values and cause corporations to withdraw their stock from the exchanges, Mr. Kennedy and his fellow members of the commission have decided to bring the exchanges gradually within the control of the government.

Extends Listing Date.

The commission, it was learned today, has decided to waive until June 1 next the strict listing and registration requirements set forth in the stock exchange control act. Instead of promulgating regulations as rigid as those outlined in the act, it was understood, the commission intends by next Thursday to approve temporary rules covering the registration of exchanges and the registration of security issues. The temporary regulations, it was reported, will be considerably less severe than had originally been intended.

In deferring imposition of the more rigid regulations the commission is taking advantage of language in the stock exchange control act which permits a mitigation of federal control when it is deemed "necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors."

The temporary requirements for registration of exchanges, it was reported, will compel corporations to make the same reports they now render to exchanges on which they are listed; to file with the commission the holdings over 10 per cent of officers and directors in their own corporations; to comply with the provision designed to prevent speculation by corporation directors and officials in their own stock, and to solicit proxies only as approved by the commission.

Hears Smaller Exchanges.

Meanwhile, in continuation of his policy of permitting the exchanges a voice in the preparation of federal rules and regulations governing their operation, Chairman Kennedy listened today to spokesmen for the nation's smaller security marts outline their ideas of government control. Several days ago Mr. Kennedy held a similar conference with officials of the New York Stock exchange, where the bulk of securities trading is done.

The purpose of the conference today, it was said, was to provide the exchanges with an opportunity to discuss the regulations which will shortly be issued by the new federal agency. Thus far, according to reports, members of the industry have described the proposed regulations as "fair and reasonable."

GENERAL BUYING SENDS LARD FUTURES TO NEW HIGH MARK

A broad general buying movement with the public well represented sent all deliveries of lard and bellies soaring to a new high level for the season on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. Cash lard was quoted at $8.15 at the last, loose at $7.50, and leaf at $7.50, the best figures since October, 1931.

Closing trade on futures were at the top, with lard up 15 to 30 cents and bellies, 27½ to 32½ cents for the day. The upturn in lard was in the face of heavy profit taking and also hedging sales, but this was offset by inflation talk and the strength in grains and cotton. Cash bellies were quoted at $11.10 at the last. Prices follow:

U. S. TELLS HOW TO BORROW FOR HOME REPAIRS

Sends Full Information to Chicago Banks.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago banks this morning will receive a bulletin from the Federal Housing administration at Washington, D. C., giving the general procedure to be followed if they see fit to participate in the new federal modernization program and lend money to home owners for house repairs. A similar booklet, telling what the home owner must do when he locates a bank willing to lend him money to modernize his home, will be issued shortly, Washington announced.

After listing three typical plans for obtaining modernization credits, the bulletin says: "There is one basic requirement with which every method must comply. A financial institution may not collect in interest, discount or fee a total charge exceeding an amount equivalent to $5 discount per year per $100 original face amount of the note, the note to be paid in periodic equal installments not oftener than once a month.

May Offer Lower Rate.

"Any financial institution desiring to provide modernization credits at a lower cost may, of course, do so."

In addition to telling the banks in detail how the credit plan works, the bulletin gives the following questions and answers for the benefit of prospective borrowers:

Q.—Who may apply?

A.—Any property owner, individual, partnership or corporation with a regular income from salary, commissions, business, or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.

Q.—To whom do I apply?

A.—To any national bank, state bank or trust company, savings bank, industrial bank, building and loan association, or finance company approved by the Federal Housing administration; or to a contractor or building supply dealer.

Amounts Available.

Q.—How much may I apply for?

A.—From $100 to $2,000, depending on your income, for improvements on any one property, and in connection with not more than five properties unless approved by the Federal Housing administration, Washington, D. C.

Q.—How long may notes run?

A.—For any number of months from one to three years. [Notes extending from thirty-seven months to five years may be submitted to the FHA by financial institutions for special consideration.]

Q.—What security is required?

A.—That you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community.

Q.—What assurance need I give?

A.—[a] That you own the property.

[b] That the income of the signers of the note is at least five times the annual payments on the note.

[c] That your mortgage, if any, is in good standing, and that there are no other past due incumbrances or liens against your property.

[d] That you will use the proceeds solely for property improvement.

Properties to Be Aided.

Q.—May the owner of any kind of property apply?

A.—Applications will be considered for credit to improve one family, two family or other residences, apartment buildings, stores, office buildings, factories, warehouses, farm buildings.

Q.—What signatures are required on the note?

A.—Signature of the property owner; and [except in special cases] if the owner is an individual and is married, also signature of wife or husband. No other co-signers or indorsers are required.

Q.—What if I am late in making my payment?

A.—The maker must not permit his payments to fall in arrears. Should a payment be more than 15 days late, the financial institution's expenses, caused thereby, should be reimbursed in part at the rate of not more than five cents per dollar for each payment in arrears. Persistent delinquency will make it necessary for the financial institution to take proper steps to effect collection in full.

WILL NOT CLASSIFY LOANS.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—F. G. Awalt, acting controler of the currency, today disclosed that national bank examiners would be instructed not to classify loans made by banks in connection with the Federal Housing administration's home modernization program. Loans on promissory notes ordinarily are labeled "good," "slow," "doubtful," or "loss."

Awalt explained that such designations were unnecessary since all loans complying with housing regulations will be automatically insured up to 20 per cent of the total so advanced by an institution that has a contract with the administration.

"The making of loans of this type by national banks is a matter of internal business administration to be determined by each bank," Awalt said in a letter to James A. Moffett, housing administrator.

NEW HIGH LEVELS REACHED BY EGG, BUTTER FUTURES

New high levels for butter and egg futures were established yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Butter closed ⅜ cents higher with the November delivery only ⅛ cent under the best figure of 1933. Eggs advanced ¼ cent, while potatoes dropped 5 cents, the latter per 100 pounds.

The markets were big broad affairs with new speculation coming in as the result of the continued unfavorable weather conditions and the sharp bulge in grains. In addition storage statistics were regarded as bullish. Heavy profit taking was readily absorbed and the close was about the top. There was some talk of the possibility of 25 to 35 cents per dozen being witnessed for eggs before spring.

Sales: Butter, 168 cars; eggs, 244 cars; potatoes, 1 car. Prices follow:

COTTON FUTURES HIT NEW HIGH LEVEL FOR SEASON

Cotton futures added around $1 per bale yesterday to its upturn of Wednesday, and at the close prices in the local market showed practically $3.50 per bale advance in two days. There was general public buying in evidence in all markets with prices carried upward to new high levels for the season.

A break of around $1 per bale occurred at one time on profit taking by longs but later nationalization of silver brought in renewed buying and the close was about the top with net gains of 19 to 24 points in Chicago and 14 to 19 points in other markets.

Spot cotton closed 15 to 20 points higher with New Orleans, 13.80 cents; Galveston, 13.75 cents; Houston, 13.70 cents, and New York, 13.95 cents per pound. Prices follow:

HIDE FUTURES.

A record trade was under way in hide futures in New York yesterday, sales aggregating 150 lots or 6,000,000 pounds, exceeding by about 700,000 pounds the figure established early in the week. Inflation talk based on the nationalization of silver and the growing desire on the part of the public to enter the commodity markets was a factor. Prices advanced 25 to 40 points. Closing bids on old style contracts were at 6.35c for September; 6.60c for December, and 6.70c for March, while standard contracts for September were at 7c; December, 7.50c; March, 7.75c, and June, 8c.

makes the same kind of freak out of the United States silver certificate that the "nationalization" of gold made out of the United States gold certificate. Both are supposed to be warehouse receipts for the metal they represent. But neither can be exchanged for its metal and there is nothing to assure the holder against further devaluation.

HALT SILVER TRADING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—Trading in silver futures was suspended on the New York Commodity exchange at 11:59 a. m. today, a few minutes after financial news tickers had carried the news that the President had decreed the nationalization of silver, arresting the market in the most active trading it had encountered since the signing of the silver purchase act on June 19, 1934.

The government's action took the market by surprise, although the silver rings' increasing activity in the last few days had led many traders to believe that something important was pending. Opening lower under speculative selling, fresh buying came into the market and spot silver rose to 49¼ cents, while the May delivery crossed 50 cents before trading was halted.

The volume of trading in the two hour market today amounted to 4,525,000 ounces, comparing with 3,825,000 ounces for the full trading day yesterday, with 2,600,000 ounces on Tuesday, and with 775,000 ounces on Monday. This large volume was attributed to the treasury's own operations.

Predict $1.29 for Silver.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Silver at or near its old time price of $1.29 an ounce was foreseen by some experts today as the eventual result of President Roosevelt's order nationalizing the white metal.

"A process that will hasten the complete absorption of the silver surplus in the world," was the way Senator Key Pittman described the order in his home state, Nevada—formerly one of the greatest silver producing areas in the world. He predicted the price would be increased gradually to $1.29 an ounce.

"Then the governments of the world will be in a position to open their mints for unlimited coinage at the ratio that exists in the United States," he added. "This will settle the silver question forever."

Whatever direct benefits may accrue as the result of price boosts will go mainly to the Rocky mountain and far west, which produce nearly all the silver in this country.

Canadian Mining Stocks Rise.

Toronto, Aug. 9.—(AP)—News that the United States government is nationalizing silver gave the mining section of the Toronto Stock exchange a distinct price boost. Base metals recorded the best general response in Toronto, suggesting the nationalization of silver was regarded in financial circles as heralding new inflation.

Ship Silver from London.

London, Aug. 9.—(AP)—About the time word of President Roosevelt's action to nationalize silver in the United States reached London one of the largest shipments of gold and silver ever made to America was started on its way.

The shipment consisted of 4,000 bars of silver and sixty boxes of gold. The value was not stated, but the metal was closely guarded and required eleven cars for transportation to Southampton where it was loaded on the liner President Roosevelt under strict police supervision.

Mexico Expects Benefit.

Mexico, D. F., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Bankers and silver brokers agreed today that the nationalization of silver in the United States promises important financial benefits to Mexico, producer of 40 per cent of the world's output. Producers and brokers believe that as a result of the action of the United States, Mexico may become the principal silver market.

Asset Value of Atlas Corp. Portfolio Shows Decline

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The portfolio of the Atlas corporation, one of the largest investment trusts, has an indicated asset value of about $10.25 a common share compared with an indicated value last June 30 of $11.18 a share, it was announced today in connection with the corporation's half-year report. The latest figure reflected the decline in share values since June. Floyd B. Odlum, president, stated there had been no great change in the character of the company's investments in the first six months of the year.

RESERVE LENDS $23,000 IN DRIVE TO AID INDUSTRY

Has Difficulty in Finding Suitable Loans.

The federal reserve banks last week put out another $23,000 in loans to industrial enterprises in their campaign to expand credit, which was imposed upon them by the last congress. The week's disbursements brought the total made so far to $28,000. The initial loan of $5,000 showed up in the preceding week's statement.

The "direct loans" by which congress hoped to force commercial bankers to expand credit are given a separate entry in the combined statement of the 12 reserve banks. Their insignificance as a factor in the credit system is evident. While the $23,000 was being put out last week, the total of reserve bank credit was declining $5,000,000 and loans and investments of the New York member banks alone shrunk $83,000,000. The smallness of the loans made so far, is attributed by reserve officials to their inability to find sound borrowers who want to borrow. The same situation has faced commercial bankers for the last two years. It still faces them, judging from yesterday's reserve statement. No direct loans have been made in the Chicago district, the reserve bank here reported.

Reserves Expand Again.

Reserves of member banks, after a temporary decline during the preceding week, expanded again and now stand at the record figure of $4,059,000,000. These balances that the member banks leave on deposit at the reserve institutions represent the reserve required by law and excess funds for which no profitable employment can be found.

The nation's gold stocks expanded again last week, with an additional $25,000,000 of imports reported. At the same time the reserve system holdings of gold certificates showed a comparable increase.

Credit Shrinks $83,000,000.

The shrinkage of $83,000,000 of total credit of the New York member banks was accounted for largely by the decline of $58,000,000 in loans to brokers. Holdings of U. S. government securities were reduced by $25,000,000, while other types of credit showed little change. Indicated gross deposits of the New York banks declined $40,000,000.

In Chicago member bank deposits were off an indicated $8,000,000 and total loans and discounts were down $5,000,000. Commercial loans, however, expanded $5,000,000, but this increase was offset by declines in other forms of credit.

ROSELAND STATE BANK WILL PAY ANOTHER 5%

2 Other Institutions Plan Disbursements.

Payment of another 5 per cent to depositors of the Roseland State Savings bank was authorized yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. It also was learned that two other closed banks, the Norwood Park Trust and Savings bank and the State Bank of Palatine, will make their first payments in the next two weeks.

The Roseland State, closed in July, 1931, has one of the most economical receivership records in Cook county. The current payment of $79,851 brings the total return to depositors to 40 per cent. This amounts to $640,394 or 65 per cent of all receipts of liquidation. Preferred and secured creditors have received $148,444, another 15 per cent. Receivership, attorney and clerical costs have been only 10 per cent and protection of assets a like amount. The combined average realized by depositors and prior creditors in Cook county has been 68 per cent.

Norwood to Pay 25 Per Cent.

The Norwood Park bank will pay 25 per cent of deposit liability of $95,845 late next week. The bank closed Dec. 27, 1932, and has paid nothing previously. Protection of assets and clerical expense have taken almost 30 per cent of liquidation, but receiver and attorney fees are low. Both this payment and that of the Palatine bank have been made possible through loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. William L. O'Connell is receiver for the three banks.

John A. Carroll, former head of three closed south side banks and receiver of another, yesterday filed suit in Superior court against the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company for $1,000,000 in damages alleged to have been suffered in the closing of the three banks. He also asked an injunction to prevent disposal of insurance policies and other securities valued at $714,230.

The latter represented Carroll's entire "free and unpledged personal fortune" in 1931. He said that these were not to secure loans to keep his three banks afloat but were turned over as a gesture of appreciation and as a sign of his own good faith. The loans, he said, were adequately secured by holdings valued at $1,789,495 and were repaid.

An official of the Continental bank, however, said that Carroll owes the bank money.

Makes Conspiracy Charge.

Failure of his three banks, Hyde Park-Kenwood National, Jackson Park National, and South Shore State, was caused directly by a conspiracy between the Continental and the First National bank to prevent his obtaining a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation or from either of them, Carroll asserted in the bill filed by Attorney Frederick A. Thulin. He alleged that this was part of a plan to break Chicago's outlying banks.

C., M., St. P. & P.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly furnish me a report on C., M., St. P. & P. 5s, due 2000?—D. C. M.

Answer: Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company [the "St. Paul"] operates about 11,300 miles of track from Chicago to Milwaukee and Duluth west to the Pacific coast. The territory traversed supplies trafic about evenly divided between agricultural, mineral, and lumber products. The status of agriculture plays an important part in the road's earnings, not only from the point of volume of agricultural freight but it is a major factor in determining the purchasing power of the residents.

Low state of agriculture during recent years has had an adverse effect on earnings. On top of that the road has had keen competition from other rails paralleling its lines and there has been diversion of transcontinental freight to ships operating through the Panama canal, to pipe lines, and to motor vehicles.

Some upturn was evidenced in the early part of 1934. In the first five months the company earned 28 per cent of charges, against a 15 per cent coverage in the corresponding 1933 period. In 1933 it earned 41 per cent of charges, against a 4 per cent coverage in 1932, 48 per cent in 1931, and 80 per cent in 1930.

On May 31, 1934, current assets were $25,041,000 and current liabilities were $17,331,000. The 182,874,000 convertible adjustment 5s, due in the year 2000, are secured only by a general lien on the company's properties, subject to a large amount of underlying liens. Interest is payable only on an income basis. If not paid, interest accumulates. No interest has been paid since April 1, 1932.

The bonds are quite speculative.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 9.—(AP)—FLOUR—Prices were 15 cents higher today. Carload lots of family patent were quoted at $7.85@8.05 a barrel in 98 pound cotton sacks. Shipments were 20,919 brls. Pure bran was quoted at $23.50@24.00, and standard middlings at $25.00@25.50.

HOGS ADVANCE AT ALL CENTERS; LOSE GAIN HERE

Top of $8, Including Tax, Paid in East.

Higher prices were paid for hogs at all leading packing centers in the country yesterday, and the first $8 hogs in three years appeared at some of the eastern markets. This is the price the packer pays, including the $2.25 processing tax. Returns to the farmer at the highest places in the east were $5.85 and at the highest of the middle western markets farmers obtained $5.55 for their top grades.

Hogs at Chicago ruled steady to 10 cents higher at the opening, but the trade turned soft later and the close was slow and about steady with the average of the previous session. Sultry weather and its effect on the pork trade discouraged some of the smaller interests from buying in volume, but receipts showed signs of falling off and little stock remained unsold at the close of the session.

Packers paid up to $7.65 for selected 235 pound butchers, of which the farmer got $5.40, the highest return since last October. The farmers' price was within 15 cents of the highest mark since October, 1931. Yesterday's general average price, tax included, figured $7.10, or steady with Wednesday.

Notwithstanding yesterday's rise to new high levels for the year, the Chicago market is relatively the lowest in the country, prices here actually showing losses of 15 to 25 cents compared with points in the west which ordinarily are about 25 cents lower than the Chicago price level. Members of the trade here are at a loss for an explanation, as the elevated level of prices at some of the western points is said to be the result of buying by eastern packing houses through their representatives, whereas buying by these interests at Chicago has been comparatively light in view of the saving possible here the last few days.

Cattle Lower "on Paper."

Cattle prices were lower "on paper" and trading progressed extremely slowly, but the decline in price was entirely due to the liberal water fills taken by cattle and "dressed costs" were fully as high as they have been any time this week, according to packers. An oversupply of cows and liberal supplies of drouth stock from the southwest showed most weakness, and some of both were reported carried over unsold at the close of trading.

The bulk of the best grades of steers cashed at $7 to $8.25. Veal calves were firm again, the best selling up to $6 to $6.50.

Little change was found in the lamb trade. Both packers and city butchers paid up to $7.75 for the selected natives, while the range lambs sold at $7.25 to $7.60, those at the highest figure carrying a 10 per cent sort. Yearling sheep advanced 50 cents.

CONSUMER MAY BE PRINCIPAL DROUTH VICTIM

The consumer stands a good chance of being the principal victim of the drouth, according to present indications. Prices of the principal grains continue to rise, reflecting the abnormally short crops. Current prices give promise that the farmers' return on his short crops will be at least equal and probably greater than it was last year on larger yields. The corn crop will probably run a third less than last year's yield, but the rise in price will more than make up the deficiency.

The following table attempts to show the actual return to the producer of leading farm commodities on the basis of yesterday's prices. Comparisons are made with the return he received on July 15 and for the years 1909 to 1914.

The figures are those of the government. Yesterday's prices were arrived at by adding the price accrual that has occurred since July 15 and are based on the assumption that the producer will receive the full benefit of the rise.

Foodstuffs are being hauled by trucks in large quantities from Iowa and Illinois to the drouth stricken states of the southwest. Numerous trucks from Oklahoma and Missouri are reported to be hauling back feed which will never be seen at terminal markets. Farmers are swapping among themselves to fill their needs. Reports from Iowa state that around Percival farmers are selling their standing corn fields to Nebraska farmers for $2 an acre. The corn is cut with a corn binder and hauled home in trucks by the buyers for feed.

Cash oats in Omaha and Kansas City are selling at a premium over Chicago. September and December corn in Kansas City is also bringing a premium over Chicago quotations.

Two memberships on the Chicago Board of Trade were sold yesterday. One seat brought $9,300 and an earlier sale was reported at $9,500. On the previous day a sale was reported at $9,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil closed firm today, after early reactions. Prices reached new highs for the season, with the market closing up 6 to 13 points. Sales, 144 contracts.

Realizing pressure accumulated overnight caused early losses of 2 to 9 points, but inflationary talk following announcement of silver nationalization brought in renewed general buying and covering, and the setback was more than recovered, with final prices at about the best of the session. The strength of lard, cotton, and grains was also a factor. Bleachable spot nominal; September closed at 6.74c; October, 6.78c; December, 6.98c; January, 7.01c; March, 7.15c.
